CROP CONTROL BILL PASSED BY HOUSE 268-129

It Provides for Continuing Soil Conservation and for Benefit Payments to Growers.

PERMITS QUOTAS FARMER-APPROVED

These May Be Imposed by Secretary of Agriculture — Senate Unlikely to Vote This Week.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The House late today passed a long-range compulsory crop control bill for cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco and rice. The vote was 268 to 129.

The Senate, meanwhile, neared completion of a similar measure. Senate leaders, however, virtually gave up hope of a vote this week.

The House bill, a part of President Roosevelt's special program, calls for continuation of the existing soil conservation program and benefit payments, and authorizes Secretary Wallace to impose farmer-approved limits on sale of wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco and rice in years of abundance.

Recommitment Beaten.

Immediately before final passage, the House leadership defeated, 202 to 188, an attempt to send the bill back to committee. That motion was sponsored by Andresen (Rep.), Minnesota, who had the backing of a Midwestern bloc of 40. The bloc was dissatisfied with the corn provision after trying unsuccessfully yesterday to make corn loans mandatory and to tighten the corn marketing quota provisions.

Previously the House defeated a substitute for the farm bill. It was offered by Massingale, (Dem.), Oklahoma and Eicher (Dem.), Iowa, and proposed to forbid purchasers of farm commodities at less than the cost of production. A point of order that the substitute was not germane was sustained.

Provisions of Bill.

As finally passed the House bill provides:

Continuation of the soil conservation program, with compulsory, but farmer-approved machinery to regulate marketing.

Tobacco: Farmer-approved marketing quotas, with penalty of 50 per cent of market price for sale of above-quota production.

Ignoring administration leadership, the House adopted the amendment by Boileau (Prog.), Wisconsin, to deny soil conservation payments to farmers who plant dairy feed crops for market on land withdrawn from soil-depleting crops. This was designed to protect the dairy industry from new competition from the South and West. The vote was 202 to 188. This action confirmed the 114 to 95 vote by which the Boileau amendment was inserted in the bill a week ago.

Reversing itself today, the House voted, 219 to 175, to restore compulsory control of wheat to the bill. This provision had previously been struck from the bill Monday.

Earlier Reversal.

A short time earlier, the House reversed itself again, striking out, finally, a proposal by Representative Ford (Dem.) Mississippi to take from Secretary of Agriculture Wallace the power to allot county cotton acreage at his discretion. Ford sought to have the state totals allocated directly to the individual farmers.

After the wheat vote, the House ordered a separate roll call vote on the amendment by Representative Boileau (Prog.) Wisconsin, to deny soil conservation payments to farmers who plant dairy feed crops for market on land withdrawn from soil-depleting crops.

Civil Service Proposal Beaten.

The House rejected a Republican proposal to compel use of Civil Service employes in administering the pending farm program. The proposal was made by Luce (Rep.), Massachusetts, and brought from Representative Treadway (Rep.), Massachusetts, a word of

Roosevelt Says Railroads Are His Hardest Problem; Doesn't Know What to Do

Looks to I. C. C. to Afford Immediate Aid; Thinks of Government Ownership Only as Last Resort.

I. C. C. DENIES RAILROADS' REQUEST FOR IMMEDIATE FREIGHT RATE INCREASE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.

THE Interstate Commerce Commission overruled today a petition by the nation's railroads for an immediate 15 per cent increase in freight rates.

The action was announced by Commissioner Clyde B. Aitchison, at the outset of this afternoon's hearing on the carriers' request for a permanent rate increase of that amount.

The decision was announced soon after President Roosevelt said today the commission should seek to preserve the solvency of the nation's railroads with a view to retaining them under private management and private ownership.

Disappointed railroad leaders expressed belief that the commission's refusal to grant the temporary rate request might mean a delay in obtaining financial relief until next April 1.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—President Roosevelt said at his press conference today that the present plight of the railroads was the most difficult problem of his administration, and he disclosed that he had no specific, definite plan to meet the situation. For the time being at least, he said, the initial responsibility for temporary aid is up to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Government ownership of the railroads, he continued, should be considered only as the last resort. He declined to answer his own question as to how this could be avoided. He asserted that if the Government took over the railroads to protect the investments of insurance companies and widows and orphans, the next step would be Government ownership of oil wells, defunct textile mills and stores, or, in other words, straight state socialism.

For Early Action by I. C. C.

A permanent solution, he said, would require a change in the capitalization of many roads and the consolidation of others. Throughout his discussion, he emphasized, that he would like to see early action by the I. C. C. on the petition of the railroads for a general and immediate increase in freight rates and passenger fares.

The President revealed that he had discussed with Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the possibility of revoking his instructions of two months ago that the R F C make no further commitments except for administrative purposes. He said Jones had informed him that one or two individual railroads would require small temporary loans to tide them over until the I. C. C. could act on their rate increase petition. He did not disclose what decision had been reached.

Asked if there was anything that his administration could do to help the railroads, the President replied that the first responsibility was on the I. C. C. This is a so-called independent agency and in theory, at least, does not take instructions from the White House, as do the regular agencies in the executive branch of the Government.

General Situation Discussed.

At this point, the President began an exposition of the railroad situation in general, saying that as early as 1933 I. C. C. Commissioner Eastman had made a thorough investigation of that field. He said that everyone in the I. C. C. had felt that Eastman had not found a permanent solution to the problem, as the last thing the Government wanted to do was to take over the railroads. In his report, a year later, Eastman noted a number of operating improvements the railroads could adopt for the sake of economies.

The railroads, the President continued, obviously could not operate permanently in receivership, and therefore there were two principal problems to be faced, one relating to the financial situation of individual roads and the other relating to competition between roads.

Financial Aspects of Problem.

Commenting on the financial aspects of the railroads, the President used as an example a railraod with outstanding bonds amounting to $200,000,000. If this railroad, he continued, had demonstrated over a long period that it had an earning power only sufficient to pay the charges on $100,000,000, obviously something had to be done. He asked reporters what answer they had to this question.

This brought out the obvious facts that if $100,000,000 in bonds was eliminated from a railroad's capital structure, some one would have to take a loss, and since such bonds are usually held by insurance companies such action might seriously affect these companies. The President added that the bonds were held not only by insurance companies but by "widows and orphans."

A reporter replied that some persons had suggested that in order to save insurance companies the Government might guarantee the maintenance of interest on the $200,000,000 bonds.

Disavows State Socialism.

If this were done, the President rejoined, the next step would be to guarantee the return on oil wells and that eventually the Government would have to take over these properties. He asked the reporter if he wanted to see that. The reporter replied that such an eventuality might happen, that such a course had been followed in Germany.

Emphasizing the word "you," the President told the reporter that he (the reporter) was looking to straight state socialism, which would lead to Government ownership of mills, factories and stores. He said he wanted to make it clear

22 KILLED; TRAINS COLLIDE IN SCOTLAND

Express Crashes Into Passenger Carrier Which Had Stopped in Snowstorm.

By the Associated Press.

CASTLECARY, Scotland, Dec. 10.—At least 22 persons were killed today in the collision of two passenger trains on the main line of the railway between Glasgow and Edinburgh. Rescuers had recovered that many bodies tonight.

A raging snowstorm hampered the rescue work. Workers, digging through heavy snow drifts, believed more bodies would be found in the wreckage.

The Edinburgh-Glasgow Express of the London Northeastern Railway crashed into the rear of a stationary train, near Castlecary in Dumbartonshire.

Doctors and volunteers, struggling through the snow, carried the dying, dead and injured on improvised stretchers to busses and ambulances which rushed to Falkirk, Stirling and other nearby towns.

AMERICAN MINE MANAGER IN MEXICO BEATEN TO DEATH

Message Telling of M. F. Quinn's Death Mentions Recent Labor Disputes.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO, D. F., Dec. 10.—M. F. Quinn, American mining company manager, was killed yesterday in a mine near Guanajuato. It was explained in the message telling of his death that the mine recently had been the scene of a labor dispute.

The United States Consul at San Luis Potosi is investigating the death of Quinn, whose skull was crushed and one arm fractured, apparently by blows. A dispatch said men working at the mine did not immediately report the killing to authorities.

U A W FORD STRIKE AT KANSAS CITY; PICKETS ARRESTED

Police Twice Break Up Lines Outside Assembly Plant After Local Leader Refuses to Withdraw.

UNION TO CALL OUT 300 BY TOMORROW

International Officers Order Walkout, Charging Job Discrimination After Fall Layoff.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 10. — The United Automobile Workers of America, a C I O affiliate, called a strike at the Ford assembly plant here today, while 150 police stood guard as a precaution against disorder.

The strike call was announced by a committee of the U A W A local which said the order came from international headquarters because of alleged discrimination in taking back employes after a seasonal layoff.

Sixteen pickets were arrested shortly after the strike was called and released, later, on bond. Police Detective D. E. Reddish ordered the arrests after Baron de Louis, president of the U A W A local, refused to withdraw the pickets.

To Call Out 300 by Tomorrow.

De Louis said he was unwilling to call them off because the strike had been ordered by international headquarters. He estimated about 300 of his union members were among those at work before the strike went into effect at 9 a. m., but said they would not be back [illegible]

Reddish said he told De Louis to remove the pickets because the officer could not "see any symptoms of a strike at the plant." At the station, Capt. Hugh M. Dougherty said the complaint against the pickets was disturbing the peace.

After more than 200 carloads of workers had entered the plant, all but 22 of the police departed.

Later 30 more men who tried to form a new picket line were taken away in police cars.

De Louis said he "wasn't sure" whether further attempts to picket would be made. "We have 40,000 C I O men in Kansas City who are very eager to join our picket line," he said.

Protection Promised by City.

During a brief strike last spring, workers welded shut the gates through which railroad cars pass. The union called off that strike.

Last Sept. 15, the plant was closed down. Ford officials said it was a seasonal layoff but that the plant would be moved elsewhere unless they could be assured of adequate police protection.

City Manager H. F. McElroy went to Detroit and assured Henry Ford personally he could expect such protection. The plant reopened a month later and recently officials announced the assembly lines of new models were moving with 1000 of the plant's 3000 employes back at work.

Ford Man Says Kansas City Plant Will Operate Monday as Usual.

DETROIT, Dec. 10.—Harry H. Bennett, personnel director of the Ford Motor Co., said today the company's Kansas City assembly plant woud operate Monday, as usual, despite a strike called today by the United Automobile Workers of America.

"We will continue to produce automobiles as long as we get orders for them," he said.

BRITAIN AGAIN DEFAULTS ON WAR DEBT PAYMENT

Makes Customary Offer to Reopen Discussion "Whenever Circumstances Warrant."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. — Great Brtain continued among war debt defaulters today by formally notifying the United States Government it was unable to meet a $994,486,367 installment due Dec. 15.

France and Poland also have sent default notices. Of 13 war debtors, who will owe a total of $1,680,170,447 Dec. 15; only Finland has made known its intention to remit promptly.

The British note, transmitted to the State Department by Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay, repeated the customary assurances that "His Majesty's Government will be willing to reopen discussions on the subject whenever circumstances are such as to warrant the hope that a satisfactory result might be reached."

THREE SURRENDER IN FRENCH INQUIRY IN FIVE MURDERS

Alleged Chief of Gang That Killed Dancer Gives Up in Versailles, Woman With Him.

HIS PAL TAKEN IN CUSTODY AT PARIS

Clothing Variously Marked and Initialed Discovered in Confessed Strangler's Villa.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Dec. 10.—Roger Million and Jean Le Blanc, sought by police as accomplices in a kidnaping and murder gang which numbered among its victims Jean de Koven, young American dancer, surrendered to police today.

Million's blond companion, Colette Tricot also surrendered to police.

Million and the woman surrendered at Versailles and Le Blanc surrendered in Paris, the Paris Prefecture said.

They had been sought by police through Southeastern France after sudden departure last night from a hotel at Nantua.

The search for Million and LeBlanc followed the confession of Eugene Weidmann that he had strangled and robbed Miss de Koven and shot four men. Weidmann said he killed only these five, but police searching the villa where Miss de Koven's body was found yesterday discovered a trunkful of women's clothes today—"enough for seven or eight women," they said.

The garments, marked with different initials, mostly "C." "J." or "I." may have been those of other women lured to the villa and murdered for the contents of their pocketbooks. In the trunks were handkerchiefs, embroidered "Sophie" and "Jeannine."

Million's Early Getaway.

Million, a Frenchman suspected of trafficking in narcotics and white slavery, LeBlanc and Million's woman companion, were sought on the basis of information given by Weidmann.

The three fled after a mysterious telephone call to their apartment. Leaving all their baggage behind, the three left Nantua in a blue automobile. They had been staying at Nantua for a month.

While detectives in Paris continued questioning Weidmann others began a systematic excavation around the St. Cloud villa outside Paris where the bodies of Miss de Koven and Fritz Frommer, who had been one of the gang, were found yesterday.

Investigators believed that Million was the man with whom Weidmann talked in the lobby of a Paris hotel last July before he lured Miss de Koven to the "villa of death" in St. Cloud.

During this morning's questioning, police said, Weidmann declared Million made an attempt to collect ransom of $500 from Ida Sackheim, Miss de Koven's aunt, several days after the dancer was killed.

Detectives believed also that Million and his woman companion were the two who passed several of the $500 in traveler's checks which Weidmann took after killing Miss de Koven.

There also was the possibility, police said, of linking Million and the woman with two of Weidmann's other victims, Raymond Lesobre, a taxicab driver named Couffy and Roger LeBlond, a broker.

Million and the woman vanished from their apartment near the central markets of Paris after the body of LeBlond was found in Weidmann's villa.

Weidmann Adds to Story.

Adding new detail to yesterday's confession, Weidmann related today that he struck up an acquaintance with Miss de Koven because he liked to speak English.

"I knew English since my visits in America and Canada," the German's confession said. "The memory of her killing is more horrible than all the others," he added. The 22-year-old American girl was the first of his victims, according to his confession.

Weidmann said Miss de Koven went with him from her hotel, after they became acquainted through the medium of the English language newspaper she was reading in the lobby. This, he said, was on July 23.

That same evening, Weidmann testified, according to the police transcript, "for some reason which I can't explain, I killed her. At the moment when she was getting ready to leave me, I seized her by the throat, and since I couldn't strangle her completely, I wrapped

LANDON SAYS HE WON'T BE CANDIDATE IN 1940

Declares He Would Not Take Nomination, If Offered; to See Roosevelt Today.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Former Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas said today he would not be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1940 and would not accept the nomination should it be offered to him.

The 1936 nominee made the announcement to newspaper men upon arrival here for semi-annual dinner of the Gridiron Club, a newspaper men's organization.

Landon emphasized, however, that his statement did not mean he was withdrawing from politics. "I am taking this step so I can be more active in Republican party affairs," he said.

Soon after he reached the capitol Landon was invited by a White House secretary, by telephone, to visit President Roosevelt this afternoon.

The purpose of a conference between last year's presidential election opponents was not immediately disclosed. Landon will be accompanied by Senator Arthur Capper (Rep.) Kansas.

When questioned about economic conditions, Landon said the "great need today is mutual confidence between Government and business."

MANILA, Dec. 11.—(Saturday)—The Dollar liner President Hoover, with about 650 passengers aboard, went aground today on a small island south of Formosa and the steamer Preussen sped to the ship's side in response to wireless messages.

The Preussen was in sight of the Hoover, whose captain, George Yardley, asked how many passengers the Preussen could take aboard.

RIVER AT RECORD LOW STAGE

Smallest Reading Since Keeping of Figures Was Begun in 1861.

The lowest stage of the Mississippi River since the Weather Bureau started to record measurements in 1861 was reached at 9:30 a. m. today when the river dropped to minus 4.8 feet on the gauge at the foot of Washington avenue. The previous low was minus 4.6 feet on Dec. 29, 1933.

The river now is 10.6 feet below the normal average for December of plus 5.8 feet. The low stage is caused by small precipitation on the Upper Mississippi and its tributaries and by heavy ice gorges above Hannibal. Zero on the gauge here is 380 feet above sea level.

Soldier in Regimentals of 90 Years Ago Blows Bugle as Signal for Feast to Begin.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Venison from the deer which Vice-President Garner shot in Pennsylvania during his recent hunt there was served at a dinner given here last night by Senator Guffey of that state.

Garner and 25 other guests attended.

Dressed in the regimentals of the mounted riflemen of 90 years ago, a calvary Sergeant blew a bugle as the signal for the banquet to begin.

The 125-pound buck was served with a puree of chestnuts, broccoli polonaise, with pommard wine of 1926. It had been kept in "marinade"—a bath of wine, vinegar and spices—since it was brought to Washington last week. The guests included 24 Senators and the Polish Ambassador, Count Jerzy Potocki.

CHINESE IGNORE DEMAND TO GIVE UP

Invaders Said to Have Crossed Yangtze River in Move on Pukow Designed to Cut Off Retreat to the North. ··

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 11. (Saturday) — The Japanese command announced today that Kuanghuamen, principal southeastern gate in Nanking's massive walls, had been captured by a detachment of Japan's Ninth Division.

Japan's Rising Sun banner was raised over the gate as soon as it was taken, late Friday.

Infantry surged through this breach in the defenses of China's former capital and occupied adjoining sections of the walls.

Kuanghuamen was seized in a battle which began with a Japanese general assault on Nanking early in the afternoon.

The attack was launched when the Chinese commander, Gen. Tang Seng-chi, refused to heed Japanese Gen. Iwane Matsui's ultimatum to surrender the city by noon or face a general assault.

Four hours later Japanese asserted a part of the 100,000 soldiers encircling the city on the land side had captured Purple Mountain overlooking Nanking. Chinese positions on the hill previously had kept the Japanese from a frontal assault.

Six hours later the Japanese spokesman said he "assumed" that Japanese troops already had penetrated Nanking's great wall and were engaged in "mopping up operations," which he explained meant street fighting.

Steady Fire by Chinese.

Advices from Nanking said the city's defenders along its walls kept up a steady fire today to prevent the Japanese from consolidating their positions.

Fires raged on the Yangtze waterfront outside Nanking's walls. Japanese bombing planes have subjected military positions inside and outside the city to bombardment.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's favorite troops, of the crack Eighty-eighth Division, guarded the southern approach to the capital. Gen. Pai Chung-si's Kwangsi Province soldiers manned the northwestern defenses and Cantonese divisions held the lines to the east.

Gen. Tang Seng-chi, former Hunan Province warlord commanding Nanking defenses, also had at his disposal a special brigade organized and trained by German military advisers.

U. S. Gunboat Escapes Bombs.

The American gunboat Panay, with four members of the United States embassy staff, several newspaper correspondents and American civilians on board, was in a bombardment of the Nanking waterfront. Japanese planes attacked Pukow, opposite Nanking, and set fire to a number of warehouses along the Yangtze. Many bombs struck the water between the Panay and the shore, one of them landing within 200 feet of the gunboat.

More than 50 Japanese airplanes supported ground troops in their assault on Nanking.

The Japanese spokesman said the airmen bombed Chinese troops both inside and outside the walls and strategic buildings in the city "at length."

Foreign Flags Ignored.

Japanese said various foreign flags flew from some of the buildings but that they were subjected to bombardment because they were

GREEN OPPOSES ANNUAL WAGE IN BUILDING TRADES

A. F. L. Head Tells Senators Roosevelt Housing Proposal Would Cut Costs Only Nominally.

SAYS IT WOULD ADD TO UNEMPLOYMENT

Building and Loan Man Charges F H A Uses 'Hidden Ball Trick' in Describing Interest Rate.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, told the Senate Banking Committee today that President Roosevelt's suggestion for an annual wage in the building industry would not be practical.

Testifying on the President's housing proposals, Green gave five reasons why, he said, the A. F. of L. could not support the suggestion.

He said any reduction in building costs resulting from an annual wage plan would be "purely nominal, for such reduction is bound to be offset by increased overhead and operating charges."

Determination of wages in the building industry, he said, was "purely a local problem which cannot be dealt with on any national basis."

Effect on Employment.

Application of the annual wage formula would "aggravate rather than relieve unemployment, thereby defeating the very purpose of the housing program," he declared.

His fourth point was that a "drastic and violent" change in the complex system of operating methods in the industry would be necessary.

In his final argument Green declared that an attempt to establish the annual wage plan in any part of the building industry covered by a special Federal program "would undermine the wage structure in the entire industry, subject building mechanics to unjust and inequitable hardships, with resultant economic instability and social discontent."

Senator Barkley (Dem.), Kentucky called attention to the fact that there were no wage scale provisions in the housing bill. He said the President's suggestions were that annual wage agreements might be made locally.

Green said that such wage conferences were possible.

"Our people are anxious to do anything they can to support this housing program," Green said. "They will gladly meet to discuss this problem. In fact, they have done so in various places."

Criticism of F H A.

Morton Bodfish, executive vice-president of the United States Building & Loan League, told the House Banking Committee the Federal Housing Administration uses a "hidden ball trick" in giving publicity to 5 per cent home loans when the actual cost is from 6.4 to more than 7 per cent.

"That is one of the principal problems we have to deal with," Bodfish said.

With today's session the Senate Banking Committee wound up its hearings on the President's housing proposals.

Chairman Wagner (Dem.), New York said the committee would meet Tuesday to prepare its final draft of the bill in the hope of getting action in the special session of Congress.

Many Motorists, Stranded on Highways, Confronted With Food Shortage.

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 10.—Driven by a 40-mile gale, snow swept this already snowbound city of 60,000 today, halting traffic in many areas for the second time in 48 hours. In some streets two days of efforts by snow-fighting crews were wiped out in an hour. The streets were icy.

Scores of motorists, stranded for two days between here and Niagara Falls, faced another day of cold and food shortage in farm houses and garages along the way. In Brighton, Buffalo suburb, 40 families were trapped in their homes and town officials borrowed snowplows to fight through 10-foot drifts to take food to them.

State Police Sergt. Charles Cobb reported all roads in Orleans County closed and many motorists stranded. Similar conditions existed in Niagara County. Troopers aided in keeping a one-lane highway open at Clarence on the Buffalo-Rochester route, the only main highway open out of the northwest section of the city.

PLOT TO ASSASSINATE MINISTER YVON DELBOS

French Police Decipher Code Message Disclosing Attack Planned for Praha.

By the Associated Press.

VALENCIENNES, France, Dec. 10.—A plot to assassinate French Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos was discovered here today by police who seized a code letter giving details of the plan.

The letter, police said, was addressed to a Hungarian terrorist now in jail here, Koloman Budai, arrested Nov. 8, charged with firing shots through the windows of the League of Nations building at Geneva in 1935.

The letter showed, police said, that Budai had given information to a band of terrorists to facilitate an attempt on Delbos' life when he was at Praha on his present swing through Central and Eastern Europe. The letter was addressed in care of general delivery, and its contents were deciphered by police here who relayed information to Czechoslovakian police. An arrest was made there Wednesday, police said.

Another letter, addressed by Budai to Antwerp, was handed over by Belgian police, police said. They added that it disclosed an attempt against the Governor-General of Algeria, Lebau.

ROOSEVELT SAYS RAILROADS ARE HIS HARDEST PROBLEM

that he had not advanced such a solution.

Then announcing that he had no specific, definite plan to meet the railroad situation, the President said that he hoped that the I. C. C. would originate some kind of plan whereby the roads could be kept under private ownership and at the same time be put in a solvent condition.

Competitive Aspects.

On the competitive aspects of the problem, the President said that over a long period shippers had naturally come to believe that if two competing railroads operated in their communities they could get better service although the rates were the same. Very often, he explained, one road could handle all the business in the territory, and people were beginning to accept the gradual elimination of competition between parallel lines.

If this trend continued, he said, there would be further consolidation and abandonment of some lines. There could also be abandonment of lines, he added, where the great bulk of freight and passengers could be handled on the highways. In his judgment, he said, there is a great amount of trackage of this sort which could be abandoned.

The President declined to compare the situation in the United States with that in Canada, where the Government worked out consolidation plans for the Canadian National, a Government-owned line, and the Canadian Pacific, which is in private hands. He said that there were many details of consolidations which could be worked out in this country and that study along this line should be continued.

HEAVY SNOWSTORM IN EUROPE

German and Belgian Rail Service Impeded; Accidents in Baltic.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The first big snowstorm this winter hampered communications in parts of Europe today. A 20-hour fall in Germany delayed trains and air service. Much of the Rhine Valley was under three feet of snow, wires were down in many sections, and severe cold and more snow were predictd for East Prussia.

Coastal traffic in the North Sea and the Baltic was impeded, and there were several minor accidents. A freight-train ferry was grounded during a Baltic snowstorm but the crew was not hurt. Belgium was snowbound with rail communications disrupted between Brussels and Cologne.

TWO NEW MEMBERS NAMED TO SECURITIES COMMISSION

Roosevelt Appoints John W. Hanes and Jerome N. Frank; Latter Was Counsel for AAA.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—President Roosevelt nominated John W. Hanes of North Carolina and Jerome N. Frank of New York today to be members of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Hanes will succeed J. D. Ross of Seattle, who resigned when appointed administrator of Bonneville Dam. He is senior partner in the New York Stock Exchange firm of Charles D. Barney & Co. and is a former governor of the exchange. He was born in Winston-Salem, N. C., and was graduated from Yale.

Frank, former counsel for the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, takes the place of James M. Landis, who resigned recently to become dean of the Harvard Law School.

Frank was a corporation lawyer for 20 years in Chicago and New York, before appointment as general counsel of the A A A in 1933. He held that office two years, then resigned after differences with Chester Davis, the Administrator. Since 1935 Frank has been special counsel for the railroad division of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. He has also tried power cases for the Government before the Supreme Court.

Hanes said he "heartily subscribed" to the recommendations of William O. Douglas, chairman of the commission, for a reorganization of the New York Stock Exchange.

TWO SURRENDER IN FRENCH INQUIRY IN FIVE MURDERS

He took from her pocketbook the travelers' checks and buried her beneath the porch of the villa where the body was found yesterday—a knotted cord still around her neck.

It is these travelers' checks which police believe may connect Million and his woman companion with the case.

Abandoned Without Money.

The strangling of Miss de Koven and the shooting of Frommer about two weeks ago, Weidmann confessed, was the upshot of a discussion of finances after the flight of Million and his woman companion. Weidmann had been left without money, he said, but Frommer told him he had some money saved from the proceeds of the killer's earlier crimes.

"I went into the kitchen and got a gun and killed him," Weidmann was quoted as saying. "He lied. He had only 300 francs."

The confession of the 29-year-old Weidmann, German ex-convict and a fugitive from German military service, permitted French authorities to close the four-month dossier on the disappearance of Miss De Koven.

Dr. John R. Merrill, an American dentist, who was active in the search for Miss De Koven after she disappeared from her hotel July 25, told detectives he had seen a Frenchman, a woman and another man Oct. 3 in a Paris hotel when he was trying to establish contact with the abductors of the Brooklyn girl.

The investigation of the girl's disappearance had run into countless dead ends until Weidmann was arrested Wednesday for questioning in connection with the discovery of the body of a French rental agent, Lesobre, in the villa.

After long hours of questioning, the prisoner was said to have confessed shooting Lesobre, with robbery as the motive, after luring him to the suburban home.

Then, detectives said, Weidmann added almost as an afterthought: "There is something else. Last July I did a terrible thing, but it is too terrible to tell you. I cannot say it. Give me a pencil and a scrap of paper."

On the paper he scrawled: "Jean De Koven."

"Yes, I did it," he blurted out. "Pardon me!

"Miss De Koven came of her own free will to my house in St. Cloud. We gossiped and smoked cigarettes together—then her handbag tempted me. From behind and with my hands I strangled her. She fell like a rag doll."

In the 18 hours of interrogation, Weidmann was said to have also confessed shooting Couffy. The murders, and robberies were said to have netted him about $1000.

Organization of Murder Gang.

Weidmann said he met Million last May at a hotel and that the Frenchman supplied him with money and proposed organization of the grim enterprise.

"We must rent an isolated villa somewhere in the suburbs of Paris," Weidmann quoted him as saying. "We will hide our victims there until the ransom is paid."

Weidmann said he strangled his first victim, Miss De Koven, to get money for food. He had kept her over night at the villa. An autopsy on the body of the Brooklyn woman showed she put up a desperate struggle before she was killed. Her hands and arms were scratched deeply and her head showed the marks of many blows.

When detectives dug her body from the shallow grave under the porch of Villa la Voulie they found her empty folder that had held her travelers' checks. Weidmann admitted writing the ransom notes received by Miss Sackheim.

REBELS REPULSE LOYALIST ATTACK WEST OF MADRID

Report Stopping Government Forces With Loss of 200 Lives in Two-Hour Fight in Brunete Region.

By the Associated Press.

HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier, Dec. 10.—Insurgent officials reported a Government attack had been repulsed today with a loss of 200 lives in two hours of heavy fighting in the Brunete region just west of Madrid.

Government troops discovered and heavily shelled rebel concentrations yesterday in the Guadalajara region northeast of Madrid. As previously reported, rebel troops began an indecisive attack about the same time at Quijorna, northwest of Brunete.

Observers said it was too early to reach definite conclusions on the two rebel actions but said they indicated an insurgent effort to apply a pincer strategy against Government territory in the Madrid region.

Rebel sources disclosed the Government air force made a second raid on the island city of Palma, Mallorca, but the insurgents asserted eight of 28 participating planes were shot down. Details of the damage inflicted in the raid were not reported.

Insurgent planes bombed the outskirts of Mahon, on the Government-held island of Minorca, in retaliation for the Government raids on Mallorca. A woman and two children were killed in a hut struck by one of the bombs. Three planes flew over the town and dropped their bombs on the outskirts after being fired on by anti-aircraft batteries.

The only action reported from the eastern front was an insurgent charge up a hill. The Government said the charge was stopped with heavy losses for the attackers.

The air ministry reported heavy enemy troop concentrations northwest of Zaragoza were bombed successfully by Government planes, which also destroyed insurgent munitions dumps.

In the upper Aragon, bad weather halted all action. Troops on both sides built trenches and outposts and repaired damage caused by rains, snowstorms and freezing weather.

Madrid's New Rail Line Likely to Be Opened Early in 1938.

VALENCIA, Dec. 10.—Madrid's new rail connection to the Mediterranean coast may be opened early in 1938, Communications Minister Bernardo Giner de los Rios said today.

Since the Albacete line was severed above Aranjuez, all Madrid supplies have been carried by truck over the Valencia highway. Ten thousand men are working on the railway.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Dec. 10.—Theodore Alfred Seibert of St. Louis died in his sleep at a hotel here this morning of a heart attack. His wife, Alice, was with him at the time. The body will be sent to St. Louis tonight.

Mr. Seibert, a coffee salesman, resided at 4058 Magnolia place. He was in Florida on vacation. He was 54 years old.

PAN AMERICAN INVITES BIDS ON 100-PASSENGER PLANES

Offers on High Speed and High Altitude Ships to Be Delivered to Lindbergh.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Pan American Airways today called for bids for construction of 100 passenger, high-speed planes for high altitude flying. The cruising speed desired would place London within 14 or 15 hours of New York City.

The craft would fly at a speed of 274 miles an hour at an altitude of 20,000 feet. The company called for bids in groups of three, six and 12.

Pan American, largest operator of trans-oceanic air lines in the world, with routes already extending to China and South America, invited the bids from eight domestic manufacturers. It was considered likely the planes would be used for both Atlantic and Pacific routes.

Bids are to be delivered to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, chairman of Pan American's Technical Committee, by March 15, 1938.

CROP CONTROL BILL PASSED BY HOUSE 268-129

caution to Democrats—not to send requests for $25 contributions "to further the administration of the Roosevelt administration" to Civil Service employes. He said "the assistant treasurer of the Democratic National Committee" had solicited such contributions.

Luce's was one of several minor amendments the House swept aside. Among those rejected was a motion by Fulmer (Dem.), South Carolina, to strike out a section authorizing Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to use $10,000,000 to find new uses and markets for the "basic" commodities to which the bill applies.

An amendment by Jones (Dem.) Texas, to strike out provisions granting special loans for wheat, cotton and corn was accepted by a voice vote.

Senator Borah (Rep.), Idaho, was successful in eliminating a provision permitting the Secretary of Agriculture to terminate national rice marketing quotas "to meet an increased demand arising from war or emergency."

Then, on motion of Senator Johnson (Rep.), California, a provision giving the secretary power to terminate corn and wheat quotas in case of war or emergency was struck out also.

Action was deferred on a proposal to eliminate a provision that rice quotas should be allotted to individuals rather than to farms.

Senator Miller (Dem.), Arkansas said the bill as written would prevent farm owners from having a voice because quotas would be allotted to tenants.

The Senate approved elimination of a section that would have imposed a penalty of up to $100 on rice growers for failure to keep reports and follow regulations imposed by the Secretary of Agriculture. Similar penalties on farmers had been removed from corn, wheat and tobacco sections earlier.

Senate Republican Leader McNary, Oregon, was successful in inserting an amendment to make tax penalties for excess rice marketings the same as those on farmers who exceed corn and wheat marketing quotas.

Japanese Capture Nanking Gate

the source of Chinese anti-aircraft fire.

The flyers also were said to have bombarded river ports from Chinkiang to Nanking, scattering bombs on forts along the north bank of the river.

Japanese planes had bombed the Nanking waterfront while defenders of the city fought desperately in the suburbs and around Nanking's walls.

Delayed dispatches said that a Japanese column fought its way to within a half mile of Nanking Thursday, while Japanese airplanes dropped bombs on troops inside and outside the city walls.

Planes Scatter Defenders.

Japanese used airfields just outside the city for their raids on Nanking Thursday. Disregarding Chinese anti-aircraft fire, they flew to within a few hundred feet of the ground to scatter troops rushing to man the walls. Nanking's gendarme garrison, subjected to bombardment many times since August, appeared unnerved. Battalions moving toward the city wall were thrown into disorder when a bomb fell in their midst. Few, if any civilians were injured in the bombardment.

There was no report on whether Americans inside Nanking were safe. Last reports were that 16 Americans were inside Nanking's walls and 15 to 17 on board the Panay. The Panay reported tonight that all communication with the inside of Nanking was severed.

Hand-to-hand fighting was in progress at Wuhu and at Chinkiang with both sides suffering heavy losses, foreign sources reported.

Despite reports of the capture of Chinkiang, 40 miles east of Nanking, fighting was said to be still in progress there.

No word was received of the fate of Americans and other foreigners still in Wuhu, Yangtze River port 60 miles upstream from Nanking. Last reports said 24 Americans were there. Main Japanese forces were said to be still two miles outside of Wuhu.

Chinese troops at Tashiaochang airdrome were said to have been wiped out in the Japanese offensive. Japanese set up artillery at the airdrome and shelled Kwanghwamen (Glorious China) gate.

Attempt to Cut off Retreat.

Japanese forces were reported to have crossed the Yangtze River for a drive to occupy Pukow and cut off Chinese retreat.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, who previously was reported to have left Nanking by airplane with his wife and W. H. Donald, his Australian adviser, was said to have gone far into the interior to Hengshan, Chinese airbase 80 miles south of Changsha, in Hunan Province. Previously he was reported to have gone to Nanchang, capital of Kiangsi Province.

Japanese planes continued heavy bombardments far into the interior. Japanese said a raid on Nanchang resulted in destruction of 25 grounded Chinese planes and the shooting down of 16 more Chinese craft which rose to oppose the raiders.

Chinese military trains were reported destroyed at the junction of the Lunghai and Tientsin-Pukow railways, north of Nanking. A Chinese arsenal at Kunghsien, in Honan Province, was said to have been bombed and destroyed. The southern part of the Canton-Hankow railway and the Canton-Kowloon (Hongkong) railway were heavily bombed, to halt what Japanese said was a heavy inflow of munitions for China through Hongkong.

Guerrilla Attacks in North.

Chinese declared that guerrilla bands of Chinese in North China had forced Japanese to fall back at a number of points. Japanese conceded that Chinese had recaptured Pingyao, in Chekiang Province. Along the Yellow River in Shantung Province Japanese and Chinese forces were locked in an artillery battle.

The United States Consul-General's office received word that an international train had left Hankow, one of the interior cities harboring Chinese Government ministries, with four extra coaches of foreign evacuees, most of them Americans and British. The train was bound for Canton.

In Shanghai, a group of Chinese representing all Chinese interests and stating it spoke for the city's 3,000,000 Chinese residents, issued a manifesto defying the Japanese conquest. It urged the Chinese Government to double its efforts to resist the invaders in the "sacred war for national existence." It pledged Chinese refusal to "humiliate ourselves by co-operating with the enemy in any way."

U. S. Flagship Relieved.

The light cruiser Marblehead arrived from Tsingtao today to relieve the cruiser Augusta, flagship of the United States Asiatic fleet, which has been stationed in the Whangpoo River off Shanghai during most of the Chinese-Japanese hostilities. Admiral Harry Yarnell, commander of the Asiatic fleet, commands the Augusta, a heavy cruiser. The Marblehead is a vessel of 7050 tons displacement.

Chinese sources continued to assert that the Japanese battleship Nagato and five other vessels, including one cruiser, had been sunk at Kiangyin. Japanese issued no denial and there was some belief in foreign circles that the report might be true.

Once again international complications arose when Japanese seized a launch owned by the British Shanghai Tug and Lighter Co. Representations in protest were issued immediately.

Japanese News Agency Reports Street Fighting in Nanking.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Dec. 10.—Domei (Japanese) News Agency sent word from the Nanking front tonight that Japanese troops had captured the city's southeastern gate and were entering the city.

Squadrons of Japanese planes were said to be concentrating their attacks on Nanking's 18 gates to blast open a path for Japan's land forces.

Domei also reported the capture of Purple Mountain, where Chinese had harassed Japanese with artillery fire.

All gates on the east and south sides of the city were said to have fallen to the Japanese.

An attempted Chinese air attack on an undisclosed Japanese flying base was said to have been frustrated.

Japanese and Chinese troops were reported engaged in street fighting within the city.

A Chinese armored car, the dispatch said, roared down a street, machine guns firing and ran into a mass of Japanese soldiers, finally stopping when bodies clogged its wheels. Japanese fighters killed the Chinese crew and put the vehicle into action against the Chinese.

A strong detachment of Japanese separated from the main body had fought its way toward the western secton of the city, attempting to block any possible avenue by which the Chinese could retreat to the west.

The Chinese defenders were fighting desperately, contesting every foot of ground and exacting a heavy toll from the Japanese invaders.

The main fighting raged between Japanese and Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's Eighty-eighth Chinese Division.

Retreating Chinese transformed every house and building into a fortress. The Japanese were using light field pieces against the city's walls.

Foreign military attaches in Tokio say the majority of Nanking's defenders are raw provincial troops armed only with rifles, and assert the Eighty-Eighth Division is the only unit of real strength and training.

Excited crowds jammed the streets of Tokio wildly waving flags as they massed around newspaper offices and electric bulletin boards for latest dispatches.

Meanwhile Osaka trade industries reported that a survey showed fighting in and around Shanghai damaged Chinese factories 800,000,000 yen ($232,000,000). The report said three fourths of the 3800 Chinese-owned factories in Shanghai were either partly or entirely destroyed.

DRUG FIRM PAYS TO QUIET CLAIMS ON ELIXIR DEATHS

Laboratory That Made Sulfanilamide Mixture Denies Liability, but Seeks to Avoid Trials.

ST. LOUIS WIDOW SETTLES FOR $2000

Lawyer Says Company's Assets Will Not Bear Burden of Big Judgments in Damage Suits.

The S. E. Massengill Co. of Bristol, Tenn., has started making cash settlements on death claims growing out of its expensive experiment in putting sulfanilamide, a powerful drug, in liquid form—an experiment which cost 73 lives in the United States in the last two months.

Ruby Garrett of Kansas City, attorney for the drug house, said today to a Post-Dispatch reporter that "a dozen or more claims" have already been settled, including that of Mrs. Mathilda Schroeder of East St. Louis, who received $2000, the largest sum paid so far.

Says Company Denies Liability.

Garrett said the Massengill company is denying its liability in the deaths but is settling those claims which it considers justified and those claims which seem to be made in good faith. "Where we can save the expense of a trial in a case that appears justified, we are settling out of court," he said.

The drug house had no insurance to cover death claims resulting from use of one of its preparations, Garrett said. The firm, owned solely by Dr. S. E. Massengill, who is [illegible]7 years old, has only its drugs, some real estate and its sales organization with which to raise funds to meet the claims, Garrett said.

A number of the claims are without any justification, he continued. Some, he said, were presented by survivors of persons who never took the elixir. Many who died after taking the preparation "took it as a last resort and would have died anyway," Garrett declared.

"Several doctors told me and my investigators that deaths had been attributed to sulfanilamide erroneously, due to the widespread publicity regarding the fatal cases," the attorney continued. "One woman took an elixir which she thought was sulfanilamide because she developed all the symptoms of sulfanilamide poisoning. Later it was found that she had taken a harmless cough medicine and she had recovered."

Says Blame Has Not Been Fixed.

Garrett declared in his opinion no death has been proved conclusively to have been due to elixir of sulfanilamide. However, in reporting each of the 73 deaths, the American Medical Association announced the deaths had been certified by physicians as having been due to use of the preparation.

A study by the American Medical Association, confirmed by Washington University and other laboratories, showed that the solvent used by the Massengill Co., diethylene glycol, was the fatal agent in elixir of sulfanilamide. When used in tablet or powder form, pure sulfanilamide has proved effective in treatment of a variety of infections, with occasional deleterious effects in a minority of cases.

Garrett said he did not anticipate that claims would be made against the drug house by survivors of all the 73 victims of sulfanilamide-poisoning. Some have already indicated, he said, that they would make no claims.

Schroeder, the only St. Louisan who died of the effects of the elixir, was an oiler 50 years old. There were six deaths in East St. Louis and one in Granite City attributed to the drug preparation. In none of these cases has settlement been made.

At an inquest Oct. 25 in the death of Schroeder, Dr. Louis F. Murray, physician with offices at 1831 South Ninth street, testified he began treating him for an infection about Oct. 8 and gave him a six-ounce bottle of the elixir Oct. 14 with instructions to take two tablespoonfuls in water every four hours.

Two days later Schroeder reported to the physician he had taken a total of about four ounces of the medicine and had suffered nausea and pains. The physician said he then told the patient to stop using it and advised him to go to a hospital, but Schroeder chose to remain at home. After several days, he was taken to Barnes Hospital where he died.

Dr. Murray testified he purchased a gallon of the elixir through a salesman for the Massengill Co. Kansas City office, the shipment being delivered Oct. 13. About four days after that he said he got a telegram from the firm, asking him to return the medicine. Three days later, another telegram came, informing him it was poisonous.

Federal Agent Seeks Sample.

Meanwhile, however, a representative of the Food and Drug Administration had learned from him that Schroeder was the only patient to whom he had administered the elixir and had gone to the Schroeder home to get what was left of it, the physician testified.

Out of a total of 23 pints of the elixir received by 11 physicians and retail and wholesale drug houses in St. Louis and St. Louis County, all but one six-ounce bottle was recovered before the bottles were opened. That was the one received by Schroeder.

Mrs. Schroeder now lives at 643 North Tenth street, East St. Louis, and is employed by a hardware company.

15 HURT WHEN STREET CAR UPSETS ON CLEVELAND HILL

Some Seriously Injured; Ice Prevented Brakes From Working, Police Say.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 10.—Fifteen persons were injured, some seriously, when a crowded street car ran wild and left the rails today on a curve at the foot of a steep hill.

Police said the motorman told them the car began to slip when he first applied the brakes.

"The icy condition of the wheels and tracks caused the accident," police said. "The brakes weren't effective from the time the motorman first applied them at the top of the hill."

The car left its trucks, skidded 30 feet and trapped occupants as it came to rest on its side. Firemen and police chopped through the side of the car to rescue the 30 passengers.

NIAGARA PENINSULA TOWN BATTERED BY GALE 50 HOURS

Snow Five Feet Deep on Roads; Situation Improving in Other Sections of Province.

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, Dec. 10.—(Canadian Press)—Blizzards struck with renewed intensity at Niagara Peninsula today. Port Colborne bore the brunt of the gale that isolated that Lake Erie town.

For more than 50 hours the storm has battered Port Colborne, piling snow five feet over nearby roads.

In other sections of the province, where blizzards have blown nearly a week, the situation was improving. The storms were abating, but in their wake they left many villages and towns cut off by snow-drifted roads from other sections, closed schools and crippled transportation lines.

Refugees Have Nearly Exhausted Food Supply at Glenn's One Restaurant.

By the Associated Press.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Dec. 10.—Sixty transport trucks and 100 passenger automobiles have been snowbound for three days at Glenn, a little summer resort, and the refugees have just about exhausted the food supply of the village's one restaurant.

A telephone caller from the village today said the bread supply was exhausted and the restaurant was serving little more than pancakes and coffee.

GANGSTER DALHOVER GETS DEATH SENTENCE

U. S. Jury Fixes Punishment of Last of Brady Gang for Killing Policeman.

By the Associated Press.

HAMMOND, Ind., Dec. 10.—A United States District Court jury decided late yesterday James Dalhover, only survivor of the Al Brady gang, should die in the electric chair for the murder of State Policeman Paul V. Minneman. The jury deliberated two hours and 17 minutes.

Sentencing of Dalhover, a formality in view of the jury's verdict, was deferred by Judge Thomas W. Slick.

Dalhover stared straight ahead as the clerk read the verdict.

Brady and Clarence Lee Sheffer Jr. were killed Oct. 12 at Bangor, Me., by Federal agents who captured Dalhover.

Binneman was shot to death last May 25 when pursuing Dalhover, Brady and Shaffer after they had held up a bank at Goodland, Ind.

Dalhover pleaded guilty Nov. 15 of murdering Minneman, and Judge Slick told the jurors they could sentence the gunman to death, life imprisonment or imprisonment for a fixed term of not less than 10 years.

Government attorneys asked for a death sentence. Timothy P. Galvin and C. B. Tinkham, representing Dalhover, urged the jury to extend him mercy in "consideration of the background of this man's life." Dalhover was sent to a reform school at the age of 11 for robbing a grocery.

Dalhover said today he was "glad" to get the death penalty.

"It's no use crying over it," remarked the 31-year-old Dalhover after being returned to jail at South Bend.

"I've got it coming to me some time. It might as well be now. I'm glad it's the chair. Maybe I couldn't take it standing up. But I think I can sitting down."

SENATE SUBCOMMITTEE VOTES FOR COAL BOARD INQUIRY

Resolution Asking for Information Is Sponsored by Senator Davis (Rep.) of Pennsylvania.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—A Senate Interstate Commerce subcommitte approved today a resolution by Senator Davis (Rep.), Pennsylvania calling on the Bituminous Coal Commission for information regarding its activities. The resolution also asks for a copy of a resolution said to have been introduced by a member of the commission "making serious charges against one of the commissioners."

CHEVROLET AND FISHER PLANTS LAY OFF 1600

Men at Assembly Units Here Get Notice; 40 Pct. Production Cut.

About 1600 of the 4100 production employes in the Chevrolet and Fisher Body assembly plants at 3707 Union boulevard received notices in their pay envelopes today that they were laid off until further notice.

Vincent M. Dirkes, manager of the Fisher plant, told a Post-Dispatch reporter the layoffs resulted from a production cut ordered by General Motors Corporation's headquarters in Detroit. Both plants were shut down Wednesday, he said, to prepare the layoff schedules. They will resume operation Monday with production curtailed about 40 per cent.

Dirkes explained the reduction reflects a slump in automobile sales and will reduce operations here to the lowest point at this season since 1930 and 1931. A year ago, he stated, both local plants were working overtime. Normally, the peak months of automobile production are from March through June.

The Fisher production schedule, Dirkes said, is geared to demand from Chevrolet and when the latter plant here received the production cut order a reduction in the forces of both plants became necessary. He could not estimate how long the layoffs will last but he said seniority was followed in cutting the force and will govern in rehiring.

Plant officers, he stated, have known for some time a reduction was coming although the order was not received from Detroit until this week. On full schedule, the manager stated, the Fisher plant here produces about 100 automobile bodies an hour. This will be cut to 60 under the reduced schedule, reflecting a like decrease in Chevrolet production. Clerical forces will not be disturbed.

Chevrolet Operating on Four-Day Schedule at Flint.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Dec. 10.—Curtailment of production and employment in all General Motors Chevrolet plants seemed imminent today, although General Motors officers declined to discuss employment prospects. They said, however, that no general layoffs in General Motors plants were expected.

The Chevrolet Motor plant at Flint, Mich., producing motors for all assembly plants, was operating on a four-day schedule this week. The notices to employes did not specify how long the four-day schedule would continue. The sheet metal plant at Flint, producing parts for all assembly plants, was operating on a 3 and 4-day basis this week. The final assembly plant there, producing automobiles for one delivery zone, operated two and one-half days this week.

ST. LOUISAN ONE OF THREE KILLED IN OKLAHOMA CRASH

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Ok., Dec. 10.—John Foglia, a clerk, 771 Bayard avenue, St. Louis, and J. L. Payton of Joplin, Mo., died here today of injuries suffered last night in an automobile collision in which James Hand, of Joplin, was killed outright. The automobiles collided head-on about eight miles southeast of Miami.

Thomas O'Toole of St. Louis, who was with Foglia, suffered a fracture of the leg.

SHOT IN RESTAURANT QUARREL

Negro Seriously Wounded; Other Says He Was Attacked.

George Glass, 23-year-old Negro, 2303 Eugenia street, was shot in the chest and seriously wounded in a quarrel in a restaurant at 301 South Jefferson avenue at 9:30 o'clock last night.

He told police that Frank Regas, an employe at the restaurant and a brother of the proprietor, shot him after ordering him to leave because he was arguing loudly with a woman friend. Police said Regas asserted he fired in self-defense after Glass had attacked him with a knife. Glass was taken to Homer G. Phillips Hospital.

ALDERMEN PASS BILL TO BAR DECEMBER JEWELRY AUCTIONS

Ordinance Carries Emergency Clause, Does Not Include Sales Under Judicial Process.

An ordinance prohibiting the auction of jewelry, silverware, watches or clocks in the month of December in any year was passed by the Board of Aldermen today by a vote of 22 to 4. Having an emergency clause, it would become effective on approval by Mayor Dickmann. Sales under judicial process would be exempted.

Alderman Otto L. Lietchen has explained that he introduced the measure at the request of established jewelers, who complained of competition by temporary auctioneers.

It was learned that the ordinance passed last Friday, increasing the speed limit on the Express Highway to 45 miles an hour, did not carry an emergency clause, although it had been generally understood this was included. Therefore, Mayor Dickmann, who has said he would sign the bill, cannot affix his approval before next Tuesday and the change will not be in legal effect until 30 days after he signs. In the meantime, however, many motorists have been driving rapidly over this thoroughfare.

The Board of Aldermen, which has no business of pressing importance pending, decided on a long Christmas vacation, adjourning to Jan. 7.

SECOND TRAIN-TRUCK CRASH VICTIM DIES OF INJURIES

Farmer Living Near Alhambra, Ill., Succumbs; Accident Verdict in Companion's Death.

Robert Phillipi, 21-year-old resident of a farm near Alhambra, Madison County, died today in a hospital at Litchfield, Ill., of a fractured skull suffered early yesterday when a milk truck in which he was riding was struck by a Nickel Plate railroad train at an unprotected grade crossing on a dirt road one and a half miles southwest of Alhambra.

Arthur E. Wolf of Worden, Madison County, driver of the truck, was killed in the crash. A verdict of accident was returned at the inquest into Wolf's death today at Litchfield. The engineer of the train testified at the inquest he blew the locomotive whistle in warning but the truck did not stop. His testimony was corroborated by a schoolgirl who witnessed the accident.

MAN WHO SHOT HIMSELF DIES

Charles H. Conklin Jr. Succumbs to Chest Wound Inflicted Tuesday.

Charles H. Conklin Jr., 33 years old, 4143 Hartford street, a machine operator in the Cupples Co. match factory, died at City Hospital yesterday of a chest wound suffered Tuesday night when he shot himself at the home of his estranged wife at 4953 Arsenal street.

His wife said they separated a month ago, and that he had visited her to try to persuade her to return to him, but she refused. He then stepped into a bedroom and said to her and two other persons present, "I hope you all have a good time. I'm going this way," and shot himself with a revolver.

State Takes Full Responsibility For Relief in St. Louis Ending Two-Month Deadlock With City

Food and Fuel But Not Rent to Be Provided—Principles Laid Down to Guide Social Security Board.

The two-month deadlock between the city and State over the responsibilities of each in the relief emergency was ended yesterday when the State agreed to accept full responsibility, while the existing emergency continues, for providing food and fuel to the destitute.

This agreement, reached in a conference at Jefferson City attended by Gov. Stark, Mayor Dickmann, and others, established a general principle for the guidance of the State Social Security Commission.

There was no mention, at the conference, of what amount of money would be required to put the principle in operation, how many would be added to the relief roll, or what effect the new policy would have on the present average relief allowance.

60-40 Formula Out.

The new policy, however, means abandonment of the State's previous insistence that the city should meet 40 per cent of the relief need. As one participant in the conference put it, the 60-40 formula for division of relief costs is "out the window."

The problem of rent, clothing and gas and electricity bills was not touched by the agreement. Rent was discussed at the meeting, but the others were not mentioned. The decision was that the State would not pay rent for those on the relief rolls. No rent has been paid since September, when the city's last relief appropriation was exhausted. The relief agency's rent bill for September was $43,000.

Tom K. Smith, president of Boatmen's National Bank and chairman of the St. Louis Advisory Board to the Social Security Commission, told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that the agreement meant that "the State is now in charge of the relief situation."

"Those Entitled to It."

"We are satisfied," he said, "that the State will be able, under present conditions, to provide food and fuel to those entitled to it."

Asked if "those entitled to it" were all in need, Smith cited as an exception that a person in need because he squandered his money would not be considered as entitled to relief.

In its application, Smith said, the new policy will not mean that relief allotments will be "spread thin" to admit larger numbers to the relief rolls without increasing expenditures. "We are not interested in estimating what will be required," he said, "we intend to make the money available to meet the need as far as we can.

Mayor Dickmann told a Post-Dispatch reporter at the City Hall he was "satisfied" that the Social Security Commission intended to take care of the relief situation in St. Louis. The details of how that would be done, he said, were not discussed at the conference and were left to the commission to decide.

C I O Urged More Relief.

The agreement came at a conference called by Gov. Stark at the suggestion of William T. Nardin, St. Louis member of the Social Security Commission, after the St. Louis C I O Industrial Council and other groups had repeatedly urged the need for larger relief allotments to St. Louis. A C I O delegation which called on Mayor Dickmann, Gov. Stark and the Social Security Commission Wednesday told them 10,000 members of C I O unions were in need and had been denied relief. The 10,000 were among 25,000 the Industrial Council said had been laid off in the last two months by their employers.

Notwithstanding the new State policy, the Industrial Council went ahead with its plans for a mass meeting at which those in need will be invited to state their case. The meeting will be held next Thursday night at 8 o'clock at Unity Hall, Grand and Page boulevards.

This month the St. Louis office of the Social Security Commission, which has headquarters at 2221 Locust street, has 24,000 persons on the relief rolls.

TAX TOKEN IN CHILD'S THROAT

Baby Recovering After Removal of Zinc Mill From Esophagus.

JOPLIN, Mo., Dec. 10.—Willis Glenn Wilson, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Wilson of Lamar, is recovering in a Joplin hospital following the removal of a 1-mill zinc sales tax token from his throat. The baby won second place in the baby contest this fall at the Missouri State Fair.

An esophagoscope was used to remove the disk, which was lodged in the upper end of the child's esophagus.

500 LOSE W P A JOBS; CITY, STATE BLAMED

Three Projects for Women to Close for Lack of Promised Space, Heat or Lights.

Nearly 500 women have lost their W P A jobs because the city of St. Louis and the St. Louis office of the State Social Security Commission have failed to provide space, heat and light for the undertakings on which they were employed, as had been agreed, L. E. Greathouse, district W P A director, announced today.

Three units of the W P A program for women here will be closed today, Greathouse said to reporters. They are a sewing project in a factory building at 2332 Randolph street, employing 420 persons; an overall factory at 2210 Pine street, employing 64 workers, and a laundry at 1422 Park avenue, where 44 are employed. Of the total of 528 employes in the three units, 42 are men.

Although there are Federal funds available to continue to pay the workers, there are no undertakings to which the women can be transferred. Should other projects suitable for women be started within 90 days, the discharged employes could be rehired, Greathouse said.

Most of the men working on the three units will be assigned to other jobs, and the agency will hire other men certified as needy by the Social Security Commission to replace the women who were dismissed. About 1000 will not be affected by the closing.

The city administration, sponsor of the Randolph and Pine Street undertakings, was notified of the discontinuance of the projects in a letter by State W P A Administrator Matthew S. Murray yesterday. Rent, light and heat in the Randolph street building cost $500 a month, and the rental of the overall factory was $125 a month.

The local office of the Social Security Commission took over the obligation to maintain the laundry from the St. Louis Relief Administration, which it succeeded. The rent of the laundry, exclusive of light and heat, is $50 a month, Greathouse said.

The women who were dismissed, employable heads of needy families, were paid $48 or $58 a month, depending on the type of work they were required to perform. The articles manufactured in the projects were distributed to persons on relief.

It is expected that the present W P A force in St. Louis and the county, which will be about 15,000 by tonight, will be increased under the order of Administrator Harry L. Hopkins that employment be given to 350,000 more persons in the nation. How many additional workers will be hired here is not yet known.

TWO CONFESS KILLING FARMER, SHOOTING WIFE

Crime Disclosed by Woman Who Crawled and Staggered Half Mile to House of Relative.

By the Associated Press.

CRETE, Ill., Dec. 10. — John Jelliga, 33 years old, was arrested at his home in Whiting, Ind., and Mike Munjas, 45, at his Indiana Harbor (Ind.) home last night and were identified, police said by Mrs. Hulda Pansa, as the robbers who shot and killed her husband, Edward, and shot and seriously wounded her at their home. Both later confessed, the police said. Pistols used in the killing were found at their homes. The men were taken to the county jail at Joliet, Ill.

Mrs. Pansa, 38 years old, told the story of the killing after crawling and staggering a half mile over a snowswept road in near zero weather.

Her husband, 45, was shot as he lay on a sofa in his home with hands bound, pleading for his life. The robbers then walked to the bedroom into which they had pushed Mrs. Pansa, shot her in the head and left her for dead.

Partly paralyzed by the bullet which coursed downward from the ear through the throat and lodged in the spine, the woman made her way to the home of her brother-in-law. He had her removed to a Chicago Heights hospital.

Mrs. Pansa said the two men, whom her husband recognized, visited the farm, five miles east of here, earlier in the day, returned shortly before dark, and demanded $2000 in "inheritance money" which, they said, she had received recently. Angry when told she did not have it, the robbers hit the farmer on the head, bound him and then ransacked the house, finding $77.

The wife said she heard her husband pleading for his life as she crouched in the bedroom. One of the robbers said: "We've got to bump you off. You know who we are."

Then, she related, the robbers fired two shots and she heard her husband's body fall to the floor.

Youth Killed by Auto on Highway.

By the Associated Press.

STANBERRY, Mo., Dec. 10. — Wayne Spainhower, 19 years old, a former football star on the Stanberry High School team, was killed last night when he was struck by an automobile driven by Vernon Gregory of Albany, about four miles northeast of here on United States Highway No. 169. Spainhower was walking home after work at a sawmill. An inquest will be held today.

Seeks Annulment; Cites Saltiel Law

By the Associated Press.

BENTON, Ill., Dec. 10.—Mrs. Barbara Swofford, 19 years old, filed an annulment suit in Circuit Court, alleging her marriage to Paul Swofford was illegal because they were wed at Morganfield, Ky., to evade the Saltiel Marriage Law in this State. Mrs. Swofford is a student at Southern Illinois State Teachers College at Carbondale. Swofford is an instructor in the Bention High School.

A MAN'S LETTER TO ST. NICK

(read it, ladies)

Listen, old chap:

Do me a favor, will you? Please lay off the hand-painted bon bon dishes when you come out our way. I've really nothing against art—but something to wear will give me a much bigger "kick". And please, Nick, see that it comes from a man's store.

Take shirts, for example. I never have too many. Bond's have a swell lot at $1.55 that's right down my alley. And when I'm loafing around the house, I'd be mighty comfortable in one of those Flannel Robes that Bond is showing at $6.95.

And as long as I'm asking, here's another tip. I could go for a Leather Jacket in a big way. One of those soft ones Bond has at $10. Yes! I'd even enjoy a wool sweater coat if I must be modest. They're only $1.95, at Bond's. Or some of those swell looking ties at 55¢ and $1.00.

I know you're mighty busy these days, so this note may save you some headaches. After all, it's not so hard to please us fellows —if you fill up your pack at the right place.

Yours for a Merry Christmas,
Jim Williams

GOVERNMENT SUES TO SEIZE IMITATION RUM FLAVORING

Alleges Base of Product Is Similar to That of Lethal Elixir of Sulfanilamide.

Suit to confiscate and destroy a gallon and a half of imitation rum flavor in the possession of a downtown candy company, on the charge that it was adulterated in violation of the Food and Drug Act, was filed in United States District Court yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Herbert H. Freer at the request of the Department of Agriculture.

The flavor was shipped by the Felton Chemical Co. of Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 16 and the candy company was in the position of an innocent purchaser, Freer said to reporters. The charge was based on the allegation that the flavor was prepared with a glycol ether solvent, which, it was stated by W. J. McCarthy, acting local chief of the Food and Drug Bureau, was similar in some respects to the solvent used in elixir of sulfanilamide.

McCarthy announced that the action here, regarded as a precautionary measure, was part of a nationwide endeavor to remove this flavoring preparation from the market. A recent series of deaths in the country was ascribed to use of an elixir of sulfanilamide in which the lethal agent was a solvent, diethylene glycol.

BUFFALO CITY AUDITOR QUITS

Admitted, in Payroll Inquiry, He Had Never Made an Audit.

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 10. — Buffalo Auditor Frank M. Wilson submitted his resignation to Comptroller William A. Eckert last night, a few hours after both had testified before a City Council investigation committee.

In his statement of resignation, Wilson asked that he be allowed to remain on the Comptroller's staff until the investigation was completed, "so that I cannot be accused of 'quitting under fire.'" Wilson became involved in the inquiry into charges of city payroll padding this week when he admitted he had never made an audit, and that, although he had studied bookkeeping and accounting, he had never made it a profession.

PLEADS SELF-DEFENSE IN KILLING 'OTHER MAN'

James F. Traylor Concludes Testimony in Own Behalf at Second Trial for Murder.

With the completion of argument of counsel in the trial of James T. Traylor for the murder of Timothy Lahart, the jury was scheduled to have the case under consideration at a late hour today. Traylor ended testimony in his own behalf, designed to convince jurors in Circuit Judge Frank C. O'Malley's court that he shot and killed in self-defense the man who stole his wife. It was his second defense of the charge, a prior conviction having been reversed by the Missouri Supreme Court.

The 37-year-old defendant, a gassed World War veteran, took the witness stand without a trace of agitation in his manner, and offered the jury a matter-of-fact recital of his version of the shooting—changed considerably from the one he gave to police when he was arrested about two years after he fled from Lahart's restaurant at 2938 Chouteau avenue, Jan. 8, 1931. Lahart, with four bullets in his back, died the day after he was shot. He had named Traylor as his assailant.

Says Victim Fired First.

Traylor testified that he fired at Lahart through the pocket of his overcoat after Lahart had "come up with a revolver" and fired the first shot. A note in his wife's handwriting had taken him to the restaurant Traylor continued, but he failed to repeat his previous statement that, in an apartment above, his wife, Marie, and Lahart, had lived for several months, making use of furniture she took with her from the Traylor apartment after her husband went to a veterans' hospital at Knoxville, Ia., to be treated for a nervous ailment.

"I had been told by police to protect myself from Lahart," he testifed. "Before I left home, I stuck a German Luger I got in the war, in my pocket. Lahart was in a back hallway when I walked into the cafe. I walked past some people at tables, I didn't want to bother them.

"Lahart said: 'Oh, it's you.' I said: 'Yes, it's a small world after all.' He reached through a doorway and came up with a gun and fired at me. My hand was on my gun in my coat pocket and I pressed the trigger. Someone fired a shot from behind me. I fired again. So did Lahart. I closed on him, he dropped his weapon and fell. I ran."

Contradicts Earlier Statement.

His testimony conflicted in important detail with the signed statement, read to the jury, obtained from him by Emmet Morrison, now a Detective Lieutenant, who recognized and arrested him long after the hue and cry for his arrest had abated. He had told Morrison that Lahart had a pistol but did not fire. He also told him that he had returned from Knoxville in October, 1930, and found his rug business at 6060 Maple avenue, ruined, the furniture in his flat gone, and learned that his wife had left to live with Lahart, then a coffee salesman. Until Lahart telephoned him and taunted him, he had decided to let the matter pass.

Now he said it was Morrison who first told him his wife had gone to live with Lahart. He said that his visit to the restaurant followed an attack on him by Lahart, who fired two shots through the door of Traylor's office at the Ideal Rug Co., missed his mark but killed a dog.

Character Witnesses.

Before the defendant took the stand, several of his friends testified as to his good character. The State presented the testimony of Lahart's brother, Mike, and of Mrs. Daisy Weber, who were in the restaurant when Traylor entered. They were unable to identify him, but said that all the shots were fired by the stranger. Lahart was 32 years old.

On cross-examination, I. Joel Wilson, attorney for Traylor, brought out that Mrs. Weber had served prison terms for peddling drugs and shoplifting; that Mike Lahart had served two terms for robbery, and that they had lived together for 16 years, except when they had been separated by penitentiary walls.

Traylor was convicted in 1934 of second degree murder in connection with the killing and his punishment fixed at 15 years in the penitentiary, but the case was reversed by the Missouri Supreme Court because the trial judge failed to instruct the jury properly on his self-defense plea. He also is under indictment for the murder of Mrs. Fred Lewis, wife of Lahart's partner, who was killed by a stray bullet that night.

SALOON LICENSE REVOKED ON TESTIMONY OF GIRL, 15

The saloon license of Matteo Macchriano and John Russo, 1514 South Broadway, was revoked by Excise Commissioner Lawrence McDaniel yesterday on a charge of selling to a minor.

A 15-year-old girl testified that on Oct. 31 she went to the saloon with two men and another girl, also a minor, that the men bought them four or five glasses of beer and some gin rickeys, then took them to a room in a small downtown hotel. When she returned home at 4 a. m., her mother informed Juvenile Court officials and she is now a ward of the court at the Meramec Hills Farm for Girls.

Man Identified as Dead Alive.

By the Associated Press.

FRESNO, Cal., Dec. 10.—Sanford Osborne, 38 years old, of Joplin, Mo., turned up alive yesterday despite the fact a body identified as his had been buried as one of the six victims of a freight train wreck near here Nov. 23. A sister, Mrs. Virginia McQueen, Fullerton, Cal., who made the identification, said Osborne had appeared later at her home and reported he had been in a hospital at the time of the wreck. Mrs. McQueen paid for the exhumation of the body she identified.

MOFFETT'S TESTIMONY BARRED AT OIL TRIAL

He Is Not Permitted to Tell of Conferences With President in 1933.

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 10. — The appearance of James A. Moffett, oil company officer and former National Housing Administrator, as a witness in the Federal Government's gasoline price-fixing case was cut short yesterday.

The defense called Moffett, president of the California-Texas Oil Co. and Government member of the Petroleum Code Committee during the N R A, from New York to tell of certain conferences with President Roosevelt in 1933.

On objection of Government prosecutors, United States District Judge Patrick T. Stone ruled out any testimony regarding such conversations as hearsay.

Chief Defense Counsel William J. Donovan, speaking in the absence of the jury, offered proof of what Moffett would have testified, including a statement that the President saw no objection at that time to the general fixing of petroleum prices, and that Moffett proposed a $1.10 a barrel price for crude oil.

Judge Stone, in ruling, commented that there already was testimony that a crude oil price of $1 was maintained at the insistence of Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, who was Petroleum Administrator under the code.

Sixteen major oil companies and 37 individuals are on trial charged with increasing and fixing Midwestern prices in 1935 and 1936 by means of buying programs in which they are alleged to have paid high and arbitrary prices for independent refiners' gasoline.

The number of individual defendants was reduced by one when Judge Stone freed R. O. Audrain of Tulsa, Ok., a buyer for the Tidewater Oil Co. at that time.

COMPROMISE GETS SOUTHERN BACKING FOR WAGE BILL

Support for Lower Pay in South Traded for Help on Other Controversial Sections of Measure.

COMMITTEE VOTES DOWN 5-MAN BOARD

Proposes Single Administrator Who Would Have Advisory Committees in Determining Standards.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. — Disagreement developed among House members today over a committee proposal that wage-hour standards be administered by one man in the Labor Department, instead of by an independent board.

The House Labor Committee adopted the single-administrator amendment to the wage-hour bill last night by a 9 to 6 vote. Its decisions ended a day of behind-the-scenes conferences in which administration leaders apparently won enough Southern support to stave off Republican attacks on the entire measure.

The committee's single-administrator idea is in direct conflict with the five-man board authorized in the bill passed by the Senate last summer.

Fight on Floor Expected.

The Senate proposal has widespread support in the House, informed persons said, so that a fight is in prospect when the bill comes up for debate Monday.

The measure has been bottled up in the House Rules Committee since summer, and only the unusual procedure of obtaining a petition signed by a majority of House members shook it loose.

The single-administrator amendment envisions the use of advisory committees as an aid in determining wage-hour standards. The administrator would appoint an equal number of spokesmen from employer and labor groups for each industry. These in turn would choose a group representing the public. The entire group's recommendations would go to the administrator, who could accept or reject them and call for a new report. If the second report failed to satisfy him, he could start all over with a new committee.

Under the legislation as it stands, the maximum work week could be set as low as 40 hours and the hourly wage rate could be fixed as high as 40 cents.

Compromise With South.

Most Southerners had opposed the bill as a whole, on the ground that it did not insure a differential in pay scales between the North and South. Partly leaders said, however, they had reached a compromise by which Northern representatives would vote for lower minimum wages in the South, in return for support on other controversial provisions.

The compromise came at a caucus attended by 75 or more members who were urged by Speaker Bankhead, Majority Leader Rayburn and Representative Boland of Pennsylvania, the party whip, to "stand by the administration."

Representative Dockweiler (Dem.), California, will try to substitute on the floor the wage-hour bill favored by the American Federation of Labor. This measure would impose flat 40-hour week and 40-cent wage provisions on all interstate industry.

CHARGES PLOT OF MOVIE STARS TO DOMINATE WEST

Deposed Labor Leader Files $5,100,000 Damage Suit Against 5000.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—Ivan F. Cox, deposed secretary-treasurer of the local longshoremen's union, charged in a $5,100,000 damage suit today that several movie stars, labor leaders and Government officials were engaged in a plot to dominate the western states.

Fredric March, movie star, was accused in the suit of leading the plot. Movie personages named as co-defendants are actors Franchot Tone, Mary Astor, James Cagney, Lionel Stander and Jean Muir and Director Wilhelm Dieterle.

Cox asserted the defendants deprived him of the right to earn his living and blackened his character. He asked that $5,000,000 be awarded "the general fund of the State," with $100,000 going to him.

The suit attacked Harry Bridges, Pacific Coast director of the CIO, and John Shoemaker, Henry Schmidt and Peter Brown of the longshoremen's union and asserted they and other defendants conspired to cause "innumerable strikes and acts of violence, murder and sabotage."

March, the suit asserted, had devoted a large part of his earnings to advance by "guile and subterfuge" the cause of Communism and to interest national celebrities in the racial cause.

Cox's complaint named 5000 John and Jane Does.

Jack White, secretary of March, said in St. Louis that March had joined other movie stars to seek the release of Tom Mooney. March is appearing at the American Theater here.

RULES NEGRO HAS NO RIGHT IN WHITE SCHOOLS OF STATE

Supreme Court Refuses to Order Missouri U. to Admit Lloyd D. Gaines to Law Department.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 10.—The public policy in Missouri has been to segregate the white and Negro races for purposes of education in the public schools, and there is no constitutional prohibition against such separation for purposes of higher education, the Missouri Supreme Court en banc ruled late yesterday in a test case involving the question of whether Negroes are eligible to admission to the University of Missouri at Columbia as students.

The court affirmed a judgment of the Boone County Circuit Court denying an application by Lloyd L. Gaines, 25-year-old Negro of St. Louis, for a writ of mandamus to compel the Board of Curators of the University of Missouri to admit him as a student in the School of Law of the university.

The test case was the first raising this question in the nearly 100 years of the university's history.

"Adequate Provision" for Negroes.

Judge William F. Frank, who wrote the opinion, overruled several constitutional points raised by counsel for Gaines, and held the Legislature had made adequate provision for higher educational opportunities for Negroes, equivalent to those furnished at the University of Missouri. The other six Judges of the court en banc concurred.

The Judge pointed to statutes providing for development of Lincoln University for Negroes in Jefferson City and providing that the State shall pay the tuition of Negro residents of the State in the universities of adjoining states which admit Negroes, if the course of study desired is not taught at Lincoln University, as showing the clear intention of the Legislature to separate the white and Negro races for the purposes of higher education.

Public Schools Precedent.

"The public policy of a State is evidenced by the Constitution, statutory laws, course of administration and decisions of the courts of last resort of the State," Judge Frank said. "It is clear that the constitutional and statutory provisions to which we have called attention provide separate public schools for the education of colored children. In the administration of these constitutional and statutory provisions, separate schools have been established and maintained for that purpose.

"This court has held that the Constitution and laws of this State providing separate schools for colored children are not forbidden by or in conflict with the fourteenth amendment of the Federal Constitution, and do not deprive colored children of any rights.

"It follows, therefore, that the established public policy of this State has been and now is to segregate the white and Negro races for the purpose of education in the common and high schools of the State."

No Legal Bar to Separation.

In overruling a contention of counsel for Gaines that the public policy of the State does not require the separation of the races for the purpose of higher education, Judge Frank said there was no constitutional provision requiring such separation as to higher education, but "neither is there any constitutional prohibition against such a separation."

"Our State Constitution is not a grant but a limitation on legislative power," the Judge said, "so the Legislature may enact any law not expressly or impliedly prohibited by the Federal or State constitutions."

Since there was no constitutional prohibition against the separation of the white and Negro races for higher educational purposes, he said, the Legislature has authority to enact laws providing for such separation.

Gaines, a graduate of Lincoln University, admitted in the Circuit Court hearing that he had not applied to the Board of Curators of Lincoln University for payment of his tuition in any of the law schools of State universities of the adjoining States of Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas, which admit Negroes. Lincoln University does not now include a law school.

Counsel for Gaines in the presentation of his appeal to the Supreme Court last May included Charles H. Houston of New York, well-known Negro lawyer and an attorney for the National Association for Advancement of Colored People.

DEATH SENTENCE COMMUTED

By the Associated Press.

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 10.—Gov. Hugh White commuted yesterday the death sentence of William Clark Mitchell, white man convicted of killing a Negro, to life imprisonment.

If Mitchell had been executed as scheduled Friday, Dec. 17, he would have been the second white man in Mississippi to die for the murder of a Negro. Gov. White said three reputable physicians, including his own family doctor, told him Mitchell was insane.

KILLER ENDS HIS LIFE ON EXECUTION NIGHT

Man Who Shot Ex-Wife, Two Others Jumps to Death in Idaho in View of Parents.

By the Associated Press.

BOISE, Idaho, Dec. 10.—Douglas Van Vlack, killer of three persons who was to have been executed on the Idaho prison gallows at 12:10 a. m. today, fatally injured himself last night when he crawled up a cellhouse beam and jumped 30 feet to the concrete floor a few minutes after he had kissed his mother and father. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Van Vlack of Tacoma, Mich., farewell.

He did not regain consciousness and died at 12:10 a. m.

Van Vlack, 33 years old, was convicted of killing his divorced wife, Mildred Hook, 22, of Tacoma. She was found shot to death in a culvert near Twin Falls, Idaho, Nov. 25, 1935. He also admitted, officers said, the fatal wounding of two Idaho police officers when they attempted to stop him in his flight with Miss Hook, whom he had abducted at Tacoma.

Al Baker, guard at the death cell, quoted Van Vlack as saying: "If they're going to get me, I'll beat them to it. This is just the way I want to die; you're not going to see me hanging by a rope."

The guard, the prisoner's parents and one of the man's spiritual advisers, the Rev. Arvid Ohrnell of Tacoma, witnessed the leap.

"They all coaxed him to come down," said the guard. "He refused; Warden Gess was called immediately. An attempt was made to get the prisoner, but he threatened to jump. Then Warden Gess ordered a fire net brought in. As it was brought into the corridor of the cell block, Van Vlack jumped."

EX-HUSBAND LEAVES $16,000 TO FORMER ACTRESS ON RELIEF

Former "Floradora Girl" Found Destitute in Chicago; Pair Divorced in 1896.

By the Associated Press.

AURORA, Ill., Dec. 10.—Mrs. Will H. Reeves, former "Floradora girl," was found on the relief rolls yesterday by an undertaker who wanted to notify her that the husband she had divorced had bequeathed her his estate of $16,000.

Mrs. Reeves said she met her late husband in Aurora before going to New York where she became a member of the Floradora girls' sextette. Later, she said, she played in the "Wizard of Oz," "Twin Beds" and other Broadway productions. At one time she toured the world with a troupe. On her return to Aurora after quitting the show business, she said, she married Reeves.

"I got my divorce in Chicago on the ground of incompatability," she said. "Will was a good man. I really think he loved me too much. I'd like to go back to see Broadway for a while and have a little fun."

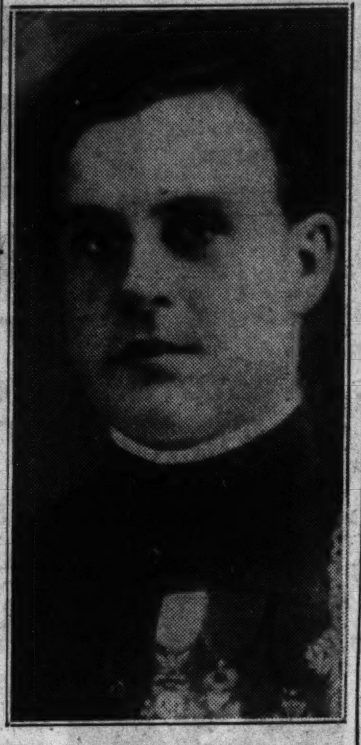
Sergt. M. B. Ellis, Hero In World War, Dies

St. Louisan, Who Captured or Killed 53 Germans in a Day, Succumbs in Chicago—Autopsy to Be Held.

WAR HERO DEAD



SERGT. MICHAEL B. ELLIS

The funeral of Sergt. Michael B. Ellis, who performed one of the greatest feats of single-handed gallantry in the American forces in the World War and the outstanding valorous accomplishment of any St. Louisan in the war, will be held Monday at Chicago, where he died yesterday.

An autopsy to establish the cause of death was ordered by the Coroner today at the request of the senior physician of Hines Veterans' Hospital, Dr. L. H. Prince. It was at first believed pneumonia was the cause, but Dr. Prince declined to express an opinion. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

Sergt. Ellis, who was 43 years old and lately unemployed, had been in poor health for several years. He became seriously ill last Sunday and entered the hospital Tuesday. He moved to Chicago about 10 years ago.

Funeral services will be at St. Ignatius' Catholic Church at 9:30 a. m. Monday, with burial in St. Adelbert's Cemetery.

Holder of the highest decorations of the American and French Governments, the Sergeant's exploit in capturing or killing 53 Germans and taking their 10 machine guns near Exermont, France, Oct. 5, 1918, ranked him next to Sergt. Alvin C. York of Tennessee as a military hero.

Sergt. Ellis' Feat.

The citation awarding Ellis the Congressional Medal of Honor "for conspicuous gallantry, and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action with the enemy," described his feat as follows:

"During the entire day's engagement he operated far in advance of the first wave of his company, voluntarily undertaking most dangerous missions and single-handed attacking and reducing machine-gun nests. Flanking one emplacement, he killed two of the enemy with rifle fire and captured 17 others. Later, he single-handed advanced under heavy fire and captured 27 prisoners, including two officers and six machine guns, which had been holding up the advance of the company. One of the captured officers indicated location of four other machine guns; he, in turn, captured these, together with their crews, at all times showing marked heroism and fearlessness."

Decorated by Pershing.

Gen. Pershing pinned the Congressional medal on Ellis at a mass meeting at the Coliseum, Dec. 22, 1919, in the General's homecoming to Missouri. At that time Ellis was the only man in the First Division, "Pershing's Own," possessing this honor, one of two St. Louisans achieving it and one of 78 Americans who had been granted it for World War services. He was a member of C Company, Twenty-eighth Infantry, a Regular Army regiment, and had been with Pershing in the Mexican border campaign before the war.

A French General in Germany after the war pinned on Ellis the cross of a chevalier of the Legion of Honor and he was cited in French Army orders. He also was cited twice in American general orders and was the recipient of the French Croix de Guerre, with palms and fourragere; the Italian Cross of Military Valor and medals of the Polish-American and French societies of St. Louis.

His first American citation in orders was for "conspicuous courage and extraordinary gallantry" at Cantigny, where, as a 24-year-old Corporal, he led in the killing of two men in a German patrol, and the capture of a third, together with valuable maps. Next, at Soissons, in July, 1918, he was cited for "unusual courage in carrying supplies and in attacking strong points."

Managed to Keep Cool.

When he came home from the war, Sergt. Ellis said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he seemed to have an instinct for finding machine-gun nests, adding: "I always managed to keep cool and I tried to think my way as much as fight my way." At Exermont, Ellis' division relieved the Thirty-fifth (Missouri-Kansas) Division, which had suffered heavy casualties in its five days in the Argonne offensive.

Known as the only smoker in his whole division not using cigarettes, he attributed this to his foster mother's teaching. A broad-shouldered, curly-haired, blue-eyed man of medium stature, he last visited St. Louis a few months ago.

His mother, who was of Polish descent, became ill when he was born, and later died. His father, an Irishman and East St. Louis laborer, died in 1918, while the Sergeant was fighting his way to fame in France. He was the youngest child. At the age of 9 he was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. B. Moczydlowski, 1308 Cass avenue. He was a pupil at St. Lawrence O'Toole's parochial school, Fourteenth and O'Fallon streets; worked for a little while in the printing office where his foster father published a Polish paper and then, in 1912, enlisted in the Army.

At home he was always a "good boy" and cared for his young foster sisters.

Although he slipped into the city unnoticed for a visit on his return from Europe in October, 1919, he was entertained afterwards at several civic functions. Later, when Gen. Pershing came here, Ellis shared the spotlight at the Coliseum meeting held for the General. This was the first public ceremony in which Pershing bestowed a medal after his return from the war.

In March, 1920, Ellis was discharged from the Army. On Feb. 13, 1923, attired in his old uniform and wearing his medals, which shook on his breast from his nervousness, he was married at St. Hedwig's Catholic Church to Miss Catherine Krzyzanowska of St. Louis, an American Red Cross canteen worker in France, who later served in Poland with the Polish Red Cross. They met at one of the civic dinners here. Ellis put a stop to plans for public contributions to buy a home for him.

Writing to Washington in 1924, he asked what provision, if any, the Government made for a Congressional Medal of Honor man. He was broke and out of work, he said. President Coolidge thereupon issued an order making him eligible for a $1400 job as a postal clerk or carrier without civil service examination. After working for two months at the main Postoffice, he resigned, believing the Government should have done more for him. His family here has not heard what occupation he had had in recent years.

He is survived by his wife, his foster mother, residing at the Cass avenue address; three foster sisters, Miss Emily Moczydlowski, Mrs. Vincent Muenz, 2025 Sidney street, and Mrs. Joseph Wisniewski of Detroit, and by two sisters and three brothers.

RIVER LIGHTHOUSE BASE TO COST ABOUT $100,000

Superintendent W. C. Will's Estimate Is for Both Site and Building.

W. G. Will, superintendent of the United States Lighthouse Service in this district, said yesterday the construction of the proposed river lighthouse operating base in St. Louis, including the site, would require an appropriation of about $100,000. He estimated 15,000 to 20,000 square feet of floor space would be needed.

The base would be used primarily as a warehouse for storage of equipment and supplies used in maintaining 2500 beacon lights and 5500 unlighted buoys along 4700 miles of navigable channels of the Mississippi, Missouri, Ohio and Tennessee rivers. The site, not yet selected, probably would be on the city riverfront.

Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, in his annual report to Congress last Monday, recommended the establishment of a central base in St. Louis and sub-stations at other points to facilitate the servicing of the lights and buoys. At present the Lighthouse Service has an office in the new Federal Building, and uses space at the United States Army Engineer boatyard at the foot of Arsenal street for storage of supplies.

TWO DRIVERS PLEAD GUILTY TO INTOXICATION CHARGES

One Gets 15-Day Jail Term, Other Is Fined $200 by Circuit Judge Joynt.

Bert Bentley, 1312A Crittenden street, a laborer, was sentenced to a 15-day jail term and Oren E. Gruber, 1606A Tower Grove avenue, was fined $200 today when they pleaded guilty before Circuit Judge John W. Joynt of driving when intoxicated.

Bentley was arrested last July 31 after his automobile struck Tom Chosas, 1835 North Broadway, at Broadway and Mound street. Chosas was slightly hurt. Bentley was given credit on his term for 10 days he had spent in jail and will be required to serve but five days more.

COTTON GIN OFFICE HELD UP, $2000 TAKEN, AT HAYTI, MO.

HAYTI, Mo., Dec. 10.—Two well-dressed, unmasked men held up the Boeving Brothers' cotton gin office here and took $2000 last night.

Dave Pillow, the gin manager, and his wife, Mrs. Edith Pillow, were in the office. They were ordered to face the wall while the robbers took the money from an open safe.

Longshoremen's Strike Settled.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—A strike of longshoremen, which tied up a terminal in Baltimore since mid-Novemer and spread to Boston, Providence and Philadelphia Wednesday, was settled last night. Joseph A. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, said the settlement was temporary, pending negotiations for a new contract Jan. 15. The Merchants and Miners Transportation Co., whose terminals were affected, granted the men in Baltimore their demands for 95 cents an hour for a 44-hour week and $1.42½ cents an hour for overtime.

TWO SOUTH ST. LOUIS DRUG DELIVERY BOYS ROBBED

Armed Men Take $2.25 From One Youth and $5.80 From the Other.

Delivery boys for two South St. Louis drug stores were held up last night 10 minutes apart, apparently by the same two men, and were robbed of small sums.

Ralph Wells, 5048 Bancroft avenue, an employe of a drug store at 3902 Hereford street, had just made a delivery at 3709 Hereford at 8:50 o'clock when he was stopped by two men as he got on his bicycle. One of the robbers was armed. They took $2.25 from him.

At 9 o'clock, Erwin Heitert, 5511 Devonshire avenue, delivery boy for a druggist at 3722 South Kingshighway, was stopped by two men, one armed, after making a delivery at 5007 Tholozan avenue. He was robbed of $5.80.

SAYS PEABODY CO. PAID HIM AFTER BOMBING OF HOME

Defendant, Once Company Spy, Then Leader of Progressives, Testifies at Springfield, Ill.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 10—John Stanley, one of the defendants in the Illinois bombing trial and a former leader of Progressive Miners at Taylorville, testified in United States District Court today that his home was bombed and the Peabody Coal Co. made a cash settlement with him afterward.

Before the bombing, on the night of July 23, 1933, he said, W. C. Argust, divisional superintendent of the coal company, had given him his choice between acting as an under-cover man for the company, reporting to him of the activities of the Progressives or of being fired. He admitted he was an "under-cover man" before formal organization of the Progressives.

Stanley said he rejected Argust's offer and was dismissed. He said Argust told him, "You'll be sorry."

Argust, reported to be ill in a Chicago hospital, is wanted by the defense for further cross-examination.

Blast Cost Man His Leg.

Stanley identified pictures of his bombed home and garage and said his wife, daughter, son and grandchild were there at the time. So too, was another Progressive, Charles Deavers, who lost a leg because of the bombing. The coal company later settled with him, too, as was detailed in testimony yesterday.

The settlements were negotiated by Argust, John Hogan, attorney for the company, and his lawyer-partner, John W. Coale, State's Attorney of Christian County. Indictments against the two bombers were then withdrawn and they were permitted to plead guilty to a misdemeanor charge and pay fines of $500 each. They never appeared in court and Hogan tendered the money.

On cross-examination Stanley said the only wrecks observed by him were the wreckage of his bombed home and garage. On redirect examination Stanley disclosed his home was bombed four times during the mine warfare, so he maintained a guard at his home for more than a year.

Welly K. Hopkins, chief of Government counsel, then said: "Don't you know every Progressive and every United Mine Workers in the Taylorville area was guarding his home while that trouble went on?"

The witness said he was not aware of it.

Shooting and Bombing.

Testimony that a few hours prior to the "shooting up" of a Peabody mine at Harrisburg on Oct. 4, 1933, two men threw a tear-gas bomb from a car driven through the streets, was given by Charles Beal, in charge of the Progressive commissary there. He denied Progressive leaders made inflammatory statements at a mass meeting prior to the mine outbreak.

Beal asserted he was standing by a drug store near the defendant Jess Anderson when "two men in a car drove by and threw a bomb as they passed." The bomb exploded, he testified, but no one was hurt.

The 36 defendants are charged with conspiracy to interfere with the mails and interstate commerce through the bombing of coal trains and mines during the warfare between the Progressives and the United Mine Workers from 1932 through 1935.

Doctor to See Argust.

Judge Briggle ordered a Government physician to Chicago last night to determine the condition of Argust.

The action was taken after Chief Defense Attorney A. M. Fitzgerald charged that Argust, who previously appeared as a witness for the prosecution, was "deliberately evading" service of a subpena for his return to court.

Fitzgerald asked the court to order the examination after he read from a telegram from the United States Marshal's office at Chicago saying Argust was critically ill in a hospital there and the subpena, the second one issued, could not be served.

Fitzgerald repeated his charge that Argust was at work when an affidavit attesting to his illness was received by the court and that when he was told Argust was out of the state, "definite" information placed the mine superintendent at a Chicago meeting.

Charges by Jesse R. Brown of Ewardsville, Fitzgerald's associate, that Prosecutor Hopkins had misrepresented Argust's condition to the court during several requests for his recall led to an exchange of heated words immediately after court adjourned for the day and Judge Briggle retired. Bailiffs quickly ordered the courtroom cleared to end the argument.

5 KILLED IN AUTO-TRAIN CRASH

Victims, All Men, Lose Lives Near Burt, Ia.

By the Associated Press.

BURT, Ia., Dec. 10.—Five men were killed last night when a Chicago & North Western Railroad motor train crashed into their car at a crossing near here.

The victims, all from Elmore, Minn., were Herbert Curtis, Elmer Meissner, Louis Shamberg, Ervin Richter and Harry Blondon. The train was derailed.

ROMANCE WITH EX-CONVICT ENDED BY HIS ARREST

Girl Tells of Writing to Man in Missouri Prison and Meeting Him After Release.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—Bertha Scott, formerly of Sedalia, Mo., told police yesterday of her romance with a former Missouri convict which ended when he and two others were arrested here for a series of liquor and drug store holdups.

The man, Kraft Boyd, 23 years old, said he was from Kirksville and St. Joseph, Mo.

Miss Scott told Captain of Inspectors Duella she was a domestic at Sedalia when a friend suggested she write to someone in the Missouri penitentiary.

"I was shocked at first, but after I thought it over I figured there were many fellows in prison who wouldn't be there if they had someone to love, so I started writing to Kraft Boyd," she said.

Boyd's letters told her he had been convicted of burglary committed "on impulse." Then he wrote he was getting out and asked her to meet him.

"I thought I could influence him," Miss Scott related. "He said he was going away for a new start and he would send for me. When he came to San Francisco I thought he was going straight.

"I didn't know what he was doing until Grover Settlemeyer staggered into my apartment, wounded. Kraft and I had planned to be married before Christmas."

Settlemeyer, who said he was from Kansas City, is in a serious condition in a hospital here from a rifle bullet fired by a robbery victim. He is one of the three held for the series of holdups.

YOUTH SHOT AT HOME; THINKS BURGLAR DID IT

Oliver Nienhaus, 19-year-old unemployed clerk, was shot in the left shoulder and left arm with a .22 caliber pistol last night at his home at 5202 Conde street.

After he was taken to City Hospital by his sister and her husband, Edward McDonald, a clerk at the hospital, he told police he was shot by one of two men, apparently burglars, whom he surprised in the house when he returned suddenly after going out at 7:15 p. m. He was placed in the prison ward of the hospital pending investigation.

Nienhaus' condition is not serious.

He told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that he had gone out to telephone his wife, Alice, 17, whom he married last June but who has been living at the Women's Christian Home, 2709 Locust street.

"Alice said she would be busy moving to another room that night, but there was no argument, and I was going to drop in on her for a moment, anyway," Nienhaus said.

"I went home to get my fountain pen. My sister and brother-in-law, whose home it is, were out of town. When I tried to turn on the lights, they wouldn't work. I went into the bedroom, and heard a noise in the kitchen. I picked up a lamp and started toward the kitchen. A man grabbed me by the coat lapel from one side and another one somewhere in front of me called for me to keep quiet. I couldn't see them clearly because it was dark.

"I threw the lamp at the man in front of me, and the man who was holding me fired a pistol at me. I lost consciousness. When I came to, I was too weak to get up for a while."

Mr. and Mrs. McDonald told police that they returned home at 10:45 o'clock and, after they pounded on the door for 15minutes, Nienhaus, haggard and weak, opened the door for them.

Last Tuesday, McDonald reported to police that the residence was robbed of a .22-caliber target pistol, $40 and a watch.

Wrapping of Garbage Requested.

A request that householders wrap their garbage in paper before depositing it in outdoor containers was made yesterday by Street Commissioner Edmund J. McMahon. The cold weather had made the garbage collectors' work difficult because the refuse freezes to the containers.

Diane Gibson Gets Divorce.

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 10.—Diana Gibson, movie actress, was awarded a divorce yesterday from Louis J. Myers, sound engineer. She testified that two weeks after their marriage at Yuma, Ariz., June 20, 1936, her husband began to leave home for several days at a time without explanation.

UNPAID WATER BILLS INCREASE 50 PER CENT

Delinquencies Total $321,233 Public Utilities Director Reports.

The amount of delinquent water bills due the City of St. Louis has increased 50 per cent since May in spite of the announcement at that time by Director of Public Utilities Edward E. Wall that delinquents must make substantial payments on their old bills or have their water shut off.

Collector William F. Baumann told a Post-Dispatch reporter today that 2169 large consumers owed back bills totaling $251,067, and 9232 householders owed bills amounting to $70,166 for a total delinquency of $321,233. The delinquency last May was $212,953.

The water service of none of the large consumers has been interrupted during the period although with a few exceptions their delinquencies have grown rather than diminished. Water has been shut off briefly in many homes where back bills were owed, resulting almost invariably in prompt payment on delinquencies.

Householders have effected a reduction of about 30 per cent in their total delinquency since May, Baumann said. At that time 12,331 owed $100,243 in back bills. There were 1270 large users, who pay for amounts of water recorded by meters, owing a total of $112,719 in May as compared with the 2169 who are delinquent now for a total of $251,070.

Water Commissioner John B. Dean expressed surprise when the reporter called his attention to Baumann's report. He said he would ask the assessment division of his department to look into the situation. The assessment division has authority to turn off the service of users who are behind in their taxes.

J. Edward Bates, Dean's subordinate in charge of assessments, said the delinquencies indicated the Collector ought to make greater efforts at collection. There would be some natural increase in delinquencies this month, he said, because the bills on which payment is now due were released only recently and are based, in the case of the large consumers, on usage during summer months.

In 1931, the city became lenient in collecting because of distressed conditions. Many places with large water bills, particularly some hotels and laundries, pleaded that they would be forced out of business unless extension on the bills were given to them, and most householders on relief paid no water fees.

Among the delinquent users are the Chase Hotel, which owes $4738 now as compared with $3172 in May; 4605 Lindell, Inc., an apartment building, with a current bill of $2564, an increase of $120 since May; and the Fashion Square Building, 1307 Washington avenue, which owes $5277 now as against $4785 six months ago.

Other large users and the amounts of their delinquent water bills follow: the Colonial Laundry, 4016 Olive street, $3852 now, $3559 in May; 4110 Enright avenue, an apartment building, $2658 now, $2470 in May; the Good-Will Laundry, 4436 Olive street, $2301 now, $1980 in May; Mungers Laundry, 2310 Washington avenue, $3368 now, $3264 in May; and the Admiral Hotel, 2330 Olive street, $1165 now, $1307 in May.

Dies After Making Address.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—William E. Taylor of New York, vice-president of the American Can Co., died last night of heart disease a few minutes after he addressed a district sales convention of the company. He was 59 years old.

BIRTHPLACE OF GEORGE III TO BE APARTMENT HOUSE

London Twin Residence of Dukes of Norfolk Since 17th Century Sold to Contractors.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Norfolk House, town house of the Dukes of Norfolk since the 17th century, is giving way to London's current craze for modern flats.

The present Duke of Norfolk, who has used the house only for coronation occasions as hereditary Earl Marshal, has sold the mansion to a firm of contractors. Modernistic apartments with curved glass windows and the best of what London calls central heating probably will take its place.

The price was not announced, but the Duke, in 1930, withdrew the house from auction when a bid of $1,250,000 was reached.

George III, against whom the American colonies revolted, was born in a back room of Norfolk House in June, 1738.

Mine Disaster Memorial Fund.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Dec. 10.—Funds will be obtained by public subscription to erect a monument to the 352 men who were killed 30 years ago in the Monogah mine disaster. The memorial will be placed on the Clarksburg-Fairmont highway.

6351 Accidental Deaths.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Dec. 10.—(Canadian Press)—There were 6351 fatal accidents in Canada in 1936, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports.

The figures follow: Home accidents, 2760; public places, 2590; industry, 980; unclassified, 21. Motor vehicles caused 1313 deaths, 315 were drowned, and heat killed 814, including 780 who died in the July heat wave. Railway accidents took 238 lives.

MAYOR HAGUE OF JERSEY CITY TO CLOSE JUVENILE COURTS

He Says Strapping by Parents Is of More Benefit Than Official Correctional Agencies.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Mayor Frank Hague said yesterday he intended to close the Juvenile Courts and correctional agencies for children in Jersey City, N. J., "because they're no good."

His system of keeping children out of the hands of police and out of courtrooms is better for the very young, he said. If they don't learn a lesson by reasonable methods outside institutions, the end of a strap can teach them, the Mayor asserted.

He outlined his system in an invitation appearance before the New York Joint Legislative Committee on Law Enforcement. Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine, who appeared last week, had said: "I don't know what laws Mayor Hague has over there in New Jersey or whether he has any laws. But we need the same thing."

Hague said his system, in operation for seven years, prohibits arrests and courtroom arraignments, and is working "almost perfectly" now. No policeman is allowed to arrest a child. Instead he takes the child into custody and a complaint is forwarded to the Juvenile Research Bureau. The child's family is notified and a hearing, if required, is held informally in a school building. When it comes to second or third offenders, Hague said, the city makes the parent take the responsibility of administering a little old-fashioned punishment with the end of a strap.

FAMOUS NAME CONTEST IS HELD TO BE LOTTERY

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 10.—A "famous names" prize cartoon contest conducted by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat was declared a lottery by the Missouri Supreme Court en banc late yesterday in an ouster suit filed against the company by Attorney-General McKittrick.

The court assessed a fine of $1 and court costs against the publishing company, but held "it would be unreasonable and unjust to issue a writ of ouster in this case."

The quo warranto petition filed by the Attorney-General asked the court to forfeit the charter of the company for alleged violation of charter privileges through operation of a lottery.

The contest, conducted early in 1936, involved publication of a series of 84 cartoons. Contestants selected names for the cartoons, which were accompanied by lists of possible solutions. Prizes aggregating $15,000 were offered in the contest.

Commissioner Overruled.

The court, in declaring the contest a lottery, with a controlling element of chance, overruled a recommendation made last April by Fielding P. Stapleton of Albany, special commissioner of the court in the case, that the court make a finding the contest was not a lottery.

Judge George R. Ellison wrote the opinion, in which the other six Judges concurred.

The Judge said the Attorney-General instituted the proceedings in April, 1936, after notifying the Globe-Democrat that the St. Louis Star-Times had filed a complaint.

The Globe-Democrat Co. contracted for the contest, Judge Ellison said, with the Publishers' Service Co. of New York. The evidence showed receipts from the contest totaled $67,334 and disbursements totaled $66,551, not including the cost of contest advertising in the Globe-Democrat. Disbursements included $26,167 to the company furnishing the contest and the $15,000 in prizes. Contestants were required to pay 10 cents with each weekly set of cartoon solutions submitted.

"Controlled by Chance."

After reviewing the evidence concerning the contest, Judge Ellison said "it indicates the contest in its final analysis was controlled by chance." He said. "We think it was a lottery."

Judge Ellison said review of the court authorities "shows the ingenuity with which efforts have been made to circumvent lottery laws by devising contests for a consideration which purport to be and in some degree actually are contests of skill, although their obvious, intended and widely disseminated appeal is to chance. . . . It is safe to say that for the public good such schemes should be scanned by the courts with a scrutinous eye."

The publishing company had conceded that the elements of consideration and prize—two of the three elements of a lottery—were present, the Judge said, but denied the third element of chance was involved.

Judge Ellison said the facts did not call for drastic action against the publishing company, as its officers had acted in good faith, on advice of counsel, and that the plan had been submitted to postal authorities and approved as not violating the postal laws. He said the purpose of the contest was legitimate and "there was no fraudulent or criminal intent."

COMMITTEE CONSIDERS BILL TO BAR DOWNTOWN PARKING

No One Appears for Proposal at Public Hearing; 15 Express Views Against Plan.

A bill prohibiting parking at all times in the downtown district bounded by Fourth, Twelfth and Market streets and Franklin avenue, was taken under advisement yesterday by the Traffic Committee of the Board of Aldermen after a public hearing at which no one appeared in support of the bill.

Of the 25 persons present, 15 expressed views against the bill and the remainder said nothing. Six persons, among them, Harry Crawford, manager of the Ambassador Theater; Dewey Schmoll, representative of the Real Estate Exchange; John Mavarakos Jr., candy merchant, and Eugene Christy, representative of the Central States Life Insurance Co., spoke against the bill, and Claude B. Ricketts, chairman of the Progress Council, an organization of downtown real estate owners, sent in a letter of protest.

The gist of their statements was that the bill, if made a law, would have a bad effect on downtown stores and theaters, lower real estate values in the district, and eliminate St. Louis' already meager night life. Theaters would lose money, it was asserted. The remedy for traffic problems, speakers declared, was in strict enforcement of the present restricted-time law.

Marriage of Actress Annulled.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—Treva Lawler, stage and movie actress, said yesterday she had obtained a Mexican annulment of her marriage to Johnny Murray, radio producer, to whom she was married last spring after obtaining a divorce from Malcolm Brown, studio art director. Miss Lawler said the annulment was granted at Tijuana, Mexico.

New W P A Job Program to Increase U. S. Spending $23,000,000 a Month

Hopkins Says He's Not Thinking of Asking for Deficiency Appropriation for Projects to Put Additional 350,000 to Work.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. — The Government has ordered a $23,000,000-a-month increase in W P A spending to cope with mounting unemployment.

Harry L. Hopkins, the Works Progress Administrator, announced yesterday that work relief projects would be expanded within the next few days to provide 350,000 additional jobs.

Hopkins said he was not thinking at this time of asking for a deficiency apropriation to supplement the $1,275,000,000 the President has budgeted for W P A this fiscal year, which ends next June 30.

The $23,000,000-a-month increase will come out of the $1,275,000,000. Up to now W P A has been spending at the rate of $100,000,000 a month, so that at the end of November, $500,000,000 had been spent, and $775,000,000 was left. Thus it was indicated that W P A could spend at the increased rate for a time without exceeding the sum the President budgeted for work relief.

Urges Half-Billion More.

But Representative Ellenbogen (Dem.), Pennsylvania, urged that Congress appropriate half a billion more for the work relief agency, declaring: "I'm convinced that regardless of business developments, the situation is such that we must have at least a half billion more. I'm convinced the administration will ask for it soon."

Word that President Roosevelt still intended to balance the budget came, however, from Chairman Johnson (Dem.), Oklahoma, of a Democratic House group, which protested to the chief executive against a proposed $75,000,000 cut in next year's outlays for the Civilian Conservation Corps.

"The President said that the C C C camps had done excellent work," Johnson told reporters, "but he said there was a demand for balancing the budget and that he intended to do it."

The House committee advised the President that, while it opposed the proposed elimination of 300 camps in the next fiscal year, it was not opposed to economies effected within the camps without impairing their efficiency. An economy the group said it wouldn't stand for, however, was cutting ration expense.

La Follette Making Study.

Senator La Follette (Prog.), Wisconsin, disclosed that he was studying relief needs to determine what further increase in W P A spending might be desirable. He said the 350,000-man increase announced by Hopkins would not create sufficient spending power to have any appreciable effect on business.

Hopkins told reporters that he was leaving the capital for Rochester, Minn., to undergo a physical examination at the Mayo clinic.

"I simply say that on the basis of the realities of the present situation, we think the requirements of the relief problem so far as employable people are concerned indicate we should increase our numbers by 350,000," Hopkins said.

He said current WPA reports showed 1,575,000 were on the work relief rolls, compared with 1,519,740 in the week ended Nov. 27. W P A rolls have climbed since Oct. 2, when they reached a low point of 1,450,101.

A Government economist, who declined to be quoted by name, estimated 1,100,000 men who were working in factories three months ago now are out of work. Another 1,800,000, he calculated, have been reduced to part-time work.

HOLDERS OF MATURING U. S. NOTES ACCEPT NEW ISSUES

Secretary of Treasury Also Reports Heavy Cash Subscriptions for Bond Offering.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau said today holders of virtually all of the $277,000,000 worth of Treasury notes maturing Feb. 1 have accepted an offer to exchange their securities for new issues instead of receiving cash.

They were offered either eight-year 2½ per cent bonds or five-year 1⅜ per cent Treasury notes. Since $450,000,000 worth of the new securities also were offered for cash sale, the exchanges will bring the total financing to about $725,000,000.

Morgenthau also said cash bids for the $250,000,000 worth of new bonds totaled $4,084,000,000. Because of this large subscription, the Treasury will sell each bidder only one $1000 bond plus 7 per cent of the bonds asked above $1000.

Cash bids for the $200,000,000 worth of new notes aggregated $2,702,000,000. Each bidder will be allotted $1000 plus 8 per cent of the amount asked above $1000.

AIR CHIEF SAYS U. S. ARMY HAS TECHNICAL SUPERIORITY

Bases This Conclusion on Tests in Tactics and Strategy; Number Inferior.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—The technical superiority of American military aircraft, conceded in the 1937 edition of Jane's All the World Aircraft, which has just been published in London, but not the numerical strength attributed to this country's air forces by the British authority, was confirmed today in a statement by Major-General Oscar Westover, chief of the Army Air Corps.

The statement was presented by Dr. Alexander Klemin, head of the Daniel Guggenheim School of Aeronautics of New York University, in a symposium on aviation progress at the annual meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Official figures place the United States at the bottom of the list of first-class world Powers in number of fighting planes.

"More than 500 new planes were procured for the Army Air Corps during the yaer," Westover's statement said. "These included a small number of experimental types, but for the most part they were modern standard types in the classes of bomber, attack, reconnaissance, fighter and training planes.

"It may be stated with assurance that the types of planes procured during the year were the equal and in many cases the superior of those obtainable elsewhere in the world, when judged by the light of the tactical missions and strategic functions they are called on to perform."

C I O WINS STATE-SPONSORED MILL ELECTION IN OREGON

Employes at Portland Vote, 376 to 183, for Lewis Union as Bargaining Agent.

By the Associated Press.

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 10.—The Committee for Industrial Organization won an election called by Gov. Charles Martin to decide on a bargaining agent in Portland's lumber industry yesterday.

Under armed guard, employes of the Inman-Poulson Lumber Mill voted 376 to 183 to designate the CIO as its agent. Plant officers said they would reopen Monday with a crew of 300 men. Gov. Martin called the election after the National Labor Relations Board refused to do so. The board previously had designated the CIO as the employes' representative. The carpenters' brotherhood, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, said it would boycott all CIO lumber.

Bar Advisory Committee Members.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 10.—Two vacancies on the State Bar Advisory Committee were filled yesterday by the State Supreme Court. S. P. Dalton, Cape Girardeau, was named a member from the Twenty-eighth Judicial Circuit, succeeding B. Hugh Smith, resigned, and Carl Otto, Washington, was chosen from the Thirty-second Circuit to succeed B. F. Bayer, also of Washington, who resigned.

DROUTH FORECASTING STUDIED WITH BALLOON

25 Readings of High Pressure Area Are Taken by Two Scientists.

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 10.—Long-range forecasting of floods and drouths was said today to be a possibility as the result of the work of two research assistants at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who for five days and four nights charted characteristics of a high pressure area in the Atlantic.

Meteorologists said they believed disastrous floods east of the Mississippi two years ago were largely influenced by this zone, known as the Bermuda high.

Research in the area is based on the impression that this body of upper air, when fully charted, will disclose definite seasonal and monthly trends which can be predicted with certainty and used to indicate the type of weather ahead over a longer period than is now possible.

A radiometeorograph, a device carried into the stratosphere by a balloon, broadcasting to listeners below the pressure, temperatures and humidity in the successive layers of air was used by D. P. Kelly and D. S. Mackiernan Jr. in a 1500-mile section from San Juan to New York through the Bermuda high, a semi-permanent high pressure area centering off Bermuda. They made 25 readings from a freighter, at four to five hour intervals.

MAN AND WOMAN ACCUSED OF MURDERING HER HUSBAND

Pair Held After Oklahoman Is Found Beaten and Drowned Near His Home.

PRYOR, Ark., Dec. 10.—Murder charges were filed here yesterday against Mrs. Della Hubbard, 29 years old, and Roy Kinion, 35, a neighbor. The woman's husband, Ralph Hubbard, 50, was beaten and drowned last Saturday night.

Mrs. Hubbard and Kinion were held in jail here. Authorities said Mrs. Hubbard had named Kinion as her husband's assailant. He was arrested at Hubbard's funeral. He is married and is the father of several children. Mrs. Hubbard told authorities Kinion went to the Hubbard home Saturday night, called Hubbard outside, hit him on the head with a club and dragged him to a nearby ravine, where Hubbard's body was found Monday, face down, in about two inches of water.

Speed Record in Oratory.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Senate veterans credit Senator Josh Lee (Dem.), Oklahoma, with a new speed record for Senate oratory. Lee spoke so fast yesterday in farm bill debate that the official shorthand reporters had difficulty taking down his words. They estimated he talked at times at the rate of 250 words a minute.

GEMINID METEOR SHOWER TO BE VISIBLE TONIGHT

Will Be Seen in South and Southeast, With Greatest Brilliance After Midnight.

The annual Geminid meteor shower, generally regarded as among the brightest of the celestial displays, will begin tonight and last for three nights.

It will be best visible to St. Louisans in the south and southeast and, as usual, will not attain its greatest brilliance until after midnight. St. Louisans who want to watch are advised to go into the county to get away from city lights.

J. Wesley Simpson, Webster Groves astronomer, requested that all persons who stay up to count the meteors communicate with him at 529 Lilac avenue, Webster Groves, and give him their report. Last year, he said, the Geminid shower was at one of its high points, with about 250 meteors an hour falling at peak time. There is no indication, however, that this year's display will be as brilliant.

BURNS TO DEATH IN HOME

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BLYTHESVILLE, Ark., Dec. 10—Frank Lind, 39 years old, was fatally burned yesterday when his house was destroyed by fire of an unknown origin.

The flames were not discovered until the fire was well under way. The man's body was discovered by firemen after the flames were extinguished. He apparently was alone in the house.

UNION MEN TELL CONGRESSMEN OF JERSEY ARRESTS

Counsel for C I O Organizers Says Hall Can't Be Hired Because People Are Afraid of Mayor Hague.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Twelve Representatives heard yesterday protests of union leaders against what they termed "denial of civil liberties by Mayor Frank Hague" in Jersey City, N. J. The Congressmen considered a visit to the city for first-hand study.

Morris L. Ernst, New York counsel for organizers of the Committee for Industrial Organization who were arrested in Jersey City, told the Representatives a story of "terrorism by police" and asserted:

"If you allow this Mayor to get away with this, other Mayors will follow his example and you will have in the United States a swell pattern for a European dictatorship."

Several Representatives asked if Hague would prevent a meeting of Congressmen in Jersey City.

Suggests Trip to Jersey City.

Representative Maverick (Dem.), Texas, suggested that the group consider going to Jersey City. Maverick said, "as a Southern Congressman, I say there is need for a law to preserve the civil liberties of the people from attacks by such men as Hague. The last laugh is best, and he is not going to have it."

Ernst told the group, including Representative Hill (Dem.), Washington, Allen (Dem.), Pennsylvania, Teigan (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, Dunn (Dem.), Pennsylvania, Luecke (Dem.), Michigan, Boileau (Prog.), Wisconsin, Izac (Dem.), California, Coffee (Dem.), Washington, Bernard (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, O'Connell (Dem.), Montana and Bigelow (Dem.), Ohio, that Hague "was itching for a fight, and it's all tied up politically."

The Representatives were among the 26 Congressmen who signed a letter to Hague asking for an explanation of police interference with labor organizers. Hague replied that everything was under control in his city and O'Connell yesterday wrote back, "you ought to get hep to yourself and recognize the handwriting on the wall."

"We can't hire a hall in Jersey City, because the people are afraid of Hague," Ernst said. "We plan a tabloid newspaper — containing editorials of other papers and telling the story of what Hague has done—to test the ban of distribution of literature. We plan to ask a permit for conducting a news stand, if we can't distribute on the streets."

William J. Carney, regional director for New Jersey for the C I O, said his principal aim was to keep the organization work peaceful.

Al Barkan, committeeman for Labor's Non-partisan League, told of his arrest with four others in Hoboken on a charge of attempted distribution of literature. He said $500 bail was demanded of each to keep them in jail and they were finally fined $5 each.

O'Connell's Reply to Hague.

O'Connell in his answer to Hague said:

"My dearest Frankie:

"Thanks for your reply to our letter. It confirmed our worst fears about you. In spite of those fears, we took a chance that you might rouse yourself from the miasma of machine politics in which you have your being and try to answer the important questions we put to you. But you are apparently still incurable and can't summon enough intellectual or other fortitude to face an issue squarely.

"We note that you say labor is 'under control' in your city. Knowing something about your methods of operation we're not surprised that you think it is. You've gotten away so long with profitable conniving between your machine and corporate industrial and financial interests that you can't imagine your 'control' ever coming to an end.

"Though the slogan on your letterhead inviting industry to locate in your city doesn't speak out your promise to industrialists and financiers to keep labor there from ever being effectively organized, it might just as well. You don't care at what low levels the workers in your city are kept. But, Frankie, you've got a rude awakening ahead of you. You ought to get hep to yourself and recognize the handwriting on the wall.

"Your letter is just a supposedly kidding variation of your frequent assertion that 'I am the law in Jersey City.' That, of course, is a pale imitation of Mussolini and Hitler. But it's something you better not try to kid about any longer, Frankie. American citizens both inside and outside your city won't take it as a slick politician's joke. The great majority of them agree with the President's Constitution day speech." He closed the letter with "Oodles of love and kisses."

Hague Says Roger Baldwin Is One of Moving Spirits in Trouble.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Dec. 10.—Mayor Hague said in a statement last night that Roger N. Baldwin, director of the American Civil Liberties Union, was "one of the moving spirits behind the controversy which the C I O has engendered in Jersey City."

Asserting "I have known for some time that Baldwin was behind the C I O movements in this country," Hague quoted from what he called "a Who's Who on radicalism (the Red network by Elizabeth Dilling) the accuracy of which has never been questioned."

Hague said the records disclosed Baldwin's "character and Communistic tie-ups" and added:

"To the people of New Jersey and our neighboring states my record is an open book. I give them my assurance that these elements will continue to meet a united opposition in Jersey City any time they attempt unlawfully to create disturbing conditions here."

Hague said his statement was occasioned by a Baldwin speech "in which he accuses me of using Communism to cover the activities of Jersey City officials in their recent efforts to preserve law and order in our city."

William E. Taylor Dies.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—William E. Taylor of New York and East Orange, N. J., vice-president of American Can Corporation, died last night of a heart attack at a district sales convention of the company in the Chicago Athletic Club. Taylor, 59 years old, had finished speaking at the dinner a half hour before. He collapsed at the table.

SENATE ASKED TO GO INTO ACTS OF LABOR BOARD

Burke Proposes Inquiry Into Charges That There Has Been "Flagrant Violation of Will of Congress."

CHARGES OFFICIALS ARE INTIMIDATED

Declares Conduct Has Been Such as to Increase Dissension in Industrial Relations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Senator Burke (Dem.), Nebraska, yesterday asked for a Senate investigation of charges that the National Labor Relations Board had been guilty of "continuous and flagrant violation of the will of Congress."

His resolution would authorize the Senate Judiciary Committee to hold hearings on the board's administration of the Wagner Labor Act and recommend remedial legislation.

Charges specified in the resolution were that the board had "favored one type of union organization and opposed all other groups," had "intimidated" local public officials, witnesses, employers and workers, had ordered the cancellation of valid contracts in defiance of Federal Court decrees, had "violated the right of freedom of speech and freedom of the press," and that "its conduct has been such as to engender disrespect for law and order and increase dissension in industrial relations."

Senator Davis (Rep.), Pennsylvania, told the Senate today that "abridgment of the freedom of the press by the National Labor Relations Board is now the occasion of comment from one end of the country to the other."

Davis referred to the board's issuance of a subpena for the production of certain records of an industrial magazine which had criticized the board.

He asserted that he was convinced that "the apparently endless amount of strife which has been aroused by the activities of the board does not point in the direction of industrial peace."

Boy Who Killed Father Released.

By the Associated Press.

FREEHOLD, N. J., Dec. 10.—Robert C. Miller, 15 years old, charged with killing his father, was released by Judge J. Edward Knight yesterday after the prosecutor informed the court that the grand jury had voted no indictment. The prosecutor said the boy confessed shooting his unemployed father because the latter came home drunk "and started shoving mother around."

HELD FOR BROKER'S DEATH

By the Associated Press.

HUNTINGTON, N. Y., Dec. 10.—George H. Hoyt Jr., 27-year-old automobile salesman, was charged with second degree manslaughter yesterday in the death of his cocktail party host, Samuel A. Walsh, wealthy retired broker. Walsh died Tuesday of pneumonia which developed after he was treated for a fractured jaw.

Hoyt and members of his family were guests at Walsh's sumptuous North Shore Long Island estate, Nov. 30. There was a quarrel authorities learned, and Walsh was injured.

INQUIRY RENEWED IN KILLING OF MINNEAPOLIS LABOR LEADER

Man Gives Information to Police; He and Three Others Questioned.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 10.—Three men were arrested for questioning today as Twin Cities authorities investigated a new statement ascribing the killing of Patrick J. Corcoran, Minneapolis labor leader, to St. Paul gunmen. The killing was on Nov. 17.

Police Capt. Charles Tierney said the informant also was detained. The names of the men were not disclosed. Two police investigators from Minneapolis who were summoned by Tierne ytook statements from the men, but declined to disclose what they had learned.

The informant told Tierney, the latter said, that certain St. Paul labor men had been dissatisfied with Corcoran's labor organization work. The man also said money was offered him to aid in Corcoran's killing but he refused it.

SAM SNEAD SHOOTS 67 TO TAKE LEAD IN MIAMI GOLF MEET

WEST VIRGINIAN CLICKS OFF FIVE BIRDIES, IS OVER PAR ONLY ONCE

By the Associated Press.

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Dec. 10.—Slamming Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., shot a four-under-par 67, one over the course record, today to take an early lead in the first round of the $10,000 Miami Biltmore open.

Out in 34, one under par, Snead turned on the heat coming home for a 33, three under.

Snead clicked off five birdies and exceeded par on just one hole, the sixth, where he three-putted.

His card:

Out—Par — — —	534 444 434	35
Snead — — — —	434 445 334	34
In—Par— — —	443 435 445	36	71
Snead — — — —	433 435 434	33	67

Ray Schwartz of St. Louis ran into trouble all around the course and had an 83. He needed 42 strokes on the outgoing nine and 41 coming in.

With about half the big field in, John Revolta, sharpshooter from Evanston, Ill., had come closest to Snead's great mark with a 69. Trailing Revolta by a stroke were Jim Turnesa, Providence, R. I., Tony Penna, Dayton, O., and Victor Ghezzi from Deal, N. J.

$7352 Net Profit For England on Davis Cup Match

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 10.— The British Lawn Tennis Association devoted its annual session today to the discussion of ways and means of regaining the Davis and Wightman cups from the United States and control of players.

They decided 'to keep amateurs from fattening on the game" by empowering the council to inspect the tournament accounts of any member club and to outline training system for young players of international potentialities.

"We are very much alive to the urgent need of leaving no stone unturned to get back these two great International trophies," said Sir Samuel Hoare, who was re-elected president.

Hoare outlined a plan of intensive training schedule for both men and women.

The annual report showed that England's net profit from the Davis Cup challenge round with the United States was approximately $7352.

An amendment authorizing investigation of member clubs' accounts caused most of the discussion. One faction suggested the rule wouldn't work since clubs could 'cover up" illegal expenses.

SAFEWAYS DEFEAT MONTANA STATE, 48-42

By the Associated Press.

BOZEMAN, Mont., Dec. 10.—The Denver Safeways, National A. A. U. champions, last night won a rough and tumble basketball game from the Montana State College Bobcats, Rocky Mountain Conference champs, 48 to 42.

Fouls were frequent in the fast game, in which the score was tied three times. The Safeways led 19-16 at the intermission.

Former Champion Gives Minnesotan the Once Over

Dempsey Pays Visit to Thomas, Max Schmeling's Next Opponent, But Is Not Greatly Impressed

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—It begins to appear like this Dempsey-Tunney feud will go on forever in one form or another. Ten years it't been since they last met under the ring lights at Chicago and both long since have become proud parents and solid citizens, but they're still at it worse than the Hatfields and the McCoys.

Tunney started it again the other day when he suddenly went all democratic and paid a long, homey visit to Max Schmeling's training quarters at Summit, N. J. Everybody realized at the time it was a deliberate steal of Dempsey's stuff, and they predicted Jack wouldn't take it lying down.

Stock in Trade.

After all, being the most democratic of all ex-heavyweight champions is Jack's chief stock in trade. Whereas there used to be rare characters who bragged they had shaken the hand of John L. Sullivan, it's difficult these days to find a man who hasn't been given a hotfoot by Dempsey, personally.

So Jack struck back yesterday, swiftly and hard. Appearing in a cloud of cigar smoke at the training camp of Harry Thomas, who fights Schmeling Monday night at the Garden, the Old Mauler did 10 rounds of democrating that made Tunney's efforts look puny by comparison.

He started with a fast three rounds in the camp tavern, during which he shook hands with 18 sports writers, eight sparring partners and six other citizens who just chanced to wander in. Warmed up, he tore through the noon meal behind a barrage of bruised hands and burned feet, and finished off in a red-hot kelly-pool game with all the prize-fighters around the camp, of all colors and creeds.

It was a grand exhibition, considering the length of time Jack has been out of active training, and he finished without taking a deep breath. Gene Tunney, the critics agreed, will think a second time before he stirs up Dempsey again.

Jack got one poor break, however. Tunney, after watching Schmeling work out, was in position to predict that the German would win his championship back by a knockout. It made exciting reading. Thomas' showing, on the other hand, left Jack and everybody else practically speechless.

In Poor Form.

The man from the Mid-West, who has been talking such a good fight lately that some of the boys were getting worried about Schmeling, must have saved up the very worst he had just for Dempsey. A pair of Negro spar mates plastered him around until it was ridiculous. Thomas displayed nothing except a swooping, curving left that almost never landed and which left him wide open for a right, say, like Schmeling's.

"It might be a good fight—for a few rounds," Dempsey said as he hastened away from the place. "I would judge that Thomas is very, very slow to get started."

That was about the most generous thing he could have said about Thomas.

232,656 Bowlers Are Enrolled in $34,000 Tourney

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Sports participation records for all time toppled like tenpins and the pastime of bowling scored its own strike today when final tabulations at Chicago headquarters showed 232,656 bowlers in 1532 cities and towns scattered throughout the United States now are rolling in qualifying rounds in the $34,000 Brunswick Bowling Sweepstakes.

That figure is a new high in sports participation history. Few competitions pass the 5000 mark and only one other sport has attracted as many as 27,000 participants in a single, organized contest. The latter figure was the mark set in a Government-sponsored and subsidized bicycle contest in France.

Bowling is having its greatest year. The American Bowling Congress, governing body of organized bowling, states in a recent bulletin, "The ABC team membership so far this season is 60,130 as against the former high record number of 39,848 on the corresponding date of last year."

Aside from the growing popularity of bowling, the widespread appeal of the Sweepstakes is due not only to the unusually large prize list, but also to the division of the prizes. There is no entry fee. The competition is so classified that the beginner has the same chance as the star bowler. Identical weekly and grand prizes are awarded to top scoring teams in each of five classes.

11 ILLINOIS PLAYERS TO RECEIVE LETTERS AT ST. LOUIS U.

Eleven of St. Louis University's varsity football squad who hail from Illinois will be among the 27 gridders who will be presented with monograms Thursday evening (Dec. 16) as the Billikens honor their football warriors.

Five of the Illinois representatives closed their collegiate careers in assisting the St. Louis U. Billikens to one of their best records in recent years—seven victories, two defeats and one tie game. All were regulars.

Woody Herrmany, Pinckneyville (Ill.) fullback, co-captained the Billikens during the past season, and Carl Totsch, East St. Louis halfback, captain-elect of the '38 squad, will be among those feted.

The seniors: Les Cagle, tackle, Metropolis; Johnny Nunn, halfback, East St. Louis; Joe "Ike" Vollmer, guard, Belleville; Bob Shea, fullback, East St. Louis, and Herrmany.

Others include Denny Cochran, halfback, East St. Louis; Charlie Harris, fullback, Alton; Bernard "Bumps" Walker, quarterback, Belleville; Bill Cochran, quarterback, East St. Louis; Dick Brooks, end, Springfield, Ill., and Totsch.

Collier's 1937 All-America

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Selections for Collier's forty-eighth annual All-America football team, which is a perpetuation of the All-America founded by Walter Camp, were announced today.

The players are:

Tackles: Edmund Franco, Fordham; Vic Markov, Washington.

Center: Carl C. Hinkle Jr., Vanderbilt.

Quarterback: Clinton E. Frank, Yale.

Halfbacks: Marshall Goldberg, Pittsburgh; Byron White, Colorado.

Fullback: Samuel Chapman, University of California.

In awarding the Walter Camp gold football to these players, the judges revealed that Frank, Chapman and White were the only unanimous choices of the Collier's board and the 50-odd coaches who were consulted. Frank, incidentally, was the only member of the 1936 All-America team be named again this year.

SHAMROCK CLUB IS EXPECTED TO DISBAND SOON

By Dent McSkimming.

Announcement may be expected soon of the disbandment of the Shamrocks' Soccer Club—once United States champions and finalists another season. The defection of some of the star players probably will be given as the reason for the action.

Next Sunday's game with Chrysler of Detroit, to have been played at Public Schools Stadium, has been called off.

At a meeting this week, Phil Riley, treasurer of the organization, informed members of the team that the club could not carry on unless Bill Gonsalves, star forward, returned as a player. Gonsalves and Bill Watson have consistently refused to sign for this season.

A committee, consisting of Eddie Begley, Tom Erbe and Scotty Nilsen was appointed to wait on Gonsalves and they did so last night. Gonsalves continued in his refusal to rejoin the team and, following this refusal, Begley and Erbe asked Riley for their releases. Thus far, Riley has taken no further action in the matter, but definite disbandment of the club which, in recent years, has become almost a St. Louis institution, is hourly expected.

NORTHWESTERN FIVE PLAYS PITT TONIGHT

By the Associated Press.

EVANSTON, Ill., Dec. 10. — The Pittsburgh Panthers, with a team made up largely of veterans, will go out tonight to even their basketball series with Northwestern's Wildcats.

Northwestern, which early in the week downed Marquette University, has won four games to three for the Panthers, in an intersectional court rivalry which has produced many close battles. The Wildcats have won the last two encounters.

Capt. Bob Johnson, forward, has been a strong cog in the Panther offense, while the Wildcat attack revolves around Fred Trenkle, Charles Melchoir and Jean Smith. Mike McMichael, veteran forward who injured an ankle this fall, is working out with the Wildcats, but will not get game competition for two weeks.

PATTERSON RESIGNS AS DELAND MANAGER

By the Associated Press.

DELAND, Fla., Dec. 10.—Pat Patterson, playing manager of the Deland Reds' baseball team the past two years, said last night he would not pilot the club next season.

Patterson said he has decided not to leave the Cincinnati Reds' organization, whose working agreement with the Deland Reds terminated with the close of the last season.

The pilot said he expected to be sent to some other Cincinnati training farm, probably Durham, N. C.

Tracy Normandy Captain.

Vernon Tracy has been elected to captain the Normandy High School football squad for 1938. The selection was made at the annual football banquet last night at which 27 players received letters. Twenty-three of them are seniors. Cecil E. Muellerleile, St. Louis University's head coach, was the principal speaker.

ALUMNI GROUPS OPEN CAMPAIGN TO NAME COACH AT MICHIGAN U.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 10.—Stunned by the suddenness of the dismissal of Head Football Coach Harry Kipke by the Board of Athletic Control yesterday afternoon, University of Michigan alumni in several sections of the country today slowly started booms for possible successors.

"Pressure groups" were being formed for Benny Friedman in New York, Ray Morrison in Philadelphia, Howard Jones in Los Angeles, "Ivy" Williamson in New Haven, Gus Dorais in Detroit, Irwin Uteritz in San Francisco and Bennie Osterbaan, still on the Michigan campus.

The board in control, headed by Athletic Director Fielding H. Yost, "grand old man" of Michigan football, has authorized its officers to interview "qualified coaches," but has maintained strict secrecy as to the names of the coaches it considers "qualified."

Students and the greater portion of Michigan alumni favor Gus Dorais, the "little man" of the University of Detroit, who was given a nation-wide vote of recognition last summer when he was elected to coach the all-star collegiate team that played the Green Bay Packers in Chicago and the New York Giants in New York.

This boom had a doubtful future, however, as Dorais has repeatedly taken the stand that he is satisfied to continue coaching at the Detroit school and has spiked all rumors that he was considering a move to a larger school.

Deny Responsibility.

The University of Michigan Alumni in St. Louis, in a telegram to the Athletic Board at the University, deny any responsibility attributed to alumni groups all over the country for the dismissal of Harry Kipke as head football coach.

MINOR LEAGUE CLUBS MAKE THREE-WAY DEAL

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 10.—Officials of the Indianapolis American Association baseball club announced last night completion of a three-cornered deal with St. Paul of the American Association and Hollywood of the Pacific Coast League which involves four players on the three clubs.

Indianapolis will send Outfielder Fred Berger to St. Paul. The Saints will send Outfielder Bill Norman and Infielder Joe Coscarart to Hollywood and Hollywood will send Outfielder Frank Doljack here.

Berger, a brother of Wally Berger, New York Giant outfielder, hit .292 for Indianapolis last season. Norman's season batting average was .303 and Coscarart wound up with a mark of .278. Coscarart led the league in field at third base.

JIM LEONARD TO COACH ST. FRANCIS

By the Associated Press.

LORETTO, Pa., Dec. 10. — Jim Leonard, former Notre Dame fullback and more recently of the Philadelphia Eagles pro eleven, yesterday was appointed athletic director and football coach at St. Francis College.

The Very Rev. Edward P. Caraher, president, said in announcing the selection, effective Jan. 1, it marked the resumption of intercollegiate sports at the little "college in the pines."

St. Francis abandoned its sports program five years ago in the midst of the depression.

CLEM DREISWERD IS DRAFTED BY COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 10.—Secretary Charles Hurth of the Columbus American Association baseball club announced last night that Pitcher Clem Dreiswerd had been drafted from the Richmond Piedmont League club.

Dreiswerd, a southpaw, won 13 games and lost 12 last year, pitched 219 innings, allowed 204 hits, 102 runs, walked 60 batters and led the league in strikeouts with 195. He is 22 years old.

Greenleaf Holds 96-Point Margin In Caras Match

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Ralph Greenleaf, world pocket billiards champion from Chicago, and Jimmy Caras, former titleholder from Wilmington, Del., remained all square in their 12-block exhibition match at the Strand Academy as each won a block yesterday.

Caras took the afternoon block, 125 to 37, in 21 innings. He had a high run of 83 to Greenleaf's 37. The champion came back to win the evening frame, 125 to 25, in nine innings and tie the match at four blocks-all. Greenleaf's high run was 43, Caras' 13.

The match, a "tuneup" for Greenleaf's title defense against Irving Crane of Rochester, N. Y., is being decided on a block basis. In the event of a tie, high points will decide the issue. Greenleaf leads in that respect, 755 to 659.

Braddock and Joe Gould Pay $1000 Fine Each for Canceling Schmeling Bout

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Former Heavyweight Champion James J. Braddock and his manager, Joe Gould, each paid a fine of $1000 today to the New York State Athletic Commission for failure to report for the Braddock-Max Schmeling title bout which was scheduled for last June 3.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Keep the Kickoff.

MARCHMONT SCHWARTZ, Creighton coach, wants the kickoff abolished from football and the game begun by scrimmage. That may not please spectators who get a thrill out of the present opening play, which occasionally sees a brilliant running return, now and then for a touchdown.

There isn't any real reason for abandoning the kickoff and going back to prehistoric times.

To start the game with a scrimmage play in midfield would be a tremendous advantage for the side winning the toss and taking possession of the ball. A thrust of two would put it in enemy territory—with all that means strategically—and largely because of a lucky turn of the coin.

Fifty years ago, when the field was 110 yards long and the halves were 45 minutes each, play began in midfield without a kick. The teams lined up on their respective 50-yard lines, leaving a neutral zone of 10 yards.

• • •

The Opening "Wedge."

THE side in possession of the ball formed a wedge, the point resting on the 50-yard line where a player, usually the center rush, stood with the ball. The referee blew the whistle, the center rush touched the ball to the ground which officially opened the contest.

The center passed the ball backward into the "wedge" where it was given to the man who was to carry it. Still preserving their triangle formation the players of the attacking side lumbered into action toward the spread out line of the opposition, now closing in on the human wedge as fast as speed could carry them.

The opposing center rush usually smashed into the wedge first to break it up and enable his mates to locate and bring down the ball carrier. Occasionally the center deliberately lay down in front of the oncoming group so that the attackers would stumble over him.

The wedge steam-rollered on as far as it could in solid formation then, its momentum halted or its formation broken, the ball carrier then emerged and tried for a longer gain.

This writer once saw a wedge used by a Massachusetts Institute of Technology team against Harvard for a gain of almost 40 yards before it was halted.

• • •

The Flying Wedge.

IT was two or three years later that Robert Deland, a noted writer, devised the flying wedge which was ruled out after two years of trial, as being too rough even for those hardboiled times.

On that play the center stood alone on the line holding the ball. Five yards or more behind him, to right and left respectively, were two groups of players, five in each. At the whistle these two groups converged on the waiting center rush and just as they came up in full swing he touched the ball down and the eleven-man group was off flying. Meanwhile the enemy players were compelled to stand still on their own line until the actual moment that the opposing center rush touched down the ball.

By careful practice in synchronizing their steps the attacking team was able to develop formidable momentum.

Something of the sort developed in later years under the kickoff system, where the defense converged in a fast moving group ahead of the kick receiver. That, like its predecessor, the real flying wedge, was dangerous and is now little employed.

It's Old, But It Works.

A CORRESPONDENT asks for an explanation of the "Statue of Liberty," play used occasionally in football games even today, although really an old trick.

This is a fake forward pass play. The passer fades back as if waiting to pick out a man to receive his throw. The defense spreads out to cover for a pass but just as the man expected to throw the ball draws back his his arm above and behind his head—somewhat in the position in which the figure of Liberty in New York harbor holds the torch —a runner from his own side passes behind him, takes the ball out of his hand and runs with it through the broken up defense of the opposition.

Training for a Chess Battle.

FIGHTERS, football players, runners and swimmers necessarily have to train hard to get into physical condition for a contest. But, believe it or not, so do chess players. At least if they don't, they would do well to do so.

We have it on the authority of Lewis W. Haller of the local chess club, which is sponsoring a tournament, that the play of a chess master is very seriously effected by his physical condition.

It appears that the chess expert must have brawn as well as brain to survive the strain of a long tournament.

"A great many people think of a chess player as just an eccentric crank," observed Haller, discussing chess and its physical requirements. "But after all a chess player is just an ordinary man with perhaps a little better than average brain power, plus physical condition. He may be a banker, professional man, mechanic, clerk, miner—all walks of life are represented.

"But whatever his vocation he must, like an athlete, have brawn as well as brain. He must do his best to keep himself physically fit. A chess player needs brains, unlimited patience and power of concentration; but above all he needs STAMINA, which only physical condition can produce.

"He may not be called upon to drag a battered and weary body up from the resined floor of a prize ring or across the goal line or run his heart out to win a marathon. But he is called upon to bear down during a mental and (by way of reaction) a physical strain lasting four or five consecutive hours.

"I have seen the effect of this strain on strong men. Starting out alert and brilliant, the mental pounding of four hours cuts him down until he begins to blunder and make mistakes that cost him the match, all because he was physically exhausted. In severe chess tests the man in the best condition lasts longest mentally. He wins because he is PHYSICALLY fit—believe it or not."

Form on the Gridiron.

WE still have faith in gridiron form. Last Saturday, for example, by comparative scores we arrived at the conclusion that Southern California was 5 3-5 points better than U. C. L. A., on the form shown in five games. The Trojans won by six points.

The Rice-Southern Methodist game, in the same manner, figured to be won by Rice by three points. Rice won by eight points.

There were some surprising upsets during the year, but compared to the total number of games played they were few. Fotball form worked out to an average winning percentage of 76.

Budge and Mako Lose to Crawford, McGrath in Final

By the Associated Press.

MELBOURNE, Dec. 10.—Jack Crawford and Vivian McGrath of Australia today defeated Donald Budge and Gene Mako of the United States, 1—6, 6—3, 6—4, 7—5, in the men's doubles final of the Victorian tennis tournament.

Budge teamed with Dorothy May Bundy of Santa Monica, Cal., to win the mixed doubles final, 6—1, 3—6, 6—4, from Jack Crawford and Thelma Coyne of Australia.

The Australian team of Mrs. Harry Hopman and Nancy Wynne scored a 7—5, 6—1 victory over Joan Hartigan and Miss Coyne to take the women's doubles title.

May Advance to Majors.

LeRoy Campbell, southpaw passing star of the Baltimore Blue Birds of the Dixie League, may advance to the Washington Redskins in the National pro league next season.

BILL COCHRAN OUT OF BATTLE WITH MISSOURI WITH AN INJURY

By James M. Gould.

Basketball teams of both St. Louis and Washington University will be extremely busy this weekend but local followers of the squads will see neither in action. The Billikens go to Columbia to open their 1937-38 season tomorrow night with the Missouri Tigers, while the Bears, with one victory under their belts, will play the same night at Cedar Falls, Ia., opposing the Iowa State Teachers. The Billikens return home after the Missouri game for an engagement here next Tuesday, but the Bears have games with Iowa at Iowa City and Illinois at Champaign before again showing before the home fans.

Coach Eddie Davidson of St. Louis U. is not certain about his starting lineup inasmuch as Bill Cochran, a veteran, will be unable to play because of a pulled tendon. It therefore looks as though Davidson, in his second year in command of the quintet at St. Louis, would have to open with three sophomores in his battle-front. Denny Cochran and Les Dudenhoeffer, first year varsity men, are likely to be at the forwards; another sophomore, Danny O'Sullivan, at center, with two veterans, Al Dudenhoeffer and Capt. Sid Mudd at the guards.

As reserves, Davidson will have Hartle, Foehr, Brooks, Hasser and Tom Fleming, the latter a letterman, available.

Three Veterans in Lineup.

According to latest advices, Coach Edwards of Missouri will have three lettermen and two sophomores in the lineup that will start against the Billikens. Hatfield and Kiersey will open in the forward position, Capt. Ken Brown at center and Lobsider, St. Louis, and Halsted, St. Joseph, both sophomores working the guard posts. As with the Billikens, it will be the Tigers' season opener.

It will be the second game of the season for the Bears and the Iowa State Teachers. The Bears opened auspiciously by defeating McKendree, 52 to 27, while the Teachers dropped a 30-26 decision to Iowa State. The Teachers have a new coach in Oliver Nordly who has had great success with Minnesota high school teams.

Coach Hellmich of Washington was fairly well pleased with the work of the 18 players he used against McKendree. Chances are he will be a bit more conservative numerically against the strong teams he will meet on the road. Were Beeler, the "dead-fish" expert, ready, Hellmich's task in selecting his starting team would be easier for the East Side star who doesn't care much for campus actors is a natural center. However, either Rowan or Lee will open in that position in all probability with veterans in the other four places—Douglas and Uhlemeyer at the forwards and Capt. Tomlinson and Charley Gilles at the guards. Hellmich has strong reserves this year in Bob Gerst, Vaughn Devine, Bill Ferfecky and Al Lee, among others.

Three Games Next Week.

Three games are on the local college cards next week. The Billikens play the Macomb Teachers Tuesday night and the Missouri Tigers, Friday, while the Bears oppose Missouri at the Field House a week from tomorrow night.

TOUCHDOWN CLUB TO MAKE ANNUAL AWARD

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—There'll be another post-season football award to hand out when the 1938 season closes, the Touchdown Club's award to the individual who has rendered an unusual service or made an outstanding contribution of permanent value to the game.

The Touchdown Club, an organization of former college football players, announced plans for the award at its fourth annual dinner meeting last night, at which Carl Snavely and Hooks Mylin, Cornell and Lafayette coaches, spoke.

G. Herbert McCracken, former Lafayette coach, who heads the Award Committee of the club, said "the terms of the award will be elastic, but the standards rigid and high. Acts of outstanding sportsmanship; unselfish efforts of individuals toward preserving the spirit of football; elevating the tone of the game; increasing the safety of players; improving technical play, any one of these may bring about the award."

McKENDREE LOSES TO BOWLING GREEN 51-33

A big second half enabled the powerful Western State Teachers of Bowling Green, Ky., to defeat the McKendree College Bearcats, 51 to 33, in a basketball game played at Lebanon last night.

Western led at the half, 27 to 23. It was the second loss in as many nights for the Bearcats.

THREE SOPHOMORES IN BILLIKENS' OPENING BASKET LINEUP

BILL COCHRAN OUT OF BATTLE WITH MISSOURI WITH AN INJURY

"He Was Great Player, Too Bad He Likes Horses," Landis Says When Asked of Hornsby's Status

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—The strangest chapter in the glory-to-junk-heap baseball career of Rogers Hornsby is being enacted these shivery off-season days as the once mighty Rajah conducts a seemingly hopeless investigation of his position in the game.

Only a few years ago, the Rajah was the toast of baseball. A great player's record lay behind him and a bright managerial career was ahead. A fiery independence and horse playing toppled him from his diamond pedestal and out he went from job to job. Today, between peeks at the racing sheets, the Rajah is making the rounds trying to find out if it's true he's been blacklisted.

During the major league meetings this week, Hornsby was the champion buttonholer. He looked good and seemed to have plenty of money in his pocket but his face wore the same question mark. He asked the same question of club-owners, managers, players and newspapermen. It was: "Will you try to find out for me if I'm on the baseball blacklist?"

Wants Official Word.

The Rajah is certain he has been blackballed in organized baseball because of his seemingly inborn habit of betting the ponies, but he'd like to get official advices about it so he could take some action—if any.

"Since last September I have been approached a dozen times with good offers in baseball," the Rajah said, 'but something always happens. A club representative will talk to me enthusiastically one day and then drop me like a hot rock. Why? Is it because I play the horses or what? Certainly, they should tell me.

"No, I don't intend to stop playing the ponies. I played them on my way up and I'll play them on my way down. What's wrong about that? I know a lot of the most successful business men in the country who play horses. It doesn't interfere with their work and it never interfered with mine. Furthermore, I'm not the only ball player who bet on the bangtails."

Hornsby isn't dreaming about that. There are some of the wildest hoss players in the business right in baseball today. In fact, when the Rajah was credited with breaking a bookie last summer in St. Louis, he was one of a half dozen players who took a chance.

Among those teams reported to have offered the Rajah employment since last September are the Cleveland Indians and Cincinnati Reds. General Manager Cy Slapnicka of the Indians conferred with Hornsby in Chicago last September and the report is he offered him the pilot's job. But someone, says Hornsby, turned thumbs down.

Commissioner's Answer.

When Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball commissioner, was asked if Hornsby was on the blacklist he shook hands warmly with the interrogator and said:

"Hornsby was a great ball player. A fine fellow. Too bad he likes horses."

Presidents Will Harridge and Ford Frick of the two major leagues likewise dodged the question.

Champion Fancy Skaters Give Pleasing Show Before 5280 as "Gay Blades" Opens at Arena

The athletic and aesthetic "Gay Blades" opened at the Arena last night on a cobalt blue ice sheet with soft lights and sweet music, starring the Viennese Karl Schaefer and America's Maribel Vinson.

They are champions—Schaefer of Olympic, world and European skating competition, and Miss Vinson of North America—and so their performances might be expected to be finished. They were.

The show lasted two and a half hours, was varied and interesting and pleased a crowd announced by New York Promoter Bill O'Brien at 5280. It will be repeated tonight and tomorrow night.

A Modern Motif.

The modern motif of the last two acts on the program drew the most enthusiastic reception, although spectators were left somewhat in the dark during the "modern mechanics" of the Icicles chorus when spotlights failed to find their marks.

Applause brought Miss Vinson back twice for her spinning Park Avenue Fantasy, and Schaefer had three encores for his Carioca interpretation.

But the whistling and cheering of a crowd completely captivated was reserved for the Simpson sisters, Margaret and Mary, two Canadian girls whose acrobatic stunts together were remarkable.

Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue supplied the theme of the finale, which brought in the whole cast—the blue and white spangled Miss Vinson, Schaefer, Frederic Mesot, the spread eagle king of Belgium; Guy Owen, the dashing Canadian; Frances Claudet, Ottawa debutante; Mary Jane Halsted, Canadian star of Lake Placid operettas; the comedy pair, Ted Cave and Alfred Trenkler, and others.

The program opened with Schaefer and Miss Vinson illustrating school figures. On the unmarked ice it was easy to see their mechanical perfection in tracing symmetrical patterns.

Following this was a "Flower Fantasy," group skating, "Pace, Tempo and Rhythm" by Miss Claudet to the tune of Duke Ellington's Mood Indigo; then "1860 in Vienna," a little "drammer" which needs help from the loud speaker announcer to let you know what the story is.

Flawless Performance.

But the skating is swell. The Claudet-Vinson-Owen-Schaefer four number at the end of "1860 in Vienna" was flawless.

Then came "Hey, Hey, Farmer Gray," which included a barn dance. At the end of this sketch Guy Owen encored with St. Louis Blues and had to reappear twice.

And speaking of encores—a couple of orchids to all the stars for being so generous in giving the spectators as many repetitions as they asked for.

Dizzy Dean's Second Annual Golf Event Opens Jan. 13

By the Associated Press.

BRADENTON, Fla., Dec. 10.

THE second annual "Dizzy Dean" open golf tournament will be held at the Bradenton Country Club Jan. 13, President A. J. Lawlor of the club announced yesterday.

Prizes will amount to $500. The tournament was postponed from this week until Dec. 15 and then set for Jan. 13 to avoid conflict with other tournaments, Lawlor said.

Central, Minus Coach, to Play McBride Tonight

Central's coachless basketball team will oppose McBride tonight in an inter-league high school game at McBride. In another contest, St. Louis U. High will be host to Blewett.

Central's former coach, Vernon Bradburn, has relinquished his athletic duties at the school because of graduate work he has been taking at St. Louis University which left him little time in which to instruct the squad. The Red and Black squad, though, has been given a little training by Bradburn and by Alfred Friedli, faculty member of the Interscholastic League Board and former coach.

It is expected that a successor to Bradburn will be named within a few days.

McBride, off to a flying start in this year's basketball campaign, owns close victories over Soldan and McKinley, City League representatives. Central was victorious in its only start, a non-league engagement with Beaumont.

Five St. Louis County games also are on tonight's program. Ferguson will be host to Affton, Valley Park will play at Brentwood, Riverview Gardens at Bayless, Eureka at Jennings and Hancock at Fairview.

FLYERS TRYING TO MAKE DEAL FOR PALANGIO

The St. Louis Flyers, who recently bolstered their forward line by purchasing forwards Bill Kendall and Oscar Hansen from the Chicago Black Hawks, have made on offer for Pete Palangio, fleet Italian forward, who formerly played here, according to E. C. Steffen, president of the local sextet.

William Tobin, secretary of the Black Hawks, who told Steffen that he would give the Flyers first chance to buy Palangio, stated that several Windy City regulars are on the injured list and at present the deal could not be completed.

At the start of the season Palangio, Kendall and Oscar Hansen formed one line for the Black Hawks.

Palangio told Kendall and Hansen that he would welcome the opportunity of returning here in the event the Hawks wanted to get rid of him. Palangio was leading the American Hockey Association in scoring when he was sold to Chicago last season.

Johnny MacKinnon and his players are on the way to Tulsa, where they will meet the Oilers tomorrow night. They will return to St. Louis immediately after the game to meet the Minneapolis Millers here Sunday night at the Arena.

Fido Purpur, forward, won first prize in a contest to decide the most popular player on the local squad. Purpur received 504 votes in the contest, which was conducted by the Flyer management. Hub Nelson, goalie, and Joe Matter, defense man, tied for second place, each receiving 491 votes.

BAUGH BETTER PLAYER AS PRO, COACH STATES

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—How much better football player is Sammy Baugh now than when he finished his collegiate career?

That is one question which will be uppermost in the minds of thousands of fans at Wrigley Field Sunday when the Washington Redskins, Eastern titleholders, and the Chicago Bears, Western section rulers, tangle for the 1937 National Professional Football League championship.

Baugh, at Texas Christian University, was generally recognized as one of the greatest forward passers ever developed in college circles. But as a freshman sensation of the pro league and the aerial spearhead of the Redskins this season it begins to appear that Baugh as a collegian may have been just a novice at the game when compared to Baugh of the play-for-pay circuit.

Much Better Now.

There isn't much question that Slinging Sammy is better now than when, as a member of the collegiate all-stars, his pass helped whip the Green Bay Packers Sept. 1. It's a question of how much better—and Coach Ray Flaherty of the Redskins had this to say: "We will show Chicago a much finer football player than the Baugh who played with the collegians. He's learned how to run with the ball, which makes his passing ability even more dangerous, and he also can block and tackle."

To stand out in Sunday's title battle, Baugh will have to outshine some of the greatest players the pro league ever has known. He'll team with the clever Cliff Battles, Riley Smith and Ernie Pinckert in a backfield Flaherty confidently says is the best in the circuit. Among the backs Baugh will oppose will be such luminaries as Bronko Nagurski, Jack Manders, Beattie Feathers, Ray Nolting and Bernie Masterson.

The contest, which more than 40,000 fans are expected to watch, despite probable near-zero temperatures, may develop into a battle of lines. In "Turk" Edwards and Jim Barber the Redskins have two of the finest in the league, with Edwards having one of the greatest years of his pro career. The Bear's two young tackles, Del Bjork and Joe Styrahar, have played brilliantly all season.

There has been little wagering on the contest, probably because of Washington's furious drive to the title in the final weeks. The Redskins knocked off Green Bay and then walloped New York, 49 to 14, as the Bears were whipping Chicago's Cardinals, 42 to 28, and both clubs appear at an offensive peak.

With the bitter cold holding another day, both teams headed indoors for final strenuous drills.

Eligible Players.

Each club will have the full number of 25 players allowed by the player limit, for the game. The list of eligible players follows: Chicago Bears: Frank Bausch, Delbert Bjork, Ray Vyivid, William Conkright, Beattie Feathers, Daniel J. Fortmann, Sam Francis, William Karr, Jack Manders, Edgar Manske, Bernie Masterson, Lester McDonald, Keith Molesworth, George Musuo, Bronko Nagurski, Raymond Nolting, Dick Plasman, Ernest Rentner, Gene Ronzani, Joe Stydahar, Frank J. Sullivan, J. R. Thompson, Milton Trost, George Wilson, Joe Zeller.

Washington: James Barber, Cliff Battles, Sam Baugh, Edward J. Britt, Victor Carroll, Glen Edwards, Donald Erwin, W. "Dixie" Howell, Edward Justice, Edwin Kahn, James Karcher, Edward Kawal, Henry Krause, Max Krause, Edward Michaels, Wayne Millner, Charley Malone, Bob McChesney, Lesler Olsson, Erny Pinckert, Geo. W. Smith, Riley Smith, William Young, Charles Bond, Ben Smith.

SOCCER SHOTS by Dent McSkimming

Jimmy McDermott, the best center forward seen here last season when he scored four goals in two games against the Shamrocks, has quit the Graphite-Bronze club of Cleveland and lined up with St. Mary Celtic of Brooklyn, an American Soccer League team. Last Sunday he scored two of the goals that enabled St. Mary's to defeat Hispano of Brooklyn, 6 to 2.

With Czerkiewicz and Kelso at fullback and a strong team generally, St. Mary Celtic now appear the East's best bet to reach the national cup final.

The Shamrocks offered McDermott a place in their team, but could not produce a job for him and he turned to the East.

The maximum pay for a professional soccer player in the British Isles is $40 a week, and the Football Association limits the return to club stockholders to 7½ per cent.

Nine persons were killed and 37 injured in a riot which followed fighting between players in a soccer game recently at an army camp site near Nairobi, Kenya, in Africa. The British army post team at that point engaged in a match with an Italian army post team. At half time rival players went at each other with fists and the Eritrean natives took sides and joined in. The mob turned from the football field toward the lines of the King's Africans (native soldiers) where rifles and ammunitions were stored. As the mob approached the camp the guards opened fire. Order was restored and wounds bandaged.

Corinthians on Tour.

Corinthians, one of England's leading amateur soccer teams, are off on a world tour which has taken them as far from home as India. In four recent matches there they attracted record crowds, one of which reached 50,000, and the total for the four reached 140,000.

But Australia would prefer to see a team from Central Europe on tour, rather than the Corinthians or any other amateur team from the mother country. Sports writers in Australia are agreed that a leading Austrian team would make a much beter attraction than England or even Scotland.

Glasgow, Scotland, is laying plans for an eight-club knockout tournament to be held during the Empire Exposition next summer and has invited Arsenal or London to be one of the eight. However, Arsenal is a great drawing card on the Continent and has received offers of $7500 a match plus expenses for games in Paris, Berlin, Vienna and other soccer centers, and is inclined to pass up the less lucrative Glasgow trip.

Suburban Fives In Seven Games

Seven non-league games comprise today's suburban basketball program. Ritenour will be the first to play, meeting Country Day on the latter's court this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

University City will be host to Belleville, Ill., tonight, starting at 7:30. A preliminary game will begin at 6 o'clock.

Other games tonight call for South Side Catholic to travel out to Maplewood to meet the Leafs, Soldan also to journey out into the county to meet Webster, Principia to go across the Missouri River to meet the St. Charles Pirates, Kirkwood to go to Woodriver to play the Illinois five on its home court, while Clayton entertains its alumni at the Maryland Avenue Gymnasium.

It was incorrectly stated recently that University City and Normandy were co-champions of the Suburban League last year. The Indians were the champions, winning out, by a half game, over the Vikings. University City lost only to Webster while "Pie" Reid's team lost to the Indians and to Maplewood. Each team won nine games.

WRESTLING RESULTS

GUESS WHICH IS FASTER!
SWIMMER OR CHICKEN?
BUT— YOU DON'T HAVE TO GUESS WHICH GASOLINE STARTS FASTER!
POLY
Phillips 66

CORRECT ANSWER appears below in upside-down type. Play fair! Don't look until you have guessed.
You get not only faster starting . . . but remarkable gasoline economy . . . with Phillips 66 Poly Gas—because it is the high-test champion among motor fuels. Its high test gives faster warm-up, runs smoother in cold weather, and adds miles by eliminating the need for wasteful choking. And high test Phillips 66 costs nothing extra, since Phillips is WORLD'S LARGEST PRODUCER of Natural High Test gasoline.
ANSWER: The 100-yard swimming record equals 4.01 miles per hour. A running chicken is more than twice as fast, having been clocked at 9 miles per hour by automobile speedometer.

MANUFACTURERS VOTE TO OPPOSE WAGE-HOUR BILL

Convention Declares It Will Seriously Affect Employment, Says State Laws Are Proper Approach.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. — The National Association of Manufacturers closed its annual "Congress of American Industry" yesterday with a challenge to Government and labor to improve on the association's program for recovery.

Colby M. Chester, the organization's chairman, addressing the final dinner session of the convention, asked if the program were fair, social, constructive, liberal. He answered: "We believe so. Furthermore, if it is not, we are prepared to make it so."

"Has Government or labor a better program?" he demanded, saying: "With our frank statement of objective and method, we are ready to enter the council chamber."

Wage-Hour Bill Opposed.

Chester's address concluded the third day of the gathering of some 3000 business leaders. It was scheduled as "labor day," and after a series of speeches and discussions, resulted in adoption of reports and resolutions calling for:

Sweeping revision of the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

Vigorous opposition to the pending Federal wage and hours bill.

Prohibition of political contributions by either labor unions or corporations.

Adoption of these followed a closed "labor clinic" at which Charles W. Fahy, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, vigorously opposed suggested revisions of the Wagner Act. He said later, however, that he wanted to make it plain that his attitude was "not antagonistic," but he wished to make it equally clear that no moderation of enforcement of the law was to be expected.

Dorothy Thompson, columnist, the convention's only woman speaker, told the convention that "people in the business world who think it the most important thing to defeat President Roosevelt on all fronts, are neither wise nor realistic."

At the same time she asserted "those in Government who believe the American system is defunct, should be warned that, although it is easy to destroy one social system, it is difficult to build a better one."

Miss Thompson said "we are in the midst of a business recession which cannot be blamed wholly to the economic royalists.

No Technique for Current Slump.

"The Roosevelt administration had a technique for dealing with the depression of Mr. Hoover's era. But at the moment it doesn't seem to have one for dealing with the depression born under its own administration."

The chief menace to freedom today in the Western world, she said "comes from the all-powerful state.

"And unless we can introduce realism, reason, and objectivity into democratic government, democratic government will destroy itself, and with it the civilzed world."

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, former N R A Administrator, told the manufacturers the present business "jitters" were due "far more to what has been threatened and said in this administration than what has been done. . . . Business has been less actually hurt than it has been worried to death."

"If anybody expects this administration to lie down, roll over and get up and jump through a hoop," he predicted, "they will be disappointed."

He looked, however, for less "bulldozing" of business. He thought it was being accepted in Washington "that only business activity can make employment, support the Government and restore prosperity — that Government can't."

Suggestions as to Labor.

The association adopted a report by its board of directors, which said:

"Government should protect the right to engage in lawful strikes, by lawful means, but its primary obligation is protection of the right to work."

The report urged that both Federal and State Governments prohibit not only unions but business corporations from making political contributions. It also urged that unincorporated labor organizations such as most unions, and unincorporated associations of employers, be legally responsible and suable in the courts.

The report condemned the closed shop and check-off, and asserted compulsory Government arbitration of labor disputes was "contrary to American principles."

It urged "all laws against violence, intimidation and coercion in the field of labor relations should be vigorously enforced."

The report also called for change in anti-injunction laws to permit courts "to dispense preventive justice in labor disputes as well as in other fields of human conduct."

The convention in adopting a final resolution attacking the Black-Connery wages-and-hours bill, said it would "create a vast Federal bureaucracy." The regulation of hours and overtime proposed involved "totally different factors from wage regulation and will seriously disturb business and adversely affect employment," it said. The resolution said the bill would establish a dangerous precedent that must inevitably lead to broader powers for Federal control. It concluded by declaring the bill should be vigorously opposed and recommended state legislation "as the proper and workable approach in this field."

For a "Coalition Government."

Chester, in his address, asked, "is Government prepared to join with business and labor and say in all frankness 'Well, we haven't cared much for one member of this group, but after all we haven't made much headway by fighting! The situation is grave and we need most of all to forgive and forget on all sides.' "

The times call, he said, "for what might be termed a coalition Government."

Chester said business had not opposed the various social and labor laws of the "New Deal" because of their objectives, but because business thought the laws as drawn would not work, or would be harmful.

LOST FLYERS FOUND ON PHILIPPINE ISLAND

By the Associated Press.

MANILA, Dec. 10.—Three Philippine army officers, one an American, were rescued today from a tiny tropical island, where their airplane was forced down four days ago with only enough gasoline for 10 minutes' flight. The three reached here in a rescue plane.

Fishermen on the isle of Bugitay, far off the flyers' course, fed and housed the men, Major-General Paulino Santos, chief of staff of the Philippine army; Col. Fidel Segundo, chief of the intelligence corps, and Lieut. William Lee, U. S. A., chief of the commonwealth's air corps.

Lieut. Alfred Maxwell, U. S. A., sighted them from one of many search planes. The officials were returning from Mindanao island in the Southern Philippines, where the Government has been seeking to crush Moro insurgents.

"We didn't know our exact location, so we dove through a break in the mists. When the plane touched the beach, the wheels stuck in the sand and nosed up, destroying the propellor. We all were thrown from our seats, but no one was hurt," Gen. Santos said.

Lieut. Lee, rated one of the army's best pilots, said they ran into the recent typhoon over Tayabas Province, more than half way home. He turned off his course to miss storm-shrouded mountains.

ITALY TO DECLARE TOMORROW IT IS OUT OF LEAGUE

BREAK ATTRIBUTED TO NAZI INFLUENCE

Rome Government Has Been on Bad Terms With Geneva Organization Since Ethiopian War.

(Copyright, 1937, New York Tribune, Inc.)

ROME, Dec. 10.—The withdrawal of Fascist Italy from the League of Nations will be announced by Premier Mussolini tomorrow after a special meeting of the Grand Council of the Fascist party to ratify the step, it was learned yesterday.

He will make the announcement from the balcony of the Palazzo Venezia, according to the reported program. Not since the new Roman Empire was proclaimed in May of last year, following the conquest of Ethiopia, has a decision by the Grand Council been made known in that solemn fashion. The Grand Council has not been called into session since March of this year.

Reports that the bridge linking Italy with the majority of the other nations of the world was about to be burned had been current at Rome for several days.

They were assumed to be confirmed when officials said that a Grand Council meeting would be held and that its decision would be made known at once, probably late tomorrow night, from the Palace balcony, consecrated to momentous announcements.

Agents at Geneva Notified.

Officially, "complete reserve" was maintained today, but it is understood that Italy's representatives at Geneva have been informed of the plan.

Many here believe that the decision to break with the League has been taken at the instance of Nazi Germany, known to be anxious to have a European companion in its isolation from the Geneva institution. Italian withdrawal, moreover, will give a similar status as regards the League to all three nations united by the anti-Communist pact, in which Italy recently became a member with Germany and Japan.

Germany withdrew from the League on Oct. 21, 1933, a week after the Nazi Government had refused to participate further in the world disarmament conference and had said Germany was being denied equal rights with other nations. Japan withdrew on March 7, 1933, because of the League Commission report which condemned its conquest of Manchuria. Under the League covenant, withdrawal by a member nation takes effect in two years, provided dues are paid.

On Bad Terms With League.

Italy has been on bad terms with the League ever since the Ethiopian question first arose. Hostile feeling in this country was intensified by the economic sanctions which the League decreed against Italy because of the invasion of Ethiopia. For a long time there have been many voices in Italy demanding a complete separation, and Italy has been taking a progressively smaller part in League proceedings.

Hitherto, Mussolini apparently has preferred not to commit himself to a step by which he would gain nothing and which might possibly have disadvantages. His new decision indicates that he has given up hope of obtaining from the League formal recognition of the Ethiopian conquest.

It indicates also that an early solution of the difficulties between Italy and Great Britain is impossible, in Mussolini's view. It appears to be significant, in this connection, that Dino Grandi, Italy's Ambassador to Britain, has been recalled to Rome and will be present at the Grand Council session. Recognition of the Ethiopion conquest was the first essential, in Italian opinion, for an British-Italian understanding.

Conflict in British Cabinet.

Some recent developments in British political affairs have created an impression here that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, regarded by Italians as the British statesman best disposed toward them, is losing ground to an anti-Italian bloc in the British Cabinet.

Rightly or wrongly, Italians believe this bloc is headed by Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, and Leslie Hore-Belisha, War Secretary. They regard the recent retirement of various older members of the British general staff as a triumph for the younger "anti-Italian group. It may well be, therefore, that Mussolini, believing that opinion in Britain is hardening against the Fascists, has lent a more willing ear to Germany's influence.

BRITISH INDUSTRIES FEAR U. S. MAY DUMP PRODUCTS

Urge Government to Retain Freedom of Action in Trade Treaty Negotiations.

LONDON, Dec. 10. — The Federation of British Industries declared yesterday that in the promised negotiations for a British-American trade treaty the United States should make "substantial reduction of her tariff" as the first step toward balancing trade between the two countries.

The Federation, most influential organ of British industry, sent Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain a statement containing this declaration and urging the United Kingdom to "retain freedom of action" in dealing with the American trade situation.

The statement declared "a recession of trade of which the magnitude and duration can not at the moment be forecast is unfortunately in progress in the United States." It continued:

"There is thus every inducement for her (the United States) to seek openings both in Europe and in British markets overseas for a surplus of goods which her internal market under present conditions can not absorb.

"It may well pay America to dispose of such surplus production at whatever prices may be necessary to surmount the tariff barriers of other countries."

The Federation said that "the dollar today may be regarded as an inherently unstable currency."

CEREMONIAL HEAD OF STATE PROPOSED BY PROFESSOR

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. — A proposal that the duties of the President of the United States be divided between a "ceremonial head" and an "efficient chief executive" was made yesterday by Marshall E. Dimock, professor of Political Science at the University of Chicago.

"The single-headed executive system is out of line with the best business and governmental practice," he told the annual conference of the Personnel Research Federation, meeting here with the Society for the Advancement of Management and the management division of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

He pointed out, "Great Britain has a King and Prime Minister, France a President and Premier, many cities a Mayor and manager, corporations a chairman and president."

Sumner H. Slichter, professor of economics at Harvard, predicted in "an attempt to create prosperity" "collective bargaining will wreck itself if used to increase wages" and said it can succeed only when both sides understand "wage increases should be in response to an increased demand for labor."

BRITAIN TO REDUCE TERMS OF DARTMOOR MUTINEERS

Extra Sentences, Imposed After 1932 Disorders, to Be Cut One-Fourth.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—A reduction in the extra sentences imposed on Dartmoor prison mutineers of five years ago marked a new step today in England's prison reform movement.

Sir Samuel Hoare, Secretary for Home Affairs, told the House of Commons yesterday 23 convicts sentenced up to 12 years for participating in the uprising would have one-fourth of the time taken off those sentences. In addition, they will get the usual good-conduct allowances. The action did not affect the prisoners' original sentences.

The 1932 mutiny at Dartmoor, one of the most violent penal outbreaks in British history, has been called "the spontaneous expression of unendurable agony." Conditions at the prison, including 9x5-foot cells, dampness and floggings, have been subjects of frequent criticism.

Recently Sir Samuel, an outspoken advocate of prison reform, visited Dartmoor. A decision to pay convicts for labor, permit smoking in cells and to introduce other ameliorations followed.

14 MORE ARE SENTENCED TO DEATH IN SOVIET PURGE

Seven Georgian Republic Veterinaries Convicted of Infecting Horses With Anthrax.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Dec. 10.—Fourteen more death sentences were reported today as Soviet Russia's purge of internal enemies centered on the livestock industry.

Seven veterinaries indicted in the Georgian Republic on charges of spreading livestock epidemics were condemned to be shot and two others were sentenced to 20-year prison terms after confessing guilt.

Of the seven other death sentences, six were based on similar accusations in the livestock industry near Novosibirsk, Siberia.

The seventh person condemned in that group was the director of a tractor station in the Far East who was charged with allowing grain to rot by failing to harvest it.

The veterinaries were alleged to have infected horses with anthrax with the intention of spreading disease among Red troops preliminary to "armed insurrection whenever the U. S. S. R. is attacked by foreign countries."

WITNESSES SAY R F C MADE LOAN IN SPITE OF LAW

Testify $4,000,000 Was Advanced C. M. & St. P. Six Months Before Its Second Bankruptcy.

$8,000,000 ADVANCE WAS MADE EARLIER

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. — Six months before its second bankruptcy in July, 1935, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Co., already in debt to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for $8,000,000 obtained through Chairman Jesse H. Jones a further advance of $4,000,000, it was testified today before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. This was in spite of an enactment of Congress forbidding loans of Government money to railroads "in need of reorganization." The railroad is still indebted to the R F C for the total of both loans, or $12,000,000, not including defaulted interest.

The witnesses were: Mortimer N. Buckner, chairman of the board of the New York Trust Co.; Frederick H. Ecker, chairman of the board of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.; Robert T. Swaine of the New York law firm of Cravath, de Gersdorff, Swaine & Wood, and Robert J. Marony. The first three are directors of the St. Paul system, and Marony is its Eastern fiscal agent.

"R F C Is Jesse Jones."

Buckner was the St. Paul's principal negotiator with Chairman Jones, and the following excerpt was introduced from a letter written September 30, 1934, by President Henry A. Scandrett, president of the railroad, to one of its directors, Joshua Green of Seattle:

"So far as the railroads are concerned, the R F C is Jesse Jones, and, confidentially, through Mort Buckner we have the best possible entry there. I cannot speak too warmly of the appreciation I have of the way Mort has taken off his coat and kept constantly at work on his job."

Buckner explained that, as president of the National Credit Corporation, he had worked in close relations with Jones. Asked whether the latter would have been inclined to accept as reliable any representations Buckner made to him concerning the condition of the St. Paul, the banker replied:

"I think the chief has confidence in me." By "chief," said the witness, he meant Chairman Jones.

Applied for $9,000,000.

Swaine stated frankly that the purpose of the second R. F. C. loan was to prevent the St. Paul from going into bankruptcy in January, 1935. Buckner and Ecker were of the opinion that the directors, at the end of 1934, still entertained hopes that a receivership might be averted. Their first application was for an additional $9,000,000 to carry the road through 1935. Buckner testified that Jones consented to provide $4,000,000 on Dec. 31, and the rest six months later, "if conditions warranted." Conditions grew so alarming, according to Buckner that it was not thought advisable to apply for the other $5,000,000.

Such loans required a certificate of approval from the Interstate Commerce Commission. According to a letter of Oct. 1, 1934, from Scandrett to Buckner, Swaine and three other directors, Jones made it his business to intercede in this matter with Balthasar H. Meyer, chief of the finance division of the I. C. C. Jones "told me confidentially," wrote Scandrett, "that he had had another talk with Commissioner Meyer today, and he was confident the commission would approve our application." The prophecy was accurate, for the certificate was actually issued.

Interest in a "Doodle."

During this period the board of directors held a meeting in New York, in the course of which Marony, on the margin of a report, scrawled various memoranda and one of the involuntary sketches known to psychiatrists as a "doodle." This consisted of a box, from which sprouted sundry decorations, but in the center was printed the word "Meyer." Marony was asked whether this signified that he was subconsciously obsessed with the thought of Balthasar H. Meyer.

"I'm not sure it was the commissioner," answered the witness. "It might have been one of two other fellows I knew by the name of Meyer."

"It is of particular interest," continued Ecker, "that he was not so much concerned about the collateral which presently may be available

EVIDENCE BARRED ON LOSS IN SALE OF TVA POWER

Court Excludes Statistics Designed to Prove That Annual Deficit Would Exceed $9,000,000.

RULING ON DAMAGES TO UTILITY FIRMS

Judges Say Injury Has Been Shown, "Adequate for Relief" If Law Justifies Payment.

By SAM J. SHELTON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 10. —Rulings of the three-Judge Federal Court, hearing the question of constitutionality of the Government's Tennessee Valley hydro-electric power program, from time to time have served more clearly to define the issues which must be decided.

The prolonged hearing was proceeding today subject to an important ruling yesterday which excluded expert testimony, analytically and statistically prepared, expressing and supporting the opinion that the rates at which the Tennessee Valley Authority is selling its electricity are so far less than actual cost of production and transmission that with full operation of all the T V A dams as ultimately planned the annual deficit chargeable to the power operations would be more than $9,000,000.

The witness was Edward L. Moreland of Boston, head of the electrical engineering department of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and a practicing consulting engineer of long and wide experience.

He was prepared also to testify, with extensive supporting data, that the 18 complaining utility corporations which are plaintiffs in the pending suit, all operating in the Tennessee River Valley, would suffer large monetary damages from the competition of the T V A.

Ruling of Court.

In excluding this testimony, the court made one of its most important rulings, announced by Presiding Judge Florence E. Allen as follows:

"This is an equity case. You (the complainants) are praying for an injunction here. The Authority (T V A) has conceded that its rates are substantially lower in all classes of service than those of the complainants, and the court feels that so far as damages are concerned substantial damage is shown, adequate for relief if the complainants are entitled to relief under the law applicable to the case; so the court considers it unnecessary to go into the details of money damages."

In other words, the Court was saying that the damages already shown, either actually suffered or threatened, are sufficient grounds for the injunction if those damages result from illegal acts of the T V A.

This brought into bold relief the issue of legality or illegality of the T V A actions in planning and executing its power program, including the construction of dams and transmission facilities. The complaining companies contend that Congress had no constitutional grant of power to do the things that it undertook to authorize by the T V A statute, that its basing of the statute on the purposes of improvement of navigation and flood control was merely a subterfuge to lend a shadow of constitutionality under the power of Congress to regulate interstate commerce, and that the administration of the power program violates the terms of the statute and violates other constitutional rights of the plaintiffs.

Elaborate Tables Ready.

Moreland had elaborate and detailed tables and computations to support his conclusions that the revenue from the T V A electrical energy sales would be less than the actual cost. These were offered as exhibits, but were excluded by the Court.

In his calculations he assigned the greater part of the cost of the T V A system of 11 dams on the Tennessee River and tributaries, and other facilities, to power purposes, accepting the testimony of other experts that these dams have no great value for navigation and flood control, and that for these two purposes adequate facilities could have been provided at much less cost.

Assuming that the dams when completed will cost $473,649,590, exclusive of Wilson Dam which was constructed by the War Department before T V A was established, Moreland assigned $312,963,990 of this to power purposes. In doing this he allowed $74,709,000 for navigation and $81,133,600 for flood control. For navigation the amount allowed was what army engineers had estimated would be the cost

LEAGUE COMMITTEE STATES PRINCIPLES ON RAW MATERIAL

Declares There Should Be No Undue Restrictions on Export or Development.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Dec. 10.—The League of Nations economic committee hailed negotiations for a reciprocal trade treaty between the United States and Great Britain yesterday as an important step in the development of world commerce. The committee, which includes leading economists, voiced hope the negotiations would be successful.

To stimulate the international flow of raw materials the committee also laid down three governing principles which were of particular interest in connection with the demand of Germany and other countries for the right to acquire such materials.

The principles follow: Raw materials should not be subjected to any export prohibition or restriction except in pursuance of an international regulation scheme; raw materials should not be subjected to any export duty except a duty imposed at a uniform rate irrespective of the country to which the goods would be exported; foreigners should have the same rights and facilities as nationals to develop the natural resources both of sovereign countries and of colonial territory as long as they obey the laws and regulations of the countries concerned.

Mussolini Says Inventor's Work on War Devices Will Continue.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Dec. 10.—Premier Mussolini announced yesterday at a Senate memorial service for Guglielmo Marconi that the inventor's work on war devices would be continued.

"Marconi conducted experiments of a military character in the vicinity of Rome at which I was present," Mussolini said. "He kept me informed periodically of the result of these experiments. We are at the beginning of a road which will be pursued. Everything Marconi left undone will be continued."

U. S. ASKS ABOUT TWO MISSING IN MOSCOW

Embassy Unable to Get Information on Whereabouts of Pair From New York.

(Copyright, 1937, New York Tribune, Inc.)

MOSCOW, Dec. 10.—The United States embassy here is investigating the disappearance of Mrs. Donald Louis Robinson from the Hotel National, and of her husband, who disappeared similarly 10 days ago. No information has been obtained as to the whereabouts of either.

All that could be learned today about the Robinsons was that they arrived here Nov. 6 to see the celebration on the next day of the twentieth anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. Robinson, said to be a writer, remained for negotiations with the State Publishing House. He vanished Dec. 1.

Mrs. Robinson said Wednesday that her husband, ill of pneumonia, had been taken to a hospital by representatives of the hotel. She did not remember the name of the hospital, and the hotel authorities and those of Intourist, the Soviet travel agency, professed complete ignorance of the matter. A check of Moscow hospitals failed to find Robinson. Today, Mrs. Robinson, too, was missing.

Those in charge of the hotel said she merely was lost. They shrugged their shoulders when reminded that no foreign tourist can leave a Moscow hotel without notifying the authorities. Today, her room had Russian occupants, and new furnishings, including a new bed and rug. The old articles were wrapped carefully and removed.

The Robinsons had avoided other foreigners during their stay in Moscow. Mrs. Robinson said yesterday that she spoke no Russian, but admitted she had made two previous visits to the Soviet Union.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Lesson of the Vashon Controversy.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ON behalf of the Negro Trade Union League, I want to thank you for the splendid manner in which you supported the Negro community in the Vashon High School controversy. I hope the very able and scholarly decision of Judge Kirkwood closes the matter definitely and permanently.

There is a real lesson to be learned from this incident—that is, the wisdom of collective thinking and action among all racial groups whenever a wrong is done to any section of the community. The spirit of white labor, church and civic groups was the concrete expression of one being his brother's brother, rather than his "brother's keeper."

The restraint exercised by the Negro community in this trying situation suggests its confidence in the democratic process. Here in St. Louis, in contrast with what would have been their behavior in a more backward community, the progressive leaders took the lead and developed the group's consciousness, which rapidly produced the desired response throughout the area among all fair-minded people. I believe that if the Negro people would turn the white light of critical public opinion on more of their grievances, sufficient support will be forthcoming to effect socially desirable results.

SIDNEY R. WILLIAMS, Secretary.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I AND and my neighbors think somebody should thank the Election Board for the nice way the clerks treated the voters. In our precinct, No. 33, in the Twenty-second Ward, a man and a woman thanked everybody when we signed the cards as if we had bought something. I never saw this done before. And the old folks were given chairs.

The Metropolitan Opera Broadcast.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ON Nov. 30, there appeared in your paper a letter criticising the excessive broadcasts of football games.

I heartily agree with this person, and would like to add that if there weren't such a wonderful thing as good music, we listeners would not object to this kind of thing. But we do know, and we do object!

On Dec. 4, the Metropolitan Opera Company began its annual winter season of afternoon broadcasts. But did the St. Louis stations broadcast it? No, because this program is a non-advertising one.

We of Illinois, who always felt that the St. Louis stations were our home stations, are inclined to believe otherwise, since we must turn to the Chicago stations (hooray for them!) for our regular Saturday afternoon opera broadcasts.

Wood River, Ill. NORMA.

After Seven Long Years.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

FOR seven years we have kept ourselves off of relief by creating jobs of our own and living on little or nothing.

But if they keep on raising the sales tax, we will have to give up and ask for relief.

MR. AND MRS. BOYD.

Mr. Greve and the Big Oak.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

CLIFFORD GREVE'S criticism of the Big Oak misses the point, even if he is right and the Shaw's Garden expert who took borings is wrong, about the health of that tree. Within a hundred feet of the much-advertised Big Oak is an undamaged overcup oak only seven inches smaller. Within a quarter of a mile south of these giants are cypress, cottonwood, hackberry and sycamore trees, and other oaks, so nearly the same size that the two giants are not conspicuous. The notable feature of such a park will be the stately virgin forest as a whole, whether it floods in high water or not.

However, Mr. Greve is a useful citizen. If he found something rotten at Jefferson City, and now, at the expense of an undisclosed client, can find something rotten in the Big Oak, let's send him to Washington.

ALBERT CHANDLER.

Sidelight on Parole.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAPPENED to overhear a conversation recently which made me wonder who was right.

A mother with a son in one of our State penal institutions for an indefinite sentence, who will soon come up for parole consideration, asked a man to help in any way he could to give her boy another chance in life.

His answer was that he could not, or would not, do anything. He said that a person once sentenced to a penitentiary was thrown among evil and hard-boiled prisoners and had no chance ever to amount to anything if given his freedom. This man considers himself a Christian, and he has boys of his own.

Which is right, the parent who wants the public to give her boy one more chance to prove he can be a man, or the so-called Christian who feels that once a boy is serving time he is forever doomed? It seems as though God must have forgiven that man his sins or else he could not be a Christian. How can we hope that God will forgive us our sins if we are not willing to forgive our fellow-men?

MR. DOUGLAS' SPEECH.

The recent speech of Lewis W. Douglas, former Director of the Budget, is noteworthy for its scholarly grasp of the fundamental issues with which the country is struggling. Mr. Douglas resigned as Budget Director in 1934 because he disapproved the spending policies of the Roosevelt administration. He is now the principal of McGill University at Montreal. He spoke not as a politician of any hue—indeed, he was sharp in his criticism of a traditional Republican policy—but as a scholar seeking to find the formula by which our constitutional democracy can be preserved.

His reasoning proceeds as follows: Another prolonged depression may carry even the whole group of democracies in its wake. But to attempt to spend our way out again will only postpone the day of reckoning and, in the end, "impose exactions far more onerous than those we meet today." The proper method of attack is through the reduction of tariff barriers to promote international trade and the freeing of the domestic market by abolishing monopolistic practices in fixing the prices of goods, services and capital.

This is his main thesis. His other counsels, such as his plea for the administration to ease its strictures on business, at least for the present, were incidental to the main theme. In short, the speaker was urging a return to the Wilsonian ideal of refereed industrial competition, against the Rooseveltian willingness to replace competition with detailed Government regulation.

In pointing out the responsibility which labor bears in this connection, Mr. Douglas asked:

> Cannot Congress see that frozen markets have the effect, ultimately, of increasing the number of under-privileged? Will it not see that to establish wage rates which bear no relation to productivity, that to establish prices by arbitrary exercise of power, whether private or public, is to make the people pay more for the very essentials of subsistence—to reduce the standard of living rather than to raise it?

Mr. Douglas' examination of the Republican high-tariff policy was searching and unsparing. He sees the tariff for what it is—a subsidy for industry, paid, in the long run, by the farmer and the middle class in the cities. The tariff is all the more dangerous because it opens the way for other groups, especially the farmer, to demand a "parity" subsidy.

Next he points out, as the talk of compulsory crop control, price-fixing and currency manipulation in the present farm bill debate so vividly shows, that "a subsidized nation is a regimented one."

Hence he appeals to the Republican party to reexamine its traditions, to "see that if a subsidy is to be granted to one group, as a matter of ordinary justice, it is impossible to withhold subsidies from other groups. The prevailing subsidization by direct and indirect public grants to practically every group of society is resulting in the decay of self-reliance."

As the immediate means of stemming the tide of nationalistic self-sufficiency, he bespeaks the support of business men for Secretary of State Hull's reciprocal trade agreements, particularly the pending one with Great Britain.

It is imperative, he believes, that the recession be overcome before it reaches an acute stage, for widespread deprivation and suffering are likely to be accompanied by political unrest which will demand experimental controls foreign to the democratic system.

It is a cogent argument that the former Budget Director makes for the lowering of tariff barriers. Cogent, too, and particularly at this time, is his plea for the encouragement, rather than the hamstringing, of private enterprise. For it is only through the absorption of the unemployed by private enterprise that the great problem of the depression—and now of the "recession"—can be solved within the limits of the American constitutional system.

WHEN JUSTICE HAD WINGS.

On Oct. 3, Walter L. Ross, a marine, killed Elmer J. Davidson, an attorney, on a lonely road near Stratford Courthouse, Va. In the ordinary course of the legal process, as practiced in the United States, many months would elapse before the case would come to trial and each delay would increase the murderer's chances of acquittal. However, on Dec. 4, two months after the event, Ross was convicted of second-degree murder and sentenced to 10 years in prison. When murder in this country is followed so swiftly by trial and conviction, that's news.

BROOKINGS INSTITUTION ON THE PROFITS TAX.

The movement to abolish the undistributed profits tax receives authoritative support in the latest report of the Brookings Institution, non-partisan research organization. The institution urges repeal because the tax "limits the possibility of prompt and flexible capital developments and handicaps with particular severity a multitude of small and medium-sized business enterprises." Its findings are based on the replies of 1560 corporations to a questionnaire asking how they have fared under the law. From their answers, the investigators conclude that the levy is discriminatory, and also that it "has checked the expansion and improvement of corporate facilities."

The Brookings conclusions are worthy of the most serious consideration in themselves, but they take on added weight in view of the fact that they are in substantial accord with those recently issued by another important research organization. The Committee on Taxation of the Twentieth Century Fund, in its report, published as a book, "Facing the Tax Problem," also recommended repeal of the plan as it now stands, and, like the Brookings group, viewed amendment efforts as futile.

The plan, when originally suggested by the President in March, 1936, looked fine in blueprints. Its unsuccessful working under actual test conditions created the widespread demand for its repeal, to which these two authoritative voices now are added.

ANOTHER SERVICE OF THE U. OF MISSOURI.

The University of Missouri, which has performed an almost limitless number of services for the State since its establishment in 1839, continues its good works with the operation of its wild-life experiment station. The return of wild life to the Missouri countryside and timber land will not come about by accident. Every resource possible needs to be brought to the aid of the new conservation agency set up under the wild-life amendment, adopted a year ago. With its new wild-life laboratory, an experimental preserve under which various conditions of wild-life existence can be observed and studied and trained zoologists to plan and report the experiments, the State university is peculiarly fitted to join in this important campaign. The Board of Curators has done a wise thing in approving and providing for the university's participation. We expect its services to be a material aid to the Conservation Director.

BELATED TESTS OF THE ELIXIR.

Additional confirmation as to what caused the recent deaths of 73 persons dosed with elixir of sulfanilamide has come from the laboratories of the Washington University School of Medicine. Like the tests made by Federal Food and Drug Administration and American Medical Association investigators, the St. Louis study shows that the solvent, diethylene glycol, was responsible for the fatalities.

Pure sulfanilamide, it was found, did no harm to experimental animals. In this form, the drug has proved of great usefulness to medical science. But the elixir—the glycol solution, which was widely marketed before Federal agents stepped in—caused kidney changes in rats and rabbits similar to those occurring in the cases of persons who died after taking the preparation.

The fatal ingredient has been tracked down beyond possibility of dispute. It was not determined, however, before the elixir was offered to the public, but after, when it had killed 73 human beings. The manufacturer made no such tests; no law required him to do so. The fatal properties of the elixir came to light only after it had been tried out, not on rats and rabbits, but on the consuming public.

It is to avert further tragedies of this sort that Secretary Wallace has made four recommendations to Congress for strengthening the archaic Food and Drugs Act. His first recommendation is the most important: "License control of new drugs to insure that they will not be generally distributed until experimental and clinical tests have shown them to be safe for use."

A licensing measure would bring about preliminary tests of new preparations instead of post-mortems, as at present.

THAT CHINESE-KILLING CONTEST.

Two Japanese sub-Lieutenants are engaged in a zestful sporting event: a race to see which can be the first to kill 100 Chinese soldiers. A week ago, the score of these gallant Nimrods stood at 56 to 26. By the latest report, the bag had risen to a standing of 89 to 78. The number of widows and orphans created by these exploits is not set forth.

The Tokio newspaper Nichi Nichi chronicles this shooting contest in its dispatches from the Chinese front, and thereby makes it difficult for the Foreign Office to deny reports that few or no prisoners are being taken by the invaders. Prisoners are costly to feed and care for, and their capture would be a distinct handicap to the sporting proclivities of the two officers.

It is fortunate, for the task of recording the kill, that these sportsmen are in the army and not the air force. Figuring how many Chinese babies and how many Chinese women are equivalent to one Chinese soldier would complicate the tabulations when the two huntsmen get together to tally each day's bull's-eyes.

A CABINET OFFICER'S PHILIPPIC.

Secretary Ickes of the Interior Department was in top form at the annual meeting of the American Civil Liberties Union. He poured volley after volley on Fascism with gusto and unerring marksmanship. The brutal philosophy of powerful nations that invade, plunder and slaughter helpless peoples was passionately denounced. So, too, was the barbarous dictatorship that enslaves its own citizens in a tyranny that derides and denies the hard-won decencies of civilization.

On this count, the speaker expressed predominant American sentiment.

His indictment of the Supreme Court, so intemperate in some aspects as to be almost incendiary, will, we feel sure, be widely condemned. The Supreme Court has made its mistakes, but history refutes Mr. Ickes' fustian.

The Supreme Court dwells in no remote, sanctified immunity. Today in America, it is the privilege of the humblest citizen to criticise the court, even as it is the privilege of a Cabinet officer. But in either instance, a sense of propriety speaks against a merely demagogic attack. Mr. Ickes' histrionic fervor led him far afield. His harangue is especially regrettable at this posture of affairs, when the head of the administration and associate ministerial voices are speaking the language of conciliation.

Harold Ickes has his qualities. He was introduced on the occasion under discussion by William Allen White, who presented him as "honest, wise and brave . . . fighting the battle of the oppressed." That is a gallant decoration, but has not Mr. Ickes himself made questionable the use of "wise"?

DISCOVERY IN VIRGINIA.

Pressing through the underbrush of an old burying ground in Virginia, a certain WPA researcher of records must have felt a tingle in his veins as he came upon a stone thrusting up at one end of a sunken strip of earth. For by the diagram he had discovered among the archives, a diagram drawn by a man who had attended the funeral, he knew that he had found the grave, long lost in obscurity, of "Parson" Weems, recorder (if not originator!) of the George Washington cherry tree story.

This is a spot which should not go unmarked of history. Mason Locke Weems was too virile and significant a personality for his burial spot to drift into oblivion. In him the versatility of early America found ready expression. Trained to practice medicine, he tired of that; but after being ordained in the Episcopal priesthood, he had trouble with the bishops because he preached not only to his own prescribed flock, but also to Methodists, Presbyterians and Negroes in a sort of overflowing beneficence like that of St. Francis of Assisi. Not only that, but his listeners were known to laugh—even during his prayers.

So he took to the bookseller's trail, reprinting and distributing the works of others; adding to them writings of his own. His passion for good reading must have had an immeasurable effect upon his generation. And if his imagination sometimes burst in sheer exuberance through the facts—well, thanks are due to the man who could clothe with flesh the dry bones of statistics.

Let his grave be marked, and as a monument, a marble book for pedestal, for pediment a cherry tree!

"ANYBODY ELSE?"

On the Growth of Presidential Power

Answering writer who favors strong executive, Charles Nagel, former Cabinet member, warns against letting this department encroach on other arms of Government, particularly judiciary; Congress cannot undo damage caused by President's dominance merely by repealing laws; cites court-packing plan as example of danger.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE November number of Events magazine has an article entitled "Is the President a Dictator?" by Prof. Lindsay Rogers, now Burgess professor of public law at Columbia University. Whatever else may be true, the article is well calculated to have us appreciate how far we have traveled since Dr. John W. Burgess, in whose honor the chair was named, was recognized as a leader in political science, even when, as late as 1923, he published his "Recent Changes in American Constitutional Theory." The article may even recall another distinguished professor of political science at Columbia, Francis Lieber, who is said to have asked to be remembered only for his warning against democratic absolutism.

All will agree when the author quotes from Hamilton that "energy in the executive is a leading character in the definition of government. A feeble executive implies feeble execution of the government. A feeble executive must be, in practice, a bad government."

* * *

As good a Democrat as Grover Cleveland confirmed this view when he said, "In the scheme of our national Government, the presidency is pre-eminently the people's office"; and again, "The Congress may enact laws, but they are inert and vain without executive impulse."

But does not this language state both need and limit of executive power? And does it not really confirm the line of demarcation among the departments of government?

The author is probably right in his comment upon the disposition to indulge in criticism of the powers that are granted to the President, rather than the manner in which he employs them. But is it safe to rely upon the author's mere declaration that "what Congress has given, Congress can take away"? Can Congress, for instance, restore the damages that have been suffered by individuals while unconstitutional statutes were being enforced? How shall we measure the corroding influence of systematic experimentation with questionable laws?

The author well says: "The real danger is that governmental timidity and ineptitude will cause such widespread dissatisfaction and resentment that men will let their minds dwell on the possible advantages of leadership that would not be kept within the framework of the Constitution." This is true. But is that danger as great as training the public to accept that a President may wisely prove his leadership by habitual disregard of his constituted authority?

* * *

Even now, it has almost become a custom to enact doubtful statutes with the President's approval, and to pass the buck to the courts to preserve the integrity of our institutions. It is a cheap appeal to misguided popular sentiment. In its effect, it is like a concerted effort to undermine the well-earned reputation of our judicial department as a bulwark of liberty.

Be it remembered that the Federal courts are not alone at stake. In 48 states, the courts are depended upon to keep as many Legislatures and, in addition, innumerable local legislative bodies from giving effect to ill-advised and often purely demagogic plans.

Among other things, to steady our nerves, the author says: "Parliament on occasion gives the executive authority to make administrative orders which may change the provisions of the empowering statute. This is authority which goes far beyond any authority which is delegated by Congress. Yet no one maintains that in Great Britain the executive is a 'dictator.'"

Perhaps Englishmen do not employ the term, but they are under no misapprehension about the mischievous consequences of such legislation. So much is made clear by the volume, "The New Despotism," the author of which is no less than Lord Hewart, Lord Chief Justice of England. He is greatly disturbed by this trend in legislation, particularly since England has no provision for appeal to an independent court. He points out not only the injustice of rules that are made by an executive in conflict with the statute under which he is appointed, but also the hardship of decisions by which new rules may be given final validity, although no interested party has been given so much as notice of the proceeding. In other words, a citizen may be deprived of rights or property without warning that his interests are being considered or disposed of.

England may with propriety have been called a democracy so long as her parliamentary self-restraint guaranteed the citizens' liberties. But now that she has embarked upon unbridled legislative experiments in an uncharted field, she can hardly be urged upon us as an example to be envied or emulated. Indeed, it is at least suggestive that some of the colonies seem to have secured provision for judicial review of challenged legislation.

* * *

It is well enough to admonish critics to concern themselves, not with the fact of the power, but with the manner in which it is exercised. It is well enough to argue that there may be congressional abdication in respect of rule-making, but there need be no congressional abdication in respect of control and criticism; since what Congress gives, Congress can take away.

Perhaps a broader statement would be that the Congress which confers favors may also deprive of rights. But the proposition as stated is more acceptable in the textbook than it is workable in practice.

In the first place, Congress has not been noted for prompt retraction of even confessed error. In the second place, where amendment is had in the form of the statute, the hardships in the shape of suspense, expense and actual damages that have been imposed can never be rectified.

Finally, the effect of some statutes, once passed, cannot with the best intention be repealed. Take the plan to pack the Supreme Court, which was as much in violation of the spirit of the Constitution as it was safe within its letter. Had it passed Congress and been signed by the President, and had the proposed Justices once been appointed in obedience to it, those Justices were fixed for life, and no amendment of the statute could have affected the period of their tenure. While this is a peculiarly drastic illustration of the fallacy complained of, it is no more unjust or serious in its consequences than other excesses of legislative and executive abuse of power.

It has been said that the poet is the future legislator. May it prove to be true of her who sang, "Confirm thy soul in self-control, thy liberty in law."

It could not actually be said that in principle he disagrees with what they are saying; in fact, he subscribed to their principles in his message. But he refuses to let it appear that he takes the business men very seriously. He acts as if he really did not take them seriously.

So, though he would no doubt be willing to let Congress grant them some of the relief they wish, he behaves like a man who had no interest in helping them to get that relief; like a man, too, who would not greatly mind if the business men did not get relief.

Mr. Roosevelt may not intend to give the impression that his heart is in farm and labor legislation but not in business legislation. But that, I think, is just the impression Mr. Roosevelt creates. And that impression, at a time when business enterprise is virtually paralyzed, is an insuperable obstacle to the revival of enterprise.

That revival will not take place just because Arthur Krock of the New York Times is able to imply that Joseph Kennedy and Jesse Jones are seeing the President rather more often these days than Messrs. Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. du Pont

IF MR. ROOSEVELT were seeing himself as others see him, he would behold a President who very earnestly insists upon a farm bill, who very sincerely wants a wage and hour bill, who rather grimly means to balance the budget, who greatly hopes that he has a scheme to promote housing, but—for the rest is rather bored with and unimpressed by the clamor of business men.

It could not actually be said that in principle he disagrees with what they are saying; in fact, he subscribed to their principles in his message. But he refuses to let it appear that he takes the business men very seriously. He acts as if he really did not take them seriously.

So, though he would no doubt be willing to let Congress grant them some of the relief they wish, he behaves like a man who had no interest in helping them to get that relief; like a man, too, who would not greatly mind if the business men did not get relief.

Mr. Roosevelt may not intend to give the impression that his heart is in farm and labor legislation but not in business legislation. But that, I think, is just the impression Mr. Roosevelt creates. And that impression, at a time when business enterprise is virtually paralyzed, is an insuperable obstacle to the revival of enterprise.

* * *

That revival will not take place just because Arthur Krock of the New York Times is able to imply that Joseph Kennedy and Jesse Jones are seeing the President rather more often these days than Messrs. Corcoran and Cohen. Modern industrial enterprise needs a more secure foundation than the rumor that for the time being the King's favorite courtiers are friendly. Men simply will not invest large sums of money for the future because they hear that Mr. Kennedy is still able to talk with the President.

They need something more. They need to know, not that Mr. Kennedy can perhaps persuade Mr. Roosevelt, but that Mr. Roosevelt himself really believes in the things Mr. Kennedy is trying to persuade him to do. Failing that, there is not likely to be a substantial revival until Congress, or perhaps the voters themselves, have wrought a far-reaching political change.

* * *

As a matter of fact, the measures which the President wants cannot conceivably realize his objectives unless there is the kind of industrial revival which Lammot du Pont described in his speech to the Manufacturers' Association. Mr. du Pont said, in effect, that we must look to industry not merely for the continued production of the goods it now makes, but for the application of new inventions which will create industries that do not now exist.

Is this not the only way in which the fundamental farm problem can possibly be solved? Here are Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Wallace recognizing, and quite properly, that the American farmers can never again hope to export the whole of their great surpluses of the staples, that, even with a perfect success for Mr Hull's treaties, the American farmer must in some substantial degree export less wheat, corn, cotton, than he used to export. And here is the administration proposing to indemnify the farmer during the period of transition.

But if this is to be done—and as a matter of social justice I, for one, think it has to be done—the question remains: What is to become of the farmers who can no longer make a living by selling exports? Is it not evident that if the Government is going to subsidize the farmers to reduce production of certain commodities, it must be vitally interested in encouraging the production of other commodities?

If the South, for example, is not to export so much cotton, then the South must have more industries to employ the men who used to grow the surplus cotton. And if the South is not to ruin the North by competing in the same industries, then there must be new industries. And there can be no new industries if men won't invest capital.

* * *

The same is true of the wage and hour bill. If, as is intended, the bill drives sweated industries out of existence, then other industries have to take their place. For while it is horrible to be a sweated worker, it is even worse to be an unemployed worker. Therefore, in so far as the bill is effective, it will be that much more necessary to substitute for the sweated industries others that are not sweated.

Almost invariably, it will be found that the sweated industries are thus when there is little capital invested and that the well-paid industries are those in which there is much capital invested.

* * *

And then the budget. How can the budget possibly be balanced if business declines and unemployment increases? Does that not mean smaller revenues and larger appropriations for relief?

Moreover, desirable as it is to balance the budget, how can the Government dare to stop spending unless private corporations begin spending? To deflate Government expenditure without reviving industry is to invite trouble.

So in fact, Mr. Roosevelt ought to be as much concerned as is Mr. du Pont about the things Mr. du Pont talked about. Let us hope that he will not refuse to be concerned because the man who said them is named du Pont.

LINDBERGH TROPHIES STILL DRAW CROWDS

130,000 Viewed Them in Last 12 Months—On Show 11 Years —Valued at 500,000.

Although in its eleventh year, the display of Lindbergh trophies in Jefferson Memorial, Forest Park, continues to be one of the leading attractions in St. Louis for visitors to the city. About 130,000 persons, the majority of them from out of town, have viewed the exhibit during the last 12 months, it was estimated yesterday by Mrs. Nettie Beauregard, curator of the Missouri Historical Society.

Of course, visitors no longer pour into the museum as they did in the first five years after the collection was established. When Col. Charles A. Lindbergh first consented to let his 500 trophies, commemorating his New York to Paris flight, go on exhibit on June 25, 1927, it was for only 10 days. He thought that his fame would be a passing thing. But his tremendous popularity soon made it apparent that the exhibit would have to remain indefinitely. More than 15,000 people saw the display the first day 80,000 saw it in 10 days; 3,000,000 in the next two years, and 2,000,000 more in the three years after that.

About 3000 Visitors a Week.

Nowadays, in good weather, perhaps 3000 people a week will visit the trophy room, permanently established in the west wing of the memorial. These cold days, the attendance is cut one-half. A convention does not come to town that does not send an average of several bus loads of visitors.

Individual travelers, passing through, head for the memorial on sight-seeing tours, often accompanied by St. Louis friends who are perhaps seeing the trophies themselves for the first time. Attaches say that attendance has declined only a little, perhaps 20 per cent, in the last four years. Sale by the historical society of books containing photographs and descriptions of the trophies was 2000 this year, as compared to 3000 in 1936 and 4000 in 1935.

Trophies Valued at $500,000.

The number of trophies has increased to about 2500, valued at more than $500,000. Favorites with the public, Mrs. Beauregard said, are the two silver globes, made in 700 A. D., and valued at $48,000, presented by William Randolph Hearst, and a stickpin, the head of which was fashioned from a single diamond in the form of an airplane.

Lindbergh, who visited Mrs. Beauregard virtually every time he came to St. Louis and sometimes looked at the trophies, seemed to like the globes best, she said. He turned the trophies over to the historical society permanently before sailing for England in 1935, and of them all, retained for his own use only a pair of goggles.

The last important contribution to the collection was the painting, "Epochal Dawn," by Frederick Judd Waugh, which was lent last spring, but verses and inscriptions continue to come in in small numbers.

Formerly, attendance at the display jumped every time Lindbergh went on a flight or there was other publicity about him, but there was no increase following his recent return to this country. Some of the important or well-known visitors to the collection during the last two years, as shown in a register at the memorial, were Baron and Baroness George von Arnin of Berlin, Hannen Swaffer, English critic, who called the exhibit "provincial," Sidney Howard, playwright; Andre Chevillon, director of the French Academy; Dan Beard, Sir Willmot Lewis, Washington correspondent for the London Times, and the Marquis de Polignac, representative of the French Union of Advertisers.

PUBLIC MEETINGS AND ENTERTAINMENTS

Harrison Forman, author and explorer, who recently returned from Shanghai, will speak on "China and the Far East" at a dinner of the Contemporary Club tonight at 7 o'clock at Hotel Coronado. The lecture will be illustrated with photographs taken by him.

Louis Lipsky of New York, chairman of the American Palestine Campaign and officer of several Zionist organizations, will speak Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at Temple Shaare Emeth, 6830 Delmar boulevard. His subject will be "Partition of Palestine."

The fifth annual musical review and variety show by Christian Brothers College students will be given tonight, tomorrow and Sunday evenings at 8:15 o'clock at St. Louis University auditorium, 3642 Lindell boulevard. Chinese and gypsy dances will be presented by 25 cadets dressed as chorus girls and the C. B. C. drill squad and lancers will perform. More than 125 cadets will take part.

A debate on the question, "Should the Catholic Church Oppose the Pending Child Labor Amendment," will be held at the meeting of the Loretto Foundation-Webster College Open Forum, in Webster College Auditorium, Sunday night at 8 o'clock.

The Christmas concert of Concordia Seminary will be presented by the Seminary Lyceum tonight at 8:15 o'clock in Concordia Seminary auditorium, 801 De Mun avenue. On the program will be selections by the students' chorus, the orchestra and the band.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

CHRISTMAS DEBUT

MISS ELIZABETH HOERR

WHOSE parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland M. Hoerr, 18 Princeton place, have issued invitations for her debut reception Christmas afternoon at the St. Louis Country Club.

THE ball room of the Portland place home of Mrs. Sol W. Gross was transformed last evening into the old New York Bowery of the "Gay Nineties" as the setting for the costume party in honor of the hostess' two debutante daughters, Miss Margaret Ann and Miss Abigail Curran Gross. Walls were lined with murals of "Boweryites"—gum chewing damsels in tight-fitting skirts, plumed Diamond Lils and Steve Brodies in derbies and checkered suits smoking long black cigars. Streamers of red and white paper added to the gaudy appearance.

The long hall, outside the ballroom, was filled with tables covered by red and white checkered cloths and lighted by candles spluttering in beer bottles, where the free lunch was served from a counter to the 65 guests invited for 8 o'clock. The decorations were planned and executed by the honor guests, who have studied art both here and abroad.

Immediately following supper, Lomax Study, impresario, announced the performance of the "Gross Follies," a show planned especially for the party. From the stage at one end of the ballroom the entire cast (who were also guests) opened the program with the song "Let's Call the Whole Thing Off." Francis Wade Corley Jr., dressed as the book character, Rhett Butler, in long black coat and silk hat, presented an original recitation on the virtues of a patent medicine. Miss Joy Gross, older sister of Miss Margaret and Miss Abigail, was next introduced as Mlle. Avoirdupois singing "She Was Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage."

The audience clapped enthusiastically for the Jailbird Quartet's rendition of "Sidewalks of New York" and "Show Me the Way to Go Home." The foursome, modestly refusing an encore, were: Joseph O'Reilly, Frank Hatton, Edward McCaskill and James Rush James Jr. Miss Anne Wendling, a debutante of the season, dressed in short black skirt and printed jacket, dramatically wielded an enormous green handkerchief as she sang "St. Louis Woman."

Riding on stage on a tandem was Miss Sara Jane Avant with her actor lover, Mr. Study, who sang "On a Bicycle Built for Two." Miss Avant's costume, reminiscent of the Floradoa Sextet, was a diamond-studded black velvet bodice, short skirt of feathers and an enormous black-plumed hat. "Doodle Lee Doo" was the song chosen by the next quartet: Con Curran Gross, son of the hostess, Edward A. Limberg Jr., Mr. Corley and Mr. Study.

Youngest son of Mrs. Gross, Jack, gave a series of impersonations, including Franklin D. Roosevelt, Charles Laughton, Dr. Fu Manchu and the making of a chocolate soda. He, too, was dressed as a character from the old Bowery era in waxed moustache, checkered suit and derby. Miss Abigail, in a gaudy dress of pink satin and lace, sang "My Man."

Perhaps the hit of the program was Don Hutton's Treasury report, a jumbled account of the debits and credits of a small town club.

The grand finale was opened by Miss Miquette Magnus singing "Eadie Was a Lady," assisted by the cast. Kenneth Davis, in spite of food throwing and hisses by the audience, recited "Face on the Barroom Floor." "The Song of the Bowery" the last number) was supplemented by a tap dance by Miss Joy and Con Gross. Mrs. John L. Tierney, sister of Mrs. Gross, accompanied the principals on the piano.

Following the show, guests divided into small groups for various forms of dancing, ranging from the cake walk to the newest version of the "Big Apple."

In addition to the debutantes and their escorts Mrs. Gross invited her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wade Corley, and Mrs. Con P. Curran, her sister-in-law.

At another party for the debutantes Miss Joy will be hostess at a tea, Thursday afternoon, Dec. 23, in honor of her sisters and Miss Avant and Miss Anne Reinholdt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius W. Reinholdt Jr.

Mrs. James O'Malley-Davies left her home Harwood Lodge, Woolton Hill, Newbury, England, yesterday en route to the United States. She will sail on the Europa, and will arrive in St. Louis about Dec. 15 to spend a month with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dozier L. Gardner, 24 Washington terrace. Plans for her entertainment are being held in abeyance until her arrival.

Miss Sara Jane Avant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest L. Avant, 6255 Pershing avenue, will be guest of honor at a theater party tonight at the American Theater at which Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bailey Jamison, 6105 Lindell boulevard, will be host and hostess. The following will attend: Miss Josephine Fusz, Miss Jane Sandford Scudder, Miss Hester Stocker, Miss Betty and Miss Donne Stevens, Miss Anne Reinholdt, Miss Abigail and Miss Margaret Ann Gross, Miss Susan Meston, Miss Anne Wendling, Miss Mildred Bakewell, Miss Katharine Bernays, Miss Alice Jane Meyer, Miss Genevieve Mullins, Miss Dorothy Ann Mummert, Elleard Heffern, John Muckerman, Charles Peterson, Nicholas Noyes Jr., Lomax Study, Kirtley Black, Calvin Christy Jr., Harry B. Hazelton Jr., Joseph Switzer, Con Gross, Thomas K. Taylor, Arthur A. Bonsack Jr., Frank Hatton, Daniel Fahey Jr., Ivan Lee Holt Jr., Edward A. Limberg Jr.

Supper and dancing will follow at the Chase Hotel. In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Avant, Mr. and Mrs. Jamison will entertain a few close friends.

Three out of four young men who live above a garage at 5089 Waterman avenue, and whose party-giving propensities are well known to the younger set, have sent black bordered invitations to a "wake and candy pull in loving memory of" the fourth, Robert A. Boylan, who is West on a business trip. The hosts are D. Joy Burnet, formerly of Detroit; Sam Caldwell, who is called S. Smith Caldwell Jr., on the cards, and who once lived in Omaha, and L. Gerald Shields, late of New York. They have invited about 50 of the debutantes of other seasons and their escorts for tomorrow "from 3 o'clock ad infinitum."

From time to time the garage apartment known as the Waterman Garage and Sporting Club, has housed other hosts. John Gillis recently moved out. Jim Alfring left when his family returned to town and took an apartment, and Jack Cohane has found other quarters. W. W. Boyd III recently married Miss Louise Kennard and now has an apartment of his own.

Mrs. Frederick W. Lehmann of the Park Plaza has arrived at the San Marcos Hotel, Chandler, Ariz., to be a guest the remainder of the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. David Battle Smith have returned from their wedding trip and are now at home at 5 Bel-Lin avenue, Clayton. They were away about two weeks. They visited Hot Springs, Ark., Lake Charles and New Orleans. Before their marriage Nov. 24, Mrs. Smith was Miss Elsa Logeman, granddaughter of Mrs. Ernest Hartmann, 6466 Pershing avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Leavitt, 4953 McPherson avenue, recently had as guests their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vilas Platt of Chicago and their daughter, Margaret, who have now returned home.

Their son, David Franklin Leavitt, also of Chicago, arrived last night and expects to remain over Christmas. His paintings, water colors, lithographs and woodcuts will be exhibited here beginning tomorrow at the Print Room, 4651 Maryland avenue. The patrons and patronesses of this exhibition have invited friends to the Print Room for a pre-view and cocktail party this afternoon at 5 oclock.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Edgar Jenkins, 625 South Skinker boulevard, are expected back the first of the week from a visit to New York.

RESPONDING to invitations to "the sign of the frosted pine," debutantes were entertained at luncheon today by Mrs. Nelson Moody Pope at her home, 437 Mission court. Miss Dorothy-Lee Culver, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Raymond Culver Jr., 35 Brentmoor park, was honor guest.

Pines, powdered with white, decorated the lower floors. Ordered from Saskatchewan for the occasion, the trees stood in archways into the living room and sunroom, and between doors to the dining room where the buffet table was spread. Completely covered with synthetic snow, the table had as a centerpiece an Alpine scene. A Swiss chalet bordered a small lake, around which deer scampered and ski jumpers coasted down miniature mountains. Guests were seated at small tables of four, which were also covered with artificial snow and had groves of small pines for centerpieces. Large white mints were used for place cards. They were arranged to stand, and were decorated with green pine trees and bore the names of guests in green. Another pine tree on the buffet was loaded with favors—packages of pine bath salts done up with clusters of gold cones fastening the packets.

A similar tree on the mantel in the living room was illuminated with gold stars, which had written on their backs the horoscopes of individual guests, worked out by a local astrologist.

At one of the small tables in the dining room Mrs. Pope entertained Mrs. Culver and Mrs. Walter J. Knight. Other guests included: Miss Nancy Lee Morrill, Miss Eunice Holderness, Miss Frances McPheeters, Miss Mildred Bakewell, Miss Margaret Cornwell, Miss Julia Marie Dearmont and her guest, Miss Ellen Lee Snodgrass of Washington, Miss Jane Winter, Miss Alice Jane Meyer, Miss Abigail and Miss Margaret Ann Gross, Miss Mary Julia and Miss Anne Sullivan, Miss Susan Meston, Miss Alice Egan, Miss Frances O'Neil, Miss Eleanor Lee Carter, Miss Mary Lee Smidt, Miss Georgia Simmons, Miss Sidney Busch and Miss Ahden Knight and her guest, Miss Mary George Knight of Meridian, Miss. Miss Knight, cousin of Miss Ahden Knight and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Knight, arrived Wednesday and plans to remain until after Christmas.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Richard Doyle who were married a few weeks ago, have arrived in Lansing, Mich., where they will reside, after a wedding trip through Mexico.

Mrs. Doyle was Miss Betty McMahon, daughter of Mrs. John Francis McMahon, 4 North Kingshighway. They expect to return here for a holiday visit, as do Mrs. McMahon's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard McMahon of Toledo.

Miss Virginia Witherington Baugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip E. Baugh, 7 Clermont lane, who attends Geneva College for Women in Switzerland, will go to Zermatt, a Swiss mountain resort, for winter sports during the holidays.

Julian Samuels Jr., will arrive home Dec. 19 from the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va., to spend the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julian G. Samuels, 6371 Waterman avenue. He will have as his guests Miss Sue Reis of Cincinnati and her brother, James Reis Jr., who attend Knox School, Cooperstown, N. Y., and Yale, respectively. Mr. Samuels is planning two parties in their honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Frances H. Barnidge, 6178 Westminster place, have returned from a two weeks' southern cruise. They visited Havana, Panama, Nicaragua and Honduras.

Mrs. Gerald B. O'Reilly, 5621 Waterman avenue, has issued invitations for a tea to be given Wednesday, Dec. 29, in honor of her young nieces, Nancy Kay, Mary and Ann Gavin. Members of the school set will be the guests.

Beta Sigma Omicron Alumnae chapter of St. Louis will hold its annual founders' day banquet Monday night at a 7 o'clock dinner at the Winston-Churchill. The affair will be in honor of the sorority's forty-ninth anniversary. One of the founders, Mrs. S. W. Sneed of the Kings-Way Hotel, will be present. She was formerly Miss Eulalie Hockaday of Columbia, Mo.

MRS. ROOSEVELT INTERVIEWED BY KATE SMITH IN BROADCAST

But Because of Court Dispute, Singer Does Not Call Herself "First Lady of Radio" in Program.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. — Kate Smith interviewed Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, "The First Lady of the Land," in a radio broadcast last night, but not as "The First Lady of Radio."

Vaughn de Leath, another radio singer, obtained a court order requiring Miss Smith and her manager, Ted Collins, to show cause by Monday why she should not be restrained from using that title.

Reuben Caldin, counsel for Miss de Leath, told Supreme Court Justice William Harman Black that his client wished particularly to prevent Miss Smith from being introduced by that phrase last night.

Miss de Leath claims exclusive rights to the title on the ground that she first sang over the air in 1919 for Dr. Lee de Forest, American radio pioneer. Miss Smith, said Collins, has never called herself "first lady."

MIDWEST TRANSIT CONVENTION

Association Opens Annual Two-day Sessions at Chase Hotel.

The Midwest Transit Association opened its annual two-day midwinter convention today at Hotel Chase, in connection with a three-day meeting of representatives of transit lines and equipment manufacturers. F. C. DeBolt, president of the Oklahoma City (Ok.) Railway Co., president of the association, presided.

C. W. Gifford, president of the Des Moines (Ia.) Railway Co., was chairman at a bus conference yesterday of the American Transit Association. Other meetings of equipment and operating associations will be tomorrow. About 150 persons are attending the sessions.

TO REPLACE CHASE BAROMEO

Douglas Beattie to Sing With Symphony Next Week.

Douglas Beattie, young American bass-baritone, will replace Chase Baromeo as one of the four soloists with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra the afternoon of Dec. 17 and the evening of Dec. 18. Baromeo was unable to appear because of conflicting engagments with the Metropolitan.

Beattie will sing with the orchestra in Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. Other soloists are Winifred Cecil, soprano; Lilian Knowles, contralto, and George Rasely, tenor.

Funeral of Solomon McElvain.

Funeral services for Solomon McElvain, who died Wednesday of infirmities at the home of his son, Dr. Robert McElvain, 9 Bellerive Acres, Normandy, were held here today. Burial will be in DuQuoin, Ill. Mr. McElvain, who was 86 years old, is also survived by another son, Dr. Samuel McElvain, professor at the University of Wisconsin, and by a sister.

EUGENE M'QUILLIN, FORMER JUDGE, DIES

Succumbs to Hardening of Arteries at 76 — Wrote Several Books.

Former Circuit Judge Eugene McQuillin, who had practiced law in St. Louis for 53 years and had written several books on law, died of hardening of the arteries early today at Central Hospital, 4518 Washington boulevard. He was taken to the hospital Monday after a stroke in his apartment at the Melbourne Hotel.

A Republican, 76 years old, he was Circuit Judge from 1908 until 1914. In 1915 he was appointed to the Missouri Public Service Commission but resigned a few months later when the State Senate, for political reasons, rejected the appointment.

In recent years he had devoted himself chiefly to writing although he maintained an office in the Boatmen's Bank Building. He was regarded as an authority on municipal law, two of his books having been on this subject. He also was the author of a book on instructions to juries in civil cases and of a two-volume work, "Missouri Pleading and Practice."

Born in Lee County, Iowa, he was admitted to the bar in 1884 after finishing law school at Keokuk, Ia. He served a term as president of the St. Louis Bar Association.

Surviving are two brothers, Vincent McQuillin of Vichy, Mo., and Edward McQuillin of Burlington, Ia., and a sister, Miss Mary McQuillin of Knoxville, Ia.

MRS. IDA M. SWIFT DIES

Widow of Iron Manufacturer to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Mrs. Ida M. Swift, widow of John Staples Swift, former vice-president of the Beck & Corbitt Iron Co., died of infirmities of age today at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. William G. Jenkin, 32 Kingsbury place, with whom she had lived for several years. She was 86 years old.

Mrs. Swift, who had lived in St. Louis all her life, is survived by four other daughters: Mrs. William T. Jones; Mrs. F. A. Aid; Mrs. A. J. Barker and Mrs. David Landreth; and three sons: William Card Swift; Robert E. Swift and John S. Swift. The funeral will be held from the residence at 2 oclock tomorrow afternoon. Burial will take place in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Credit Men Elect William Preusser.

William Preusser was elected president of the Retail Credit Men's Association last night at the Coronado Hotel. Charles D. Reno was named vice-president; Marcellus Becker, treasurer, and A. J. Kruse, secretary.

BRAZIL BUYING SIX WARSHIPS IN BRITAIN

Destroyers Costing a Total of $14,400,000 to Be Built Under Navy Program.

By the Associated Press.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Dec. 10.—The Brazilian Government signed a contract yesterday with three British firms for the construction of six destroyers at a total price of about $14,400,000.

The ships will be the same type as the British "H" class, with 1350 tons displacement and 323 feet in length. The ships will be built by Vickers-Armstrong, Ltd., John I. Thornycroft, and J. Samuel White & Co.

J. Samuel White & Co. announced in London work on two destroyers they would build would start immediately.

The Brazilian Government has started a navy building program that included two new cruisers, nine destroyers and eight submarines. Three of the submarines have been ordered from Italy. Brazil also has been negotiating with the United States for the leasing of six obsolescent American destroyers.

EVIDENCE BARRED ON LOSS IN SALE OF T V A POWER

of a system of 32 low dams and locks providing a nine-foot channel on the Tennessee River from its mouth to Knoxville, Tenn., a distance of 652 miles.

Other Estimates Involved.

The amount allowed for flood control was what the witness, Ford Kurtz, hydraulic engineer, had testified would be the cost of a system of detention dams on tributaries of the Tennessee River fully adequate for flood control. Other engineers also have testified as to the adequacy of those two projects for navigation and flood control.

To arrive at the balance of the investment chargeable to power Moreland also eliminated $4,843,000 as the cost of the town of Norris, Tenn., built by T V A near the Norris Dam, including highways and certain forest lands in that area.

Transmission facilities necessary for marketing the full potential energy output of the T V A dams would cost $116,587,000, Moreland estimated. This made a total investment of $429,551,000 represented by power purposes.

He calculated annual operation and maintenance cost as $2,693,000; interest charges at three and one-half per cent were $15,034,000; depreciation he estimated at $7,346,000 a year.

The total of these estimated charges was $32,557,000, and he used this figure as the total cost of the electricity produced at full capacity.

Annual revenue from full output at T V A rates, excluding that accounted for by Wilson Dam facilities as they existed before establishment of T V A, would be $23,551,000, Moreland estimated.

This, he calculated, would result in an annual "out-of-pocket deficit" of $9,006,000.

No Cross-Examination.

As these calculations in the form of exhibits were not admitted in evidence, T V A counsel had no opportunity to cross-examine the witness as to the accuracy of his figures. In fact, at the conclusion of his direct examination, taking up most of the day, James Lawrence Fly, general counsel for T V A, announced to the evident surprise of the other side that there would be no cross-examination.

The T V A lawyers have taken the position all along that rates, cost of production and such financial details are of no concern in the case.

At one point in arguing for admission of evidence on costs, Attorney Raymond T. Jackson for the utilities asserted one purpose was to prove that the T V A officials were violating a provision of the statute which Jackson thought required them to sell the electricity at a profit. The Court seemed to think that Congress had given the T V A directors discretion on that point.

Another basis that Attorney Jackson urged for admission of this line of testimony was that it tended to prove violation by T V A of the fifth amendment prohibiting the taking of private property for public use without just compensation, in this way: the T V A "yardstick" rates actually will serve to regulate the rates of the competing utilities down to the T V A level by "economic coercion;" these rates being below cost will be confiscatory and will thereby result in an unjust taking of property of the plaintiffs. If the companies exercised the "choice" of not reducing rates to meet those of T V A, their businesses would be largely destroyed and to that extent "confiscated."

Moreland was prepared to give his opinion as an expert of the measure of damage to the 18 complaining companies, the taking of their property, expressed in dollars. This testimony was excluded.

Table on Damages.

In a detailed table which was one of the rejected exhibits Moreland estimated the "minimum probable damage" resulting from idleness of facilities displaced by T V A and its wholesale contractors, that is, agencies buying energy from it and reselling it, at $33,000,000. This was assuming a wide distribution of T V A electricity in an area that might extend as far as 250 miles from the generating dams. Such area would include St. Louis, and the distance has been described by engineering witnesses here as an economically feasible one for transmission.

Morland testified earlier that the amount of electricity T V A would have available annually when in full operation was somewhat more than half of all that was sold by utilities and agencies other than T V A and its contractors in 1936 in the area within 250 miles of any T V A dam. His later excluded exhibits undertook to show that this would result in displacing a large amount, possibly as much as 50 per cent, of the markets of the complaining companies.

WITNESSES SAY R F C MADE LOAN IN SPITE OF LAW

As security for the $4,000,000 loan, Jones insisted on taking $6,000,000 of bonds from the railroad's treasury, testified Swaine, leaving us with only $1,500,000 in bonds, "our last security." It had become the chairman's practice, said Swaine, "to grab everything in the till, and I don't blame him." On the contrary, Ecker had the impression that Jones was less interested in collateral than in keeping the St. Paul out of bankruptcy.

"Confidentially," Ecker wrote to Scandrett on Oct. 15, 1934, "I have talked with Mr. Jones regarding what he is seeking to do in aiding the railroad situation in general. He was frank in saying that he felt it would be in the public interest to have the Milwaukee avoid receivership at this time."

At a time when the St. Paul directors were planning to obtain $4,000,000 and if possible $9,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, it was brought out, they were scrupulously paying off, in advance of the maturity date, $3,000,000 in short-term loans which had been obtained in the middle of 1934 from private bankers.

These loans were $750,000 from Kuhn, Loeb & Co.; $750,000 from the New York Trust Co., and $500,000 each from the National City Bank of New York, the First National Bank of Chicago, and the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co., also of Chicago. These were to be settled at the rate of $1,000,000 on Sept. 1 and $2,000,000 on Oct. 1. It was testified that all the advances were repaid on Sept. 1.

After the bankers had their money, according to evidence presented, it was discovered that the loans had been made in violation of an agreement entered into by the St. Paul in connection with the R. F. C.'s advance of $8,000,000 in 1932. This was that the railroad would not pledge any of its collateral except after five days notice to the R. F. C. The development was unearthed by John W. Ballinger III, chief of the railroad division of the R. F. C. Buckner testified that Jones was exceedingly perturbed, until he was assured by the directors it was all an oversight, and wouldn't happen again.

Question by Truman.

After Buckner had testified that the banks today are in a highly liquid condition, with vast reserves of cash which they don't know what to do with, Senator Truman of Missouri, who presided over the hearing, put this question:

"Do you think it necessary for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to continue if the banks can now do the work which that corporation did?"

"I see no reason for it to continue," replied Buckner, "unless we are going into another depression. The R F C originally was engaged in emergency business which I think today is more or less over."

Gandhi Somewhat Improved.

BOMBAY, India, Dec. 10. — Mohandas K. Gandhi's doctors said today that complete rest at the seashore had increased hope for the recovery of the ailing Nationalist leader. They said Gandhi, afflicted with heart disease and high blood pressure, had built up considerable physical reserve during his brief stay at a resort in suburban Bombay.

ONE-HOUSE ASSEMBLY ADVOCATED BY BANKER

Alfred Fairbank Suggests Missouri Take Nebraska Legislature as Model.

A one-house Legislature for Missouri, on the Nebraska model, was advocated by Alfred Fairbank, vice-president of Boatmen's National Bank, in a luncheon talk before the Civitan Club at Hotel Statler today.

Fairbank cited the present inequalities in representation, in both houses of the Missouri Legislature, as a condition needing correction, but not likely to be corrected while the Legislature is in its present form. Reorganization of the State executive departments, increase of the Governor's power, the short ballot, adequate salaries for the chief state officers, and reform of the judicial system, could be more effectively sought if the legislative structure were changed, he said.

Concurring in the suggestion of the Post-Dispatch, last June, that a change to the one-house system be sought through initiative petitions, Fairbank said:

"The initiative amendment necessary should be very carefully drawn by a competent group of able citizens, who enjoy public confidence. The plan should be presented through a carefully prepared publicity campaign, with ample time for discussion by business, civic and professional organizations and other opinion-forming agencies."

He reviewed the organization and work of the 43-member Nebraska State Senate, which this year, for the first time, replaced the former Senate of 33 and House of 100 members. He found especial merit in the simplifying of committee work, and the eliminating of conference committees, necessary for perfecting legislation in a two-house system.

Fairbank expressed the opinion that a Missouri one-house Legislature should have 70 to 85 members, with salaries of $1800 to $2400 for a two-year period. There are now 184 members of the two houses, paid on a per diem basis, $5 a day for 70 days and $1 a day thereafter. The speaker estimated that the change would save the state $100,000 in legislative costs, while giving members adequate pay. At present, he said, some well qualified persons do not seek election to the Legislature because they feel that they cannot afford to serve at the present pay.

O'MALLEY'S RATE COMPROMISE HEL NULL AND VOI

Supreme Court Orders $1 786,000 of Fire Insu ance Premiums Disburs to Policy-Holders.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 10. Policyholders of the stock fire surance companies won a le victory and the O'Malley "80-2 compromise of fire insurance r litigation was turned down by State court for the third time, wh the Missouri Supreme Court banc, by a four-to-three vote, late y terday affirmed a Cole County C cuit Court judgment against 74 the companies and ordered retu to the policyholders of $1,786,000 excess premiums impounded in t case.

The Supreme Court ruled the i pounded funds, representing a 16 2 per cent rate increase collected the companies during five of t more than seven years of litigati over the increase, were illegally c lected, that the money belonged the policyholders and should disbursed to them.

So far as the State court pha of the fire rate litigation is co cerned, the court held the compr mise agreement entered into former State Insurance Superi tendent R. Emmet O'Malley Kansas City and the companies, May, 1935, was null and void b cause it was based on a rate ord which the court held O'Malley ha no jurisdiction to issue. The ord itself was declared void and of n effect.

Yesterday's decision deals only with questions involved in the State court case and has no bearing on disposition of the legal issues in 137 separate injunction suits which were filed by that many companies in Federal Court in Kansas City to enforce the increase. A three-Judge court approved the compromise in those cases early in 1936, and distribution of the approximately $10,600,000 impounded in the cases is in progress under the compromise terms.

No Decision on Merits of Rates.

Judge Frank's opinion did not deal with the merits of the fire insurance rates or whether the companies were entitled to any part of the 16 2-3 per cent increase. The legal issues in the rate case were disposed of by a ruling that the companies had not followed the proper legal procedure in filing a joint action in Circuit Court for review of an Insurance Department order in May, 1930, denying the increase. The Judge held that under the rating laws the companies could not legally seek a rate increase through a joint suit based on the aggregate underwriting experience of all of the companies.

"The statute does not provide a uniform rate for all the companies," Judge Frank said. "Neither does it provide for or authorize a joint action based upon the aggregate experience of all of the companies to review an order of the Superintendent refusing to approve a proposed increase in rates."

He held the Circuit Court therefore had no jurisdiction.

"Since the Circuit Court did not have jurisdiction of the subject-matter of the action," the Judge said, "all orders made and judgments rendered therein . . . are null and void and of no effect, except the judgment dismissing the case and ordering the impounded funds returned to the policyholders."

Circuit Judge Nike Sevier entered his judgment in the case in May, 1935, the same day that he was asked by O'Malley and the companies to approve the compromise. He threw out the compromise, ruled against the companies and for the policyholders on all points in the rate review case, ordered the company suit dismissed and the impounded money refunded to policyholders. The companies appealed to the Supreme Court.

Although the State had won the case in the lower court, despite efforts of its representatives to drop it for the compromise, the joint request by O'Malley and the companies then was submitted to the Supreme Court after the appeal was filed. The Supreme Court denied the motion on Oct. 18, 1935, without writing an opinion explaining its reasons. O'Malley and the companies were back last January with another motion for approval of the agreement. That motion was taken

O'MALLEY'S RATE COMPROMISE HELD NULL AND VOID

Supreme Court Orders $1,786,000 of Fire Insurance Premiums Disbursed to Policy-Holders.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 10. — Policyholders of the stock fire insurance companies won a legal victory and the O'Malley "80-20" compromise of fire insurance rate litigation was turned down by a State court for the third time, when the Missouri Supreme Court en banc, by a four-to-three vote, late yesterday affirmed a Cole County Circuit Court judgment against 74 of the companies and ordered return to the policyholders of $1,786,000 of excess premiums impounded in the case.

The Supreme Court ruled the impounded funds, representing a 16 2-3 per cent rate increase collected by the companies during five of the more than seven years of litigation over the increase, were illegally collected, that the money belonged to the policyholders and should be disbursed to them.

So far as the State court phase of the fire rate litigation is concerned, the court held the compromise agreement entered into by former State Insurance Superintendent R. Emmet O'Malley of Kansas City and the companies, in May, 1935, was null and void because it was based on a rate order which the court held O'Malley had no jurisdiction to issue. The order itself was declared void and of no effect.

Had Awarded Part of Increase.

That rate order, issued on May 21, 1935, three days after the compromise agreement was signed, purported to award the companies four-fifths of the 16 2-3 per cent increase they were attempting to enforce in both the State and Federal courts. The order, which O'Malley attempted to make retroactive to June 1, 1930, was intended to justify the agreement for an "80-20" division of about $12,400,000 of excess premiums impounded in the State and Federal Court rate cases, with the policyholders on the short end.

A motion filed jointly by O'Malley and the companies, requesting the Supreme Court to approve the compromise agreement and to enter a judgment in accordance with its terms, was denied.

The opinion, written by Judge William F. Frank, was concurred in by Judges Ernest S. Gantt and James M. Douglas. Chief Justice Charles T. Hays concurred in the result. Judges Ernest M. Tipton, George R. Ellison and C. A. Leedy Jr., dissented.

Yesterday's decision deals only with questions involved in the State court case and has no bearing on disposition of the legal issues in 137 separate injunction suits which were filed by that many companies in Federal Court in Kansas City to enforce the increase. A three-Judge court approved the compromise in those cases early in 1936, and distribution of the approximately $10,600,000 impounded in the cases is in progress under the compromise terms.

No Decision on Merits of Rates.

Judge Frank's opinion did not deal with the merits of the fire insurance rates or whether the companies were entitled to any part of the 16 2-3 per cent increase. The legal issues in the rate case were disposed of by a ruling that the companies had not followed the proper legal procedure in filing a joint action in Circuit Court for review of an Insurance Department order in May, 1930, denying the increase. The Judge held that under the rating laws the companies could not legally seek a rate increase through a joint suit based on the aggregate underwriting experience of all of the companies.

"The statute does not provide a uniform rate for all the companies," Judge Frank said. "Neither does it provide for or authorize a joint action based upon the aggregate experience of all of the companies to review an order of the Superintendent refusing to approve a proposed increase in rates."

He held the Circuit Court therefore had no jurisdiction.

"Since the Circuit Court did not have jurisdiction of the subject-matter of the action," the Judge said, "all orders made and judgments rendered therein . . . are null and void and of no effect, except the judgment dismissing the case and ordering the impounded funds returned to the policyholders."

Circuit Judge Nike Sevier entered his judgment in the case in May, 1935, the same day that he was asked by O'Malley and the companies to approve the compromise. He threw out the compromise, ruled against the companies and for the policyholders on all points in the rate review case, ordered the company suit dismissed and the impounded money refunded to policyholders. The companies appealed to the Supreme Court.

Although the State had won the case in the lower court, despite efforts of its representatives to drop it for the compromise, the joint request by O'Malley and the companies then was submitted to the Supreme Court after the appeal was filed. The Supreme Court denied the motion on Oct. 18, 1935, without writing an opinion explaining its reasons. O'Malley and the companies were back last January with another motion for approval of the agreement. That motion was taken along with the appeal in the rate case.

Reargument Was Ordered.

The court first heard the appeal and compromise arguments early this year, but ordered a reargument, apparently after the Judges had failed to agree on a majority opinion, with one Judge not sitting. The case was reargued last Nov. 23.

Although holding the lower court had no jurisdiction and that its various orders were void, with two exceptions, Judge Frank said the judgment dismissing the review suit and ordering return of the impounded fund to the policyholders "reached the right result, regardless of the reasons which prompted the court to so adjudge." For that reason, he said, the judgment should be affirmed.

The holding that other orders of the lower court were void may affect various orders allowing a total of about $25,000 in fees to Circuit Clerk Guy M. Sone of Jefferson City as custodian of the impounded fund and about $50,000 to T. Speed Mosby, appointed by Judge Sevier as counsel for Sone. The fund is deposited in two banks here and a bank in Kansas City under an order by Judge Sevier.

Judge Frank said that, since the fund was in the custody of the lower court, it was the duty of that court to protect it and see that "it reaches the rightful custodian." This custodian was not designated in the opinion, but it had been contended by Attorney-General McKittrick that the Insurance Department should have custody of the fund.

The companies have not been collecting the full 16 2-3 per cent increase for the last two years. As a part of the compromise agreement the approximately 200 companies filed new fire insurance rate schedules in November, 1935, establishing lower levels, which, it was said, eliminated about two-thirds of the original increase. Re-rating of risks and other changes would bring about additional reductions, O'Malley said at the time.

Removal of Superintendent.

Differences between Gov. Stark and O'Malley, apparently due chiefly to the latter's activity in seeking approval of the compromise, resulted in the removal of O'Malley as Insurance Superintendent by the Governor Oct. 19. George A. S. Robertson of Marshall was appointed as his successor.

The Governor had called on O'Malley to take steps to withdraw the State from the compromise, so far as the case before the Supreme Court was concerned, and to have his special counsel present the rate case to the Supreme Court on its merits. O'Malley did not go along with this plan, and his removal followed. The ouster was accomplished by the official formality of announcing appointment of his successor, as O'Malley's term had expired and he was holding over at the pleasure of the Governor.

Robertson filed a motion asking leave of the court for the State to withdraw from the compromise. The court denied this motion last Nov. 23 before hearing arguments in the rate case.

Companies to Move for Rehearing Within 10 Days.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Robert J. Folonie, chief counsel for a group of fire insurance companies ordered by the Missouri Supreme Court to return to policy holders $1,750,000 of impounded excess premiums, announced last night he would move for a rehearing of the case within 10 days.

IF YOU'RE A WOMAN—today's world is less easy, more dangerous than that of our mothers, our grandmothers. But it is a freer, larger and, in a sense, more glorious world.

Women have more part in it; more share in its troubles and responsibilities; and more share, too, in its triumphs; in getting things done that make it a better place to live in.

Today women cannot, if they would, live shut away from the needs, problems and hopes of the whole human family. We believe they would not if they could.

The editors of the Journal believe that as the world has changed, women's attitude toward life has changed also. That they no longer wish to be protected from whatever is ugly or strange or revolutionary to their old ways of thinking. They wish to know whatever is true.

UNAPPROVED CHARITY SEEKS WRIT TO SOLICIT

Community Industries, Inc., Files Injunction Suit Against City Commission.

An injunction suit filed by Community Industries, Inc., 2700 South Third street, to prevent the city Charity Solicitation Commission and police from interfering with its work of solicitation, was taken under advisement yesterday after a hearing before Circuit Judge Charles B. Williams.

John Miller, superintendent of the organization, testified its work was that of soliciting, reconditioning and selling or giving away articles of clothing and furniture. Those employed, he said, included a man with one arm, a legless man, a sufferer from spinal curvature and others unemployable by ordinary standards. He compared the organization with Goodwill Industries, which has a solicitation permit.

Miller and Herman Schachter, an attorney, president of Community Industries, said the city commission refused their application for a permit to solicit goods. No money is solicited, they said.

Francis E. Williams of the Better Business Bureau, a member of the city commission, testified the permit was refused because Community Industries was not considered a charitable organization. Scott R. DeKins, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, told the Court Community Industries was not on its approved charity list.

The Court was asked to declare invalid the ordinance establishing the commission, headed by Director of Public Welfare Joseph M. Darst. It is charged that the Aldermen, in enacting the ordinance, delegated legislative power to the commission.

C I O BEGINS CAMPAIGN TO ENLIST A. F. L. UNION

Charters Furniture Workers and Announces Effort to Bring in Upholsterers.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. — The Committee for Industrial Organization renewed hostilities with the American Federation of Labor in announcing last night that steps would be taken at once to bring upholsterers now affiliated with the A. F. of L. into a new industrial union.

John L. Lewis' organization issued a statement saying it had issued a charter of affiliation to the new union, the United Furniture Workers of America.

"The new CIO international," the statement said, "starts with a membership of 35,000, representing the great majority of organized furniture workers and including CIO local industrial unions, independent unions and those locals of the Upholsterers' International Union of the American Federation of Labor which have already voted to affiliate.

"Steps will be taken at once to bring into its ranks the remaining locals which have not yet taken action on affiliation."

The union will begin a campaign at once, with CIO assistance, to organize the country's 200,000 unorganized furniture workers, the statement said.

The statement said a committee elected by a recent conference of furniture workers here had removed from its membership Sal B. Hoffman, president of the Upholsterers' International. Hoffman, the committee declared, had declared open war on all bodies of the Upholsterers' International which were in favor of CIO affiliation.

Morris Muster of New York, vice-president of the Upholsterers' International, was named provisional president of the United Furniture Workers. Other provisional officers appointed are Emil Costello, Kenosha, Wis., secretary-treasurer; Max Perlow, New York; George Bucher, Philadelphia; Joseph D. Persily, Indianapolis, and Joseph Proudman, Jamestown, N. Y., who with Muster and Costello will constitute an executive board. All will serve, the statement said, until a constitutional convention elects permanent officers.

Most Ancient Human Bones Reported Found in Java

Dutch Scientist's Discovery Said to Prove Man Walked Upright and Used Brain 1,000,000 Years Ago.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. — Dr. G. H. R. von Koenigswald, Dutch scientist of Bandoeng, Java, and a research associate of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, has reported he found part of a skull, the lower jaw and a number of teeth of an ancient man near the Solo River in Java, it was announced today.

This man, he added, "is the most primitive fossil man now known" and lived long before the original pithecanthropus erectus. The first of this species was found in Java in 1890 and was believed until now to have been the earliest man on earth.

Dr. John C. Merriam, president of the institution, said the discovery "is one of the most important finds in many decades." The new specimen, he said, proves that pithecanthropus man had progressed above the mental and physical level of the great apes, and also that man has been walking upright and using his hands and brain for about 1,000,000 years.

Previous discoveries of fossilized bones of human beings ranged in age from 12,000 to more than 500,000 years. Pithecanthropus man's age had been fixed at about 500,000 years on the basis of previous findings.

Dr. Koenigswald made his discovery after a search of less than a year, Dr. Merriam said, principally because he knew the territory and where to look. His report on "the most ancient human remains" was received in time for the annual meeting today of the institution's board of trustees and the opening of its exhibition of scientific research.

The owner of the skull he found was a lantern-jawed individual, Dr. Koenigswald reported.

The lower jaw is "very heavy, with large teeth, having resemblance in various characters to several of the most primitive human types," he said.

The position of the ear and the socket for the movement of the lower jaw are typically human, the scientists declared, but the absence of a well developed mastoid process near the ear is "very apelike."

The skull was found broken into small parts and required work to reassemble. The rear portion of it was missing.

TAKES OVER ORGANIZATION WORK OF RETAIL DRUG CLERKS

Vernon Housewright Assumes Duties of Louis F. Gerwitz, Who Resigned.

Vernon Housewright, organizer for the Retail Clerks International Protective Association, announced today that he had taken over the organization of the Retail Drug Clerks' Local Union 239, recently chartered by the international union, an affiliate of the A. F. of L.

The announcement was made after resignation of the local's chief organizer and financial secretary, Louis F. Gerwitz, a former convict. Gerwitz, who was released from the Missouri Penitentiary last May, was arrested Wednesday on the statement of two other men that he had ordered the purchase of chemicals used in making stench bombs.

The chemicals were seized by police at the home of Arthur A. Ulrich, a drug clerk, who said he bought them at the request of his brother-in-law, John Dunlap, for Gerwitz. The Circuit Attorney's office refused to issue a warrant, holding there was no statute under which the case could be prosecuted.

In his resignation, Gerwitz denied the charges, but said he thought it was in the best interests of trade union movement that he step aside. Housewrigh said all business of the local would be transacted from his office at 1411 North Grand boulevard.

JAPANESE CABINET AGREES ON FUTURE POLICY IN CHINA

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Dec. 10.—The Foreign Office spokesman announced today that Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye would issue a full statement on Japan's future policy in China after the expected fall of Nanking.

The spokesman said the cabinet council had examined financial, military and diplomatic aspects of the hostilities in China and had come to an agreement on future policy.

Competent sources said the Premier's statement would repudiate the Chinese government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and announce Japan's intention to pursue extended hostilities if necessary.

Lieut.-Gen. Prince Yasuhiko Asaka, a close relative of the Emperor, was given an important but undisclosed post in the command of Japanese forces attacking Nanking.

BOARD OF EDUCATION SEEKS NEW TRIAL IN VASHON CASE

Petition to Set Aside Injunction Charges Court With Lack of Jurisdiction.

A motion for a new trial was filed yesterday by the Board of Education, asking Circuit Judge Robert J. Kirkwood to set aside a permanent injunction granted Monday against the board proceeding with a plan to erect an elementary grade school on the site of Vashon (Negro) High School, 3026 Laclede avenue.

Nineteen reasons why the motion should be sustained were set forth, among them that the court had no jurisdiction to interfere with the board in the exercise of its discretionary power. The injunction was granted on petition of 10 Negro residents.

DUCHESS OF WINDSOR IS LAST

Burke's Peerage Lists Her as No. 29; Duke Is No. 4 Man.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The Duchess of Windsor has been placed last of all Britain's duchesses, the current edition of Burke's Peerage disclosed today.

Letters patent issued by the College of Arms did not follow custom and raise the former Wallis Warfield to the same rank as her husband, listed as the No. 4 man of the realm. The ranking made Edward the third Duke, below his brother-King and two other brothers, the Dukes of Gloucester and Kent, while his wife was listed as the twenty-ninth Duchess.

CARTER CARBURETOR FIRM CITED BY BOARD

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The Federal Trade Commission issued a complaint today against the Carter Carburetor Corporation of St. Louis, charging unfair competition and the use of dealer contracts which tend to create monopoly in violation of the Clayton Act.

The commission said the company supplied more than half of all carburetors installed on new automobiles this year, and, with its major competitor, accounted for 95 per cent of all carburetors so used.

The contracts to which the commission objects are described as granting a 50 per cent discount from list prices to dealers who agree not to handle carburetor products of firms which entered that field after June, 1934. Those without contracts are allowed a discount of 25 per cent.

More than 900 dealers have entered into such contracts, the commission charges, and some contracts have been terminated because dealers refused to accept the conditions imposed. Contracts may be canceled on 30-day notice. The importance of Carter products in the industry is such, the commission says, that this feature tends to make dealers subservient to the company.

Practices complained of, the commission holds, "are designed to preserve to the Carter company, and to its single major competitor in the original (carburetor) equipment field, against which such practices are not directed, the bulk of the business in original equipment, and, therefore, in the industry."

The company has 20 days within which to file its answer to the complaint. After hearing, if the commission should find the complaint justified, it would issue a "cease and desist" order.

The Carter company, which has a large plant at 2820 North Spring avenue, near Sportsman's Park, began as a small St. Louis concern. In a reorganization 16 years ago, it was acquired by the American Car & Foundry Co. and since then its business has grown ti large proportions.

At the company's office it was said that in the absence of Vice-President Hugh H. C. Weed, no comment would be made on the commission's complaint. Other officers of the company reside in the East.

TWO AUTO UNION MEN INDICTED FOR ASSAULT

Charged With Injuring Worker Who Refused to Join Picket Line.

Indictments charging assault with intent to do great bodily harm, a felony, were voted by the grand jury yesterday against Fred Beeler, a member of the Executive Committee of Local 325, United Automobile Workers, now on strike at the Ford Motor Co. assembly plant, and Russell Fairchilds, a member of the local.

They were arrested Nov. 24 and released on bond after Gus Margelis, a Ford worker, said they fractured his nose and kicked him when he refused to join the picket line at the assembly plant, 4100 Forest Park avenue.

One of four men arrested today admitted he had assaulted two Ford employes who had failed to sign with the U A W A. They were Clarence Blessing, employe of an agency at 7916 South Broadway, who was beaten Saturday by one of four men who drove up to the sales lot at that address, and Thomas Barrett, employe at the assembly plant, who got the same treatment yesterday. When arrested, the men were in an automobile bearing a license number which corresponded to one furnished by witnesses who saw the Barrett beating.

Early mass picketing today again included union employes from the General Motors plant whose departments had shut down for the rest of the week. A group of about 30 men carrying banners identifying them as Ford employes for periods ranging from 10 to 21 years toured the major Ford agencies protesting against what they described as a lockout.

A plan for raising funds for the CIO strikers by selling buttons for 25 cents to $1 got under way today. The buttons bear the words: "My dollar for the Ford drive is paid" and "I gave for the Ford drive."

Wives of the strikers formed an auxiliary yesterday at a meeting at union headquarters, 4102 Clayton avenue, and made plans for relieving the men in the pickets' kitchen at 4052 Forest Park. They also will walk in the picket line and aid in the sale of buttons. Another meeting for election of auxiliary officers will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. About 30 attended yesterday's meeting.

85 Cars Assembled Yesterday.

At the assembly plant, where 620 men were reported at work yesterday by Milton N. Johnson, manager, is was said 85 automobiles were assembled. With about the same number at work today, production of 100 was hoped for.

Mrs. Albert Mitschele, 4109 West Pine boulevard, reported to police that her husband, a Ford assembly plant employe, was accosted by three men in the garage at the rear of his home when he left for work yesterday morning. She said the men fled when he picked up a jack knife and knocked a club from the hand of one of his assailants.

C. & O.-NICKEL PLATE DEAL AUTHORIZED CONDITIONALLY

D. C. C. Specifies Purchase of Control Must Be in Harmony With Consolidation Plan.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. — The Itnerstate Commerce Commission authorized, conditionally, today the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co. to acquire control of the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad Co. (Nickel Plate) and the Erie Railroad Co. by purchase of stock. The approval was on condition that the acquisition be in harmony with, and in furtherance, of the commission's plan for the consolidation of railway properties.

The C. & O. already has indirect control of the two carriers through its ownership of two holding companies, the Virginia Transportation Corporation and the Alleghany Corporation, which, together, hold 57.02 per cent of Nickel Plate and 55.68p er cent of Erie stock.

The Virginia Transportation Corporation now owns 7.44 per cent of the capital stock of the Nickel Plate and 45.68 per cent of Erie. The C. & O. holds an option from the Alleghany Corportaion which entitles it to acquire from the latter its holdings representing 49.58 per cent of Nickel Plate and 10 per cent of Erie.

DIVORCES WALTER LIPPMANN

Wife Gets Decree in Florida on Cruelty Charge.

By the Associated Press.

BRADENTON, Fla., Dec. 10.—Mrs. Fay Lippmann was granted a divorce from Writer Walter Lippmann yesterday afternoon by Circuit Judge George W. Whitehurst, it was disclosed today. The judge ordered the bill of complaint and the testimony sealed and filed in the court records. Lippmann failed to file an answer to his wife's charges.

Mrs. Lippmann charged her husband with extreme cruelty and habitual indulgence in a violent and ungovernable temper. The Lippmanns were married in New York City May 24, 1917, and separated last August. They have no children.

NOEL COWARD and ST. LOUIS
"TONIGHT AT 8:30" stars the fascinating Estelle Winwood, Bramwell Fletcher, Helen Chandler and Jessie Royce Landis, together with a brilliant New York cast. "TONIGHT AT 8:30" is a new idea in the theatre, the latest international hit from the magic pen of Noel Coward.

Instead of the usual old fashioned long three-act play, Mr. Coward has arranged in "Tonight at 8:30" a cycle of nine complete plays—in three series of three plays each, all different. To see all nine plays, one must attend the theater THREE TIMES; for three different performances one revels before Noel Coward's feast of his latest hits.

FILM TALENT ON RADIO TAKES OVER THE FIELD

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Radio going Hollywood with its programs on a super-colossal basis is getting the listeners to wonder just if the pendulum shouldn't be about ready to swing back. There's hardly a big program nowadays that doesn't have its broadcast locale in the land of movies, having transferred from the once-touted radio center of New York. For the most part it was the sponsors who brought about the shifting.

There are some nights in the week when the Eastern studios of the big networks look more like a deserted amusement park in the snow and cold of mid-winter than the pulsating heart of a country-crossing line of stations.

About the only big radio-name broadcasts left in New York—that is those listeners prefer when they want to be studio guests—are the Kate Smith, Rudy Vallee and Major Bowes productions. And Rudy himself is only just returning to the East after a short stay in Hollywood.

Apparently, though, the Hollywood trend has not yet approached its zenith. Not only do the stars of the camera appear as special guests in program after program, but one network show prides itself on the fact that it is an all-movie production, including the director. Another is just about ready to take the air.

The first of these programs has been striving to cram in as many of the big names of the particular movie lot from which it draws its talent as possible. The newest feature, coming from another movie studio, plans to do likewise, at least so the prospectus would indicate.

Not long ago one of the not-so-active-now observers of Radio City and environs took the trouble to compile an extended list of names of singers and the like well-versed in microphone technique who have been absent on the regular program basis lately. He blamed their non-appearance on the swing to Hollywood.

Most of the comment about Hollywood talent seems to center around the possibility that movie stars, while proficient in facing the camera, lack an important part of the radio touch that can be acquired no other place than in a broadcast atmosphere.

Berlin Songs for Astaire, Rogers.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 10—Setting a record in melody concentration, Irving Berlin has just finished seven songs in one week for the next Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers filmusical, "Carefree." The numbers are "I Used to Be Color Blind," "Change Partners," "The Night Is Filled With Music," "What the Well-Dressed Man Will Wear," "Let's Make the Most of Our Dream," "Carefree" and "You Can Be My Cave Man."

LOG of the grandest adventure-romance in the history of the sea

Capture
Taken by a British man-o'-war, two sailors (Gary Cooper and George Raft) are sentenced to be trussed by their thumbs to the yard-arms of the war-ship.

Fire

Struggle

Flight
One stalwart soul, who dares death itself to bring his little life-boat of survivors across the angry wastes to safety.

GARY COOPER as the seaman who battles fire, the fury of the sea, the wrath of a world to win the woman he loves.

GIRLS' ENTRIES BEST AT CALF CLUB SHOW

First Award to Aberdeen Angus Belonging to Irene Brown, Aledo, Ill.

An 1100-pound Aberdeen Angus calf, entered by Irene Brown, 13 years old, of Aledo, Ill., was judged grand champion yesterday at an annual Boys' and Girls' Calf Club Show sponsored by the St. Louis Livestock Exchange at National Stock Yards, East St. Louis.

The reserve champion award of $50 was won by "Franklin D," a Hereford calf entered by Imogene Britton, 8, of Casner, Ill., and exhibited by her sister, Jane. Girls were winners in four of the six classes of the show, in addition to capturing the championship awards.

Miss Brown, a freshman at Aledo High School, who fed and cared for her calf, named Bing after it was given her by her father, a stock raiser, received $100 for exhibiting the grand champion, $25 for first place in the heavy-weight Aberdeen Angus class, and will get one-half of the mony paid at an auction today for her entry. She said she would save the money for use for a college education.

Ninety prizes were given to winners of the six classes for the three breeds in the show: Aberdeen Angus, Hereford and Short Horn. Exhibitors and their parents were guests last night at a banquet given for them at the Statler Hotel.

Contestants were between the ages of 7 and 20 and were required by the rules to have cared for and fed their entries. All calfs will be sold at an auction today at the stockyards.

First three prize winners in each class were:

Lightweight Angus—Janet Witte, Collinsville; Ralph Haines, Maroa, Ill.; Wayne Bates, Carlinville, Ill.

PLEAS FOR TWO SENTENCED TO DEATH IN ILLINOIS

The Illinois State Pardon Board was asked yesterday to commute the sentence of Mrs. Marie Porter and to grant a reprieve to Angelo Ralph Giancola, St. Louisans, both of whom are under sentence to die next Friday in the electric chair at Chester for the murder of William Kappen, Mrs. Porter's brother, for his insurance. The board took both cases under advisement, and will submit recommendations to Gov. Henry Horner.

Counsel for Mrs. Porter, who is 38 years old and the mother of four children, told the board that the trial jury was prejudiced against Mrs. Porter because Angelo Ralph Giancola and his brother John, who is under sentence of 99 years in prison for the crime, had "attempted to place all the blame on her."

In rebuttal, State's Attorney Louis P. Zerweck of St. Clair County said the crime was "as cold-blooded, premeditated, and revolting as any ever committed in St. Clair County" and added: "What is Mrs. Porter's life, or anyone's life, compared with the security for all which depends on strict enforcement of the law?"

Angelo Ralph Giancola's counsel merely asked for a postponement of the execution date pending a review of the case by the State Supreme Court.

MISSOURI SUPREME COURT TO HEAR BODE OUSTER SUIT

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 10. — The Missouri Supreme Court assumed jurisidiction yesterday in the ouster suit filed by Attorney-General McKittrick against Irwin T. Bode, new State Conservation Director, and granted Bode 30 days to file an answer.

The friendly suit, alleging Bode was ineligible under the constitutional provision requiring one year of residence for State officials and employes, was filed to test the Conservation Commission's authority in naming a director.

Bode, former head of the Iowa Fish and Game Department, came here Nov. 15 after two years work in the Federal Department of Agriculture in Washington. He will perform the duties of the position until the final ruling by the Supreme Court.

WHAT OUR CUSTOMERS SAY:

A CHAUFFEUR WITH ILLMO TRUCKING SERVICE CO. WRITES:

Two years ago I bought a '29 reconditioned used car from your Mr. S. P. Mothershead, and a year ago traded it on a reconditioned '32 used car, also from your company. Both cars were absolutely satisfactory. I had no expense for upkeep. On my '32 Olds I ran 98 miles on 4 gallons of gasoline of the cheapest grade. I changed oil every 800 miles, never adding any. My wife handles the car with ease. On the coldest mornings it starts right out without any trouble at all. This car is still in perfect condition, top speed 88 miles. After I bought the car your used car department thoroughly checked it and everything was satisfactory.

(Signed) WM. L. SCOTT, 710 Park Ave.

NEWSPAPER GUILD MEMBERS TO DROP MEDICAL SERVICE

Those in Co-operative Venture to Pay Off Doctors and Hospitals With Dues and Assessment.

Members of the St. Louis Newspaper Guild's co-operative medical service, which has assets of $290 to meet debts totaling $1160, have voted to end the service and pay the debts. Of 34 members voting, four expressed a desire to continue the venture. Seventeen members did not participate in the mail ballot.

The plan of liquidation, which was approved, calls for payment to the organization of $190 in outstanding dues and an assessment of 45 per cent of the amounts received by the members in benefits in excess of their contributions to the service in dues. Such payments would equal the amount of the debts, which are owed to physicians and hospitals.

The service began in April, 1936, with 70 members paying from $3 to $5 a month depending upon their incomes and the size of their families. In return, the organization was to pay medical and hospital bills up to $250 a year for each family. The service was discontinued in August.

NO TRUE BILL VOTED AFTER KILLING OF MAN IN UNION ROW

No Charges Made Against Ameen Bodway Who Shot Leon Munson to Death.

A no-true bill was voted by the grand jury yesterday after an investigation of the death of Leon Munson, a union building laborer, who was shot by Ameen Bodway, tavern operator, in a row over unionism Nov. 17.

A Coroner's verdict of homicide was returned the following day against Bodway, who was cut on the head, neck and foot in the fight. Policemen testified at the hearing that the shooting occurred during the lunch hour at the southwest corner of Grattan street and Park avenue, across the intersection from Bodway's tavern.

Bodway told the police that seven or eight men stood on the sidewalk and shouted to customers not to patronize his place because he had hired non-union men on a concrete job. The tavern owner said he went across the street to remonstrate with the men. Munson attacked him with a knife, he said, while another man drew a pistol. He said he wrenched the weapon from the man, pointed it toward the group "and it went off."

Munson, 32 years old, a member of the A. F. of L. Hodcarriers' Union, resided at 2336A Warren street. He was employed as a foreman on the new city psychopathic hospital.

CLAIM AGAINST D. J. LYONS FOR 1929 TAXES DISMISSED

Appeal Board Says St. Louisan Apparently Acted in Good Faith in Making Return.

The Government claim against D. J. Lyons, 5273 Westminster place, for 1929 income taxes and penalties totaling $3408, has been dismissed by the Board of Tax Appeals, Lyons' attorney was informed yesterday.

The dismissal was indicated in October, when a member of the board, C. P. Smith, who held a hearing here on the claim, announced his decision to make a recomemndation to that effect. The board's order said Lyons had apparently acted in good faith in making his return and did not intend to evade the tax.

Only a showing of fraud in Lyons' return could have sustained the claim, as it was barred otherwise by the six-year statute of limitations. Smith observed at the conclusion of the hearing that Lyons, sales representative for a paper company, was incompetently advised by friends and business associates concerning the propriety of intra-family stock sales and purchases to establish losses for tax purposes.

WHEAT FUTURES FAIL TO HOLD PRICE ADVANCES

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Failure to hold price advances marked wheat trading today. Sharply increased supplies of new crop Australian wheat acted as an incentive to sellers. The total Australian stock in sight now is 42,496,000 bushels — more than double the amount at this time last year.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were ½-⅞ under yesterday's finish, Dec. 95⅝-¾, May 92⅝-¾, corn unchanged to ⅜ higher, Dec. 55⅞, May 58⅝-¾, and oats ⅛ off.

Opening prices at Chicago were: Wheat—Dec., 95½@⅝c; May, 93@93¼c; July, 87@87¼c. Corn—Dec., 55⅞@56c; May, 58½@¾c; July, 59¼c. Oats—Dec., 31½c; May, 30⅝c; July, 29c. Soy Beans—Dec., 93c; May, 94c. Rye—Dec., 68½c; May, 70c; July, 65¾c.

Open interest in grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade: Wheat—Wed., 102,156,000 bu; Tues., 101,967,000; week ago, 101,400,000. Corn—Wed., 45,883,000 bu.; Tues., 45,711,000; week ago, 44,801,000.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 27,528,000 bu, corn 8,722,000. Open interest in wheat was 101,150,000 bu, and in corn 44,167,000.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Dec. 10—May wheat was offered at 93c at the close. This was 1c under yesterday's closing offer.

Winnipeg wheat opened unchanged to ¼c higher and early was ¼@⅞c lower. The close was net unchanged to ¾c lower.

Liverpool came ⅝d lower in first cable and ⅝@1d off later. The close was ⅞@1⅛d lower.

Argentine wheat and corn were steady at opening. At noon wheat was ½@1⅛c down and corn unchanged to ⅛c off.

ST. LOUIS CASH GRAIN.

In the cash grain market today wheat was ½@1c lower. Corn unchanged to ½c higher. Oats ½c higher. Sales made on the floor of the exchange weer as follows:

Corn—No. 2 yellow, 59¼@½c; No. 3 do, 57¾@59c; No. 5 do, 56½c; No. 3 white, 58¼c; No. 4 do, 57c; No. 3 mixed, 58¼@59c.

Oats—No. 3 mixed, 33c.

Local wheat receipts which were 19,500 bu., compared with 33,500 a week ago and 25,500 a year ago, included 12 cars local and one through. Corn receipts which were 201,000 bu., compared with 126,000 a week ago and 124,500 a year ago included 130 cars local and four through. Oats receipts which were 10,000 bu., compared with 16,000 a week ago and 18,000 a year ago, included five cars local.

CANADIAN FIELD CROP VALUES

OTTAWA, Dec. 10.—(Canadian Press)—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimates the gross value of Canadian field crops in 1937 at $556,382,000, a decrease of $65,098,400 from the value of the 1936 harvest.

Lower wheat production and reduced prices for potatoes are held mainly responsible for the lower 1937 figure. This year's wheat crop was 47,000,000 bushels less than in 1936 and the gross value of wheat production was estimated at $179,810,000, a decrease of 16 per cent from the estimated value of the 1936 crop.

STOCKS DIP AND RALLY, THEN CLOSE ON DECLINE

Brisk Upturn in Rails Heartens List But Come-back Is Brief and There Is Another Drop in Final Hour.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. — Stocks dipped and rallied at frequent intervals in today's market and most leaders ended on a declining trend.

A brisk upturn in the rails around noon heartened the list appreciably and early losses running to three points were reduced or canceled. The come-back was brief and another slip in the final hour put a wide assortment of recent favorites down as much as two or more.

Carriers whirled upward following remarks of President Roosevelt emphasizing the importance of a quick solution of the railways' financial problems. Help was also given by a more than seasonal increase in last week's freight loadings.

The transportation department subsequently gave ground when the Interstate Commerce Commission overruled the petition of the roads for an immediate 15 per cent boost in shipping charges. Hearing on the plea for a permanent hoist in rates, however, continued. Dealings were comparatively quiet. Transfers approximated 1,000,000 shares.

Some of the Changes.

About unchanged to off a shade were Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake & Ohio, Pullman, Union Pacific and Atlantic Coast Line.

Inclined to slide more preciptously were American Can, Allied Chemical, Texas Corporation, Philip Morris, Eastman Kodak, Owens-Illinois, Allis-Chalmers, Lone Star Cement, Chrysler, Inland Steel, Sloss-Sheffield, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, American Smelting and United States Smelting.

Holding to a restricted range were General Motors, United States Steel, Woolworth, American Telephone, Anaconda and Douglas Aircraft.

Among late losers were Coca-Cola, Schenley, Standard Oil of Cal., National Distilllers and American Locomotive.

Rail bonds, rather buoyant at one time, skidded with stocks at the finish. Commodities were uneven. Wheat at Chicago was off ⅛ to ⅞ of a cent a bushel and corn was unchanged to up ⅜.

Cotton was down 15 cents a bale to up 10 cents.

At mid-afternoon sterling was up ¼ of a cent at $5 and the French franc was .00¼ of a cent improved at 3.40 cents.

Before the Traders.

Steels were confronted with the report of the U. S. Steel Corporation showing November shipments of finished products were off sharply from October, but for the 11 months a substantial gain was recorded over 1936. The decrease from October was also considerably less than the drop from September.

Building material issues were not particularly disturbed as estimates placed this week's engineering awards 24 per cent under the previous week and 46 per cent below the corresponding period last year.

Market analysts noted a ray of hope in the week-end survey of Dun & Bradstreet. The review found retail sales bolstered by demand for winter goods and the rush to complete Christmas shopping. In addition to a better grade of public buying, it was pointed out advance commitments to wholesalers increased as inventories shrank and reorders for holiday items were heavier.

Day's 15 Most Active Stocks.

Sales, closing price and net change of the fifteen most active stocks:

N. Y. Central 39100, 19½, unchanged; U. S. Steel, 32600, 56⅞, down ⅛; Chrysler, 31500, 56⅝, down 1; Anaconda, 30500, 32⅛, down ¼; Beth. U. S. STEEL CORP. SHIPMENTS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Shipments of finished steel products by subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation in November decreased 205,069 tons to 587,241 tons from 792,310 in October, the corporation announced today. In the first 11 months this year shipments were 12,336,397 tons, an increase of 2,578,630 tons over the like period last year.

The decrease in shipments as compared with September, corporation officials said, indicating a slackening in the rate of decline.

Odd Lot Transactions Thursday.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—The Securities Commission reported today these transactions by customers with odd lot dealers or specialists on the New York Exchange for Dec. 9: 6974 purchases involving 181,827 shares; 5038 sales involving 142,959 shares.

STOCK EXCHANGE AND CURB MEMBER AND LOT TRADING

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—New York Stock Exchange members in the week ended Nov. 13 traded 3,289,067 shares for their own accounts, or 22.21 per cent of total transactions, the Securities and Exchange Commission announced today. In the preceding week member trading was 21.54 per cent of all dealings.

Of member round-lot dealings 7.65 per cent was initiated on the floor of the exchange; 3:95 per cent was initiated off the floor and 10.61 per cent were specialists' transactions.

Total round-lot volume for the week ended Nov. 13 was 7,401,690 shares, or 9.8 per cent larger than reported on the New York Stock Exchange ticker.

On the New York Curb Exchange round-lot volume of member dealings totaled 549,110 shares, or 20.87 per cent of total transactions. Curb transactions of 1,315,290 shares exceeded ticker volume by 10.2 per cent.

In computing percentages total members' transactions are compared with twice total exchange volume because the total includes both purchases and sales while aggregate exchange volume includes only sales. The term members includes all exchange members, their firms and partners.

68 NEW GREYHOUND BUSSES

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Three Greyhound bus lines, the Interstate Commerce Commission disclosed today, soon will buy new equipment. The Commission authorized the carriers to issue a total of $816,000 five year serial equipment trust notes. Financing wil lbe handled by the National City Bank of New York.

The Ohio Greyhound Lines, Inc., which intends to buy five new $14,000 buses, obtained auhtorization to issue $60,000 of the notes. The Central Greyhound Lines, Inc., of New York, was granted authority to issue $396,000 of notes for the purchase of 33 of the buses. Southwestern Greyhound Lines, Inc., gained permission to sell $360,000 of notes to finance the purchase of 30 new buses.

WEEK'S AUTOMOBILE OUTPUT

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Dec. 10.—Ward's Automotive Reports said today that automobile output this week "sagged an almost imperceptible degree in spite of large-scale advances at the Ford Motor Co."

Ward's estimated production this week at 85,763 units, compared with 86,173 last week and 119,660 a year ago. The service predicted that December production would approximate 285,000 units, adding that many plants would shut down for the week between Christmas and New Year. It said that probably only Ford would have large volume output during the next several weeks.

The Ford Motor Co. said today its production in the main plant here and in assembly branches throughout the United States had passed 4000 units a day. Assembly of 1938 models did not get under way until mid-November.

BANK LENDABLE CASH DOWN 70 MILLIONS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. — The Federal Reserve Board stayed out of the Government's securities market again last week and permitted the excess reserves, or lendable cash, of banks to decline $70,000,000.

The board reports that excess reserves dropped to $1,050,000,000 but Board sources indicated this figure still provided a comfortable margin out of which banks could meet any credit demands from business.

About five weeks ago, the Board started buying Government securities to free the money invested in the securities for business lending in the pre-Christmas season, when depositors take considerable money out of the banks for shopping. After buying $38,000,000 worth of securities in three weeks, however, the buying stopped two weeks ago.

With the removal of the security-buying prop to the bank reserves, they declined in response to a seasonal increase of $23,000,000 in money in circulation and a $65,000,000 increase in Treasury deposits with Federal Reserve banks.

The board's statement said: "During the week ended Dec. 8 member bank reserve balances decreased $70,000,000. Reductions in member bank reserves arose from increases of $23,000,000 in money in circulation, $65,000,000 in Treasury deposits with Federal Reserve bnaks and $5,000,000 in Treasury cash other than inactive gold, offset in part by increases of $9,000,000 in Reserve bank credit and $2,000,000 in Treasury currency and a decrease of $12,000,000 in non-member deposits and other Federal Reserve accounts. Excess reserves of member banks on Dec. 8 were estimated to be approximately $1,050,000,000, a decrease of $70,000,000 for the week. Inactive gold included in the gold stock and Treasury cash amounted to $1,233,000,000 on Dec. 8, a decrease of $10,000,000 for the week."

Changes in Balances.

Changes in member bank reserve balances and related items during the week and the year ended Dec. 8, 1937, were reported as follows:

RESERVE BANK OF NEW YORK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Federal Reserve System holdings of U. S. Government bonds remained unchanged last week, after recent successive increases, the condition statement of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, showed. For the first three weeks of November the Reserve Board had made open market purchases of more than $30,000,000 of U. S. Governments pursuant to its credit easing program. Suspension of operations in the last two weeks was seen in banking circles as natural procedure in view of preparations for the Treasury December financing consummated on Monday with the offering of $450,000,000 new bonds and notes.

Discounted bills increased to $4,098,000 from $3,577,000 in the preceding week. Member Bank reserve account dropped to $2,938,379,000 from $3,018,691,000.

The condensed statement follows: Gold certificate on hand and due from U. S. Treasury: 3,504,112,000 total reserves: 3,583,649,000.

Bills discounted: Secured by U. S. obligations: 3,650,000. Total bills discounted: 4,098,000.

Bills bought in open market: 1,004,000; industrial advances: 4,599,000; total U. S. Government securities: 739,704,000; total bills and securities: 749,405,000; uncollected items: 135,667,000. F. R. notes in actual circulation: 948,653,000.

Deposits: Member bank-reserve account: 2,938,379,000. Total deposits: 3,300,971,000. Ratio of total reserves to deposit and Federal Reserve note liabilities combined: 84.3 per cent.

ST. LOUIS RESERVE BANK

Reserve account deposits of member banks increased $6,658,000 in the week of Dec. 8, the Feedral Reserve Bank of St. Louis reports. Federal Reserve notes in actual circulation increased $253,000. A shade higher were American Cyanamid B at 23⅞ and Northern States Power A, 13¾.

EUROPEAN CURRENCIES MOVE AGAINST DOLLAR

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Led by the British pound, most European currencies moved narrowly ahead against the dollar in listless foreign exchange dealings today.

In New York, sterling advanced ¼ of a cent to $5, the Swiss franc gained .00½ of a cent to 23.13 cents and the Holland guilder remained at 55.62 cents. The French franc and Belga each added .00¼ of a cent at 3.40 cents and 17.00 cents, respectively.

In London the dollar sagged 7-16 of a cent to finish at 5.00 3-6 to the pound, while the American unit in Paris ended at the equivalent to 3.399 cents to the franc, compared with the overnight New York rate of 3.398 cents to the franc.

COTTON FUTURES STEADY, 3 LOWER TO 2 HIGHER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—A little more realizing and Southern selling was noted in cotton futures today but the offerings were absorbed rather easily. Trading was quiet on the recovery of March from 8.06 to 8.11 and in midafternoon was selling at 8.08. Prices at that time were 2 to 4 points net lower.

Cotton futures opened steady, 1 to 4 lower under near month liquidation and hedge selling which offset trade and foreign buying. Dec., 8.05c; Jan., 8.04c; March, 8.08c; May, 8.13c; July, 8.16c; Oct., 8.22c.

Reports of increased textile sales were accompanied by a little more active trade price-fixing. Bombay and Liverpool bought forward deliveries but there was sufficient selling to supply the demand. March sold off from 8.11c to 8.08c, leaving quotations 2 to 5 points net lower.

After an early flurry of selling, the market responded to moderate trade, Bombay and local buying, the latter stimulated by the upturn in the stock market. Business remained quiet and rallies were partial.

March recovered from 8.06 to 8.11 and at midday was selling at 8.09, when prices ranged from 1 to 4 points net lower.

COLLAPSE IN WASTE PAPER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Waste paper dealers formerly willing to pay $4 to $7 a ton for daily accumulations in the business skyscrapers, now are carting old paper away free and telling building operators they are lucky not to have to pay for its removal. Collapse of the market, dealers say, followed a slash in the paper mill buying price from around $15 or $16 a ton early this year to $2 a ton. Principal consumers are paper board, carton and corrugated paper manufacturers.

TURPENTINE, FLAX, LINSEED OIL

Finished cottons were more active. Rayon yarns were slow. Silk was 2 cents ta pound lower. Burlap was quiet and steady.

Week's Review of Business

By Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Retail trade, quickening as shoppers stormed stores to buy Christmas gifts and winter goods, jumped 3 to 6 per cent this week, compared with last week, and ran 4 to 15 per cent above last year for the country as a whole, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

"Driving force of freezing temperatures made consumers cover so many of their delayed requirements that unexpected inroads were made on inventories of all types of winter merchandise," said the credit agency. "Many of the special promotions offering underwear, blankets, sweaters, house furnishings, and apparel at sharp price reductions were withdrawn, and the goods returned to regular stock. Buying of toys and Christmas gifts gathered momentum rapidly."

Retail sales in the East were 2 to 8 per cent above a year ago, in the Middle West up 4 to 12 per cent, South 5 to 12 per cent, Southwest 7 to 15 per cent, and Pacific Coast 3 to 7 per cent. Sales in the New England States ran 6 per cent under last year.

Lack of buying in textile divisions held down wholesale trade, but volume ran 3 to 8 per cent above last year, the agency said. Orders for early spring merchandise were "more numerous" in most of the principal wholesale markets, it added.

ST. LOUIS—Cold weather needs and Christmas gifts pushed retail sales over previous weeks; total short of last year's by 2 to 4 per cent. Wholesale volume less than in 1936 week, despite good sales of country stores and mail-order houses. Increased demand for used cars; fair sales of new automobiles. Manufacturing schedules under 1936 comparative. Relief rolls continued to rise. Lead shipments up; zinc shipments down.

KANSAS CITY—Slow start of holiday shopping season and several special promotions advanced retail sales enough to exceed last year's by 2 to 4 per cent. Buying at wholesale still restricted, but orders were about 3 per cent larger than for 1936 period. Results of automobile show termed as fair. More men being taken on at automobile assembly plant, which was closed early in September.

LOUISVILLE—General retail sales about 10 per cent under total for corresponding 1936 week. Department store sales off 10 per cent, men's furnishings 7, and furniture as much as 35 per cent. Many of the leading factories working only four days a week. Orders for farm implements about equaled last year's but shipments were 25 to 30 per cent less. Lumber volume down 50 to 75 per cent.

PITTSBURGH—Business index down for tenth consecutive week. Retail trade turned brisker, helped by release of larger Christmas savings funds than year ago; sales approximately 4 per cent above comparable 1936 period. Wholesale volume still below last year's. November building permits at year's high, due to several large projects. Steel mills to start week at 26 per cent of capacity, unchanged from preceding Monday's rate.

TRADE AT A GLANCE

Tabloid review of business reported by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., in the four divisions of wholesale and jobbing, retail trade, manufacturing and industry, and collections. This week compared with the corresponding period last year. Active (A) fair (F) means equal to; good (G); above; quiet (Q) slow (S) below last year.

	Whol.	Ret.	Mfg.	Col.
St. Louis	Q	Q	S	F
Baltimore	Q	G	S	F
Chicago	F	G	S	F

Detroit	Q	Q	S	S
Kansas City	G	G	A	F
Louisville	Q	Q	S	S
Pittsburgh	Q	G	S	F
Youngstown	Q	Q	S	S

BALTIMORE—Demand stimulated by colder weather kept general retail distribution somewhat above last year's. Wholesale volume continued below the 1936 comparative. Industrial operations failed to equal the 1936 rate. Building off sharply in last fw weeks; 10-month permit total ahead of year ago. October factory employment index for Maryland up 5 per cent from 1936, and payroll level 17 per cent.

CHICAGO—Purchase of more low-priced Christmas gifts pushed retail sales in units 5 to 10 per cent ahead of year ago; dollar valume still under high leval of 1936. Improvement in wholesale volume uneven; orders from country merchants 6 to 8 per cent ahead of last year's. Shortening hours and spreading work reduced industrial lay-off to minimum. Steel rate down 5.9 points to 20.7 per cent of capacity; a year ago it was at 77 per cent.

CLEVELAND—Reopening of clothing factories and additions to employed forces at a few plants only encouraging developments of week. Even the paint industry has been forced to curtail, sales falling under last year's. Retail sales widened by holiday shopping, but were 3 to 5 per cent short of 1936 total. November building permits at year's low; down 21.7 per cent from 1936 month. Coal loadings into vessels down from previous week and year.

DETROIT—Normal seasonal upturn in retail trade lacking. Sales about even with preceding week's, but off nearly 15 per cent from 1936 total; Christmas buying still light. Applications for relief increased by factory lay-offs. Automobile assemblies rose to 86,173 units from 58,955 for previous three days; 15.2 per cent under the 1936 total of 101,660. Heavy dealer stocks may force further curtailment.

YOUNGSTOWN—Falling 10 points from previous Monday's rate, steel mills opened week at 26 per cent of capacity. Operations being held even with new orders; only 26 of the 83 open-hearth furnaces will be active. Retail sales somewhat larger than for week preceding, but were 12 to 15 per cent below the 1936 total. Restricted credit has cut volume of stores selling on the deferred-payment plan.

TIN OUTPUT QUOTAS CUT TO 70 PER CENT

Production Curtailment at London for First Three Months of 1938.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The International Tin Committee slashed tin production quotas for the first three months of 1938 today to 70 per cent of standard tonnages from 110. The committee divided production from the old quotas between low and high producers.

Bolivia, Belgian Congo and French Indo-China, minor producers, surrendered their arrears under the 1937 output rates to Netherlands East Indies, Malaya and Nigeria, large producers.

Next meeting will be held at the Hague Feb. 18, 1938.

Production under the 70 per cent quota would be about 140,000 tons annually, prorated among all producers, plus about 11,500 tons of unfilled quotas.

Shortly before the committee made the announcement, the price of tin rose £2 17 shillings 6 pence (about $14.37 a ton to £198 5 shillings (about $991.25).

The production curtailment move of the tin industry follows a recent reduction in rubber export quotas. Efforts to cut output of metals and other basic materials follow the sweeping fall in commodity prices since last spring and industrial recession in the United States, biggest consumer of tin and rubber.

Lead was steady at $4.85 per 100 pounds in St. Louis today. Zinc was steady at $5 per 100 pounds.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Copper steady; electrolytic, spot and futures, $10.25@11; export, $10.15. Tin steady; spot and futures, $44.75, nominal. Lead steady; spot, New York, $5@5.05; East St. Louis, $4.85. Zinc steady; East St. Louis, spot and futures, $5. Iron, aluminum, antimony, quicksilver, platinum and wolframite unchanged.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—Closing: Copper—Standard, spot £40 3s 9d; future, £40 7s 6d; electrolytic—spot, bid £44, asked £45. Tin—Spot, £198; future, £197. Bids: Lead—Spot, £16 5s; futures, £16 7s 6d. Zinc—Spot, £15 1s 3d; future, £15 6s 3d.

A. F. L. ISSUE DELAYS EAGLE-PICHER HEARING

Examiner Allows Inquiry Into Blue Card Union Affairs After It Joined Federation.

By the Associated Press.

JOPLIN, Mo., Dec. 10.—A labor board hearing here on charges of unfair labor practices against Eagle-Picher mining and smelting interests was recessed today until Monday morning. This was done to give the Eagle-Picher counsel time to prepare for defense against a new issue, that mining interests dominated the blue card union after its affiliation last spring with the American Federation of Labor.

Observers from the A. F. of L. at the hearing indicated that they would take steps, meanwhile, to have their organization represented by counsel when the hearing resumes.

Examiner William Ringer adjourned the hearing after Eagle-Picher attorneys formally filed an affidavit of surprise, claiming they had not been given sufficient notice that the scope of the inquiry was to include the identity of the original blue card union after A. F. of L. affiliation.

Harry W. Blair, one of the Eagle-Picher attorneys, testified in support of the affidavit that as late as Nov. 29 in Washington he and Charlton Ogburn, chief counsel for the A. F. of L., had been assured by Charles Fahey, general counsel for the labor board, that the proceedings here did not involve the A. F. of L.

Before the hearing adjourned, Glenn Hickman, blue card union secretary, was questioned by William J. Avrutis, labor board attorney, concerning reported disappearance yesterday of certain important blue card records desired as evidence. Hickman said he had not found the missing documents, which disappeared with his motor car yesterday, but that he had found duplicates of the union's minutes.

At Avrutis' request, the newly produced records were impounded with the official reporter to preclude possibility of their disappearance.

EAST SIDE UNION OFFICER CLUBBED, ROBBED OF $300

A. J. Fahrenkrog Says Assailant Followed Him Into Office on Arrival This Morning.

A. J. Fahrenkrog, business agent of the East St. Louis local of the Electrical Workers' Union, was clubbed and robbed of $300 this morning by a man who followed him into the union office on the second floor of a building at 245 Collinsville avenue.

The robber entered silently behind him when Fahrenkrog opened the office about 7:30 o'clock, the union officer reported. After striking him with some heavy weapon, the man seized him by the hair, and bumped his head on the floor, shouting, apparently to a confederate outside: "Stay out there." The robber then took the money, union receipts, from a desk drawer and fled.

LOS ANGELES OFFICERS START CLEANUP OF BUNCO SWINDLERS

18 Victims Complain of Being Fleeced in Horse-Race Betting Schemes by Confidence Men.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—District Attorney Buron Fitts had a squad at work today to break up bunco game swindlers after Harry Millachip, London meat packer, complained he had been defrauded of $30,000 in a horse-race betting scheme, and three men were arrested.

Since then, Fitts said, 18 men and women, most of them elderly, have disclosed they were fleeced of large sums by confidence men.

"Los Angeles apparently has been the mecca for bunco artists," the District Attorney said, "since the recent drive against them in New York, Florida and other Eastern habitats."

KING'S CHRISTMAS BROADCAST

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 10.—King George VI has decided to follow his father's custom and broadcast a message to the Empire on Christmas afternoon.

King George V made four Christmas broadcasts, the last in 1935, less than a month before his death. The abdication of King Edward VIII occurred just before Christmas last year and no message was delivered by the new King, succeeding Edward, now Duke of Windsor. This year's message probably will be at 9 a. m. (St. Louis time).

NEW NAME FOR COUNTY ROAD

The name of the three-mile section of Laclede Station road extending south from Webster Groves to Gravois road was changed yesterday to Kenrick road by the St. Louis County Court, on petition of residents along the highway.

Among the petitioners was the Rev. John J. Martin, C. M., treasurer of Kenrick Seminary. He told the Court that visitors to the seminary and other places on the road were confused because the system of street numbers duplicated that on other sections of the road in Maplewood and Richmond Heights.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—By BOB BURNS

SOME of these old sayings are pretty one-sided. For instance—now you take the one that says "Competition is the life of trade." This might be true as long as the competition is fair—but . . . Well, jest look what happened to my Uncle Sanky. He went up to a little town to open a newspaper and he was back home in less than a month—a failure. I asked him what the trouble was and he says, "Well, I thought I had picked a place where I'd have no competition." And I says, "Well, Uncle Sanky, there ain't no other newspaper in that town." And he says, "Yes, I knew there wasn't any other newspaper there, but I didn't know the dog-gone town had seven sewin' circles!"

Little Things Of Life

By Dale Carnegie

I WONDER how many of us will be satisfied with what we see as we look back across the years. A life of satisfaction must be a full life. It must be a life packed with interest. We need money, yes. We must have some of it. But money won't guarantee satisfaction. It will only provide us with the necessary accessories for making our paths smoother. Fame is no guarantee of satisfaction. No, the most satisfying things consist of the so-called "little things" that round out our lives.

Charles Darwin, author of one of the greatest books ever written, said that his life had been too lopsided and he wished he could live it over again. And if he could, he said, he would make it a practice to read every day some good poetry and every evening to listen to some good music.

Theodore Roosevelt lived a well rounded life. Being a lover of nature, he got as much pleasure out of a walk in the woods as most people would get out of entertainment costing anywhere from one to one hundred dollars.

Andrew Carnegie, who made one of the largest fortunes the world has ever known a man to make, said he would not give up his capacity for enjoying good books for all the money he had ever made.

Most of America's famous men and women have had to sink or swim, work or starve, but there are some who were born with gold spoons in their mouths. Let's give a hand to those who had the tenacity to stick when it wasn't absolutely necessary. After all, it takes a great deal of something to make a man work on and on to success when he could lean back and take life easy.

One of these men is the radio favorite, Frank Crumit. Things have always been pretty easy for Frank. He never went hungry or had to suffer to get an education; instead, he always had pocket money. Although his father was a banker, he did not try to direct Frank's life in that direction, but encouraged him in his chosen profession. Frank starred in sports at school, he was a popular member of a Glee Club and followed this with success in musical comedy. He is tall, well set up and good looking. With all his advantages, Frank might easily have become a dilettante.

When Frank A. Munsey came to New York from Maine, all the worldly possessions he had were a suitcase full of manuscripts he had bought for the purpose of starting a magazine, and $40 in cash.

Four years after his arrival in New York a friend who had worked in the same telegraph office in Portland with him called to see him.

"How are you getting along, Frank?" the friend asked.

"I'm getting along fine," enthused Munsey. "I arrived here with $40 and now I'm in debt $5000."

Brain Twizzlers

By Prof. J. D. Flint

I GOT A PROPOSITION FOR YU-
34

THE old professor offers one today that may not sound practical to you if you own a store, but it provides a neat little workout for your mental apparatus.

A man walked into a store and told the proprietor how much money he had in his pocket and said: "If you will give me as much money as I have with me, I will spend $10 in this store." The proprietor, interested in this strange procedure, agreed and the transaction was carried out. The man then left and went through the same process in a second store, then again in a third store. After completing the transaction in the third store, he had no money left. How much money did he start with? Answer on Page 4, Column 5.

A Queer Lawsuit Caused by a Dog

By Albert Payson Terhune

A QUEER lawsuit was pending in England a year or two ago. I never was able to find how the suit came out. And it doesn't seem to matter. The point of the story is that the same kind of thing, in a general way, has happened repeatedly in this country and with results that ranged from fines all the way up to lifelong enmities. It will continue to do so until owners gain better control of their dogs. Here is the story:

One morning, a milk cart, drawn by a nervous horse, jogged past a suburban cottage not far from London. Out into the road dashed a big dog. He barked right harrowingly around the horse's heels before his owner could come out of the cottage and call him back. The horse ran away before the driver could stop him. The cart pitched drunkenly. By the time the scared horse had been brought down to a walk again, several milk cans had toppled into the road and were spilled and spoiled. The dog's owner offered to pay for the spilt milk. The driver, in fury, declared that such an offer was an admission of responsibility for the mishap; and that the owner must pay also for the permanent damage done to the horse's nerves. He assessed the damage at $220.

I wish I knew whether or not he won his case.

Should he have won it or not, readers?

ON BROADWAY

By Walter Winchell

The New York Scene.

The First-Niters: Ed Wynn, absent from the footlights for half a dozen seasons (while making lunacy tests for Graham McNamee) recaptured his following the other night at the Winter Garden via his musical, "Hooray for What!" . . . The reviewers showered the star with compliments, which is always the way it has been with him over at this desk. . . . Roy Roberts, who was replaced in the troupe by Jack Whiting, enjoyed the rare privilege of being summoned at the last moment practically, to pinch hit for the ailing Whiting—and scored handsomely. . . . Roberts enacted the movies' pet back-stage theme—the understudy triumphant when his Big Moment Comes. . . . The real life twist, however, is due when Mr. Whiting takes back the job. . . . Ina Claire, another favorite of local premiere-attenders, also drew sugary response from the critics in "Barchester Towers." . . . This is a comedy caper of the 1850s, which is also the date of its wit, according to the Death Watch. . . . The Sam H. Harris office was indifferent to the bomb heaved at its "I'd Rather Be Right" show by the President's son, John, who was a bit peeved over its sallies. . . . The advance sale is into March, so John's added publicity can't help or hinder it.

The Mags: The New Yorker's London staff man reports that the Runyon tales of the Broadway Jungle have given England its severest jolt since the king turned in his gold hat. In brief, Runyon's literature is currently London's new controversy. . . . There are laughs in Homer Croy's essay in Harper's telling how you sell a story to the movies—or rather, how you don't. . . . In Fortune's fascinating history of the Warner Brothers, mention is made of the fierce fight following their pioneering of the Talkies. . . . Now that it is all over, Harry Warner realizes, says Fortune, that it wasn't sound that his competitors were resisting. They were merely waiting for the Warners to go boom. . . . Frank Sullivan is gay in Stage. He says of Ed Wynn: "He is funnier than Hitler without being vulgar about it. He has more uniforms than Gen. Goering and wears them with more chic. He is a defter comedian than Mussolini, who gets all his effects by mugging and his prettier than the Emperor of Japan." . . . Personal Romances announced "This Is My Story" by Dorothy Gish, who doubtless is of the opinion that any title good enough for Mrs. Roosevelt is good enough for her.

The Magic Lanterns: Frank Nugent, the Times movie-poisoner, devoted his acreage to a blast at the winsomeness that has gripped Hollywood. Everybody but Karloff and Lorre, he implied, have the Chronic Cutes. . . . Incidentally, in her forthcoming picture, "Love and Hisses," Simone Simon slaved long and hard at dropping her familiar pout. She had read the wide criticism about it and urged Director Lanfield to be strict with her when she did it. . . . And he obliged. . . . He merely said: "Ah, ah, ah, Miss Simon! You are pouting!" . . . And so we all had to do it over, again. . . . Annabella, who clicked via "Wings of Morning" does it again at the Roxy in "Dinner at the Ritz." Mr. Zanuck has her primed for Big Things. . . . The only other newcomer of the week was "Blossoms on Broadway" at the Criterion, which has only the coaching of Richard Wallace. . . . "Non-Stop New York" won approval at the Globe. It is a London importation. . . . Frank Albertson left the cast of "Brother Rat" because he was getting a little bored with playing a cadet. He deserted to Hollywood, and the trailers for Metro's "Navy Blue and Gold" reveal Albertson attired in the uniform of a Midshipman!

The Wireless: "Gang Busters" hits a high average on its weekly edition of Cops and Robbers fodder. . . . Last week's which dramatized the misdeeds of Dutch Anderson, was pretty good. . . . But why the thug tones for the Gerald Chapman character? . . . During his trial in Connecticut, which sent him to the gallows, Chapman's inflections were very Leslie Howard! . . . Never realized that there was so much drama in the linotype until the "Cavalcade of America" put it in play form. . . . Lou Holtz's presence in the Vallee showcase is further evidence that his nonsense is radio worthy. . . . The Cecil B. DeMille and Conrad Nagel menus both offer important cinema people as guest emoters. But the recalling of them all at the end of the program merely to say: "Thank you," is a bore. . . . The only one-hour program that manages to keep sustained interest appears to be the Edgar Bergen-Don Ameche show. The others seem to be exerting themselves most of the time padding out the continuity. . . . Some of the late-in-the-evening announcers are falling into the unfunny habit of introducing ditties with a pun or stale gag. . . . The other night, one of them got himself dialed out for calling "Vieni, Vieni" —the frankfurter song.

The Press: James Street, a local reporter, thought up the yarn which became "Nothing Sacred," the town's big cinema hit, but you'd never know it the way adapter Ben Hecht collared all the bravos. . . . The Sun has what appears to be a new style in journalism. It starts stories on its last page and jumps them back into the middle! . . . The Trib's editor was the only one to assign his bridge columnist, Florence Osborne, to cover the divorce story of the Ely Culbertsons.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

by WYNN

For Saturday, Dec. 11.

CELESTIAL vibrations favor your best, most decisive efforts. A good day for finding out if you have anything with which to help your planets. They certainly are doing their share now—the rest of it is up to us. Let's go.

Who Can Answer?

Suppose you were to decide you really wanted to know all you could learn about yourself, what would be your procedure? Do you think it would be a simple matter? Some folks imagine all you need is the desire and that a book or teacher can be found who will reveal all for a few coins. The first step is to unlearn that one. You're on your own. There are no authorities.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead, from this to next birthday, is emotional, with ideals forming consciously. Home folks, loved ones, provide possible new openings. Seek elders. Danger: Jan. 9-Feb. 16; May 8-July 3; Sept. 29-Nov. 20.

Sunday.

Four Heart Bid Despite a Lack Of Honor Cards

A Hand in Which South's Holdings Were Not as Horrible as They Seemed.

By Ely Culbertson

(Copyright, 1937.)

THE only question of the examination that produced more answers in disagreement with my decision than answers in support of it was No. 10. This was no surprise to me. The question was a tough one, included deliberately to test tactics. This question was:

You are vulnerable; opponents are not. You are South. West deals and the bidding goes as follows:

West	North	East	South

♠ 6 5 4 2 ♥ 9 7 6 5 3 ♦ K 4 3 ♣ 7

The answer was: You should bid four hearts, etc.

Some readers were scandalized at the thought that they should enter the bidding freely at the four level, vulnerable, with only one-half an honor trick in their hand. I can sympathize with their fear of such a bid, but this does not alter the fact that four hearts is the best action available to South. Competitive bidding is by far the most difficult to confine within the rigid bounds of rules and requirements. The situation as set forth in the bidding is just this:

North, vulnerable, against a non-vulnerable team, has doubled the highest ranking suit (spades) for a takeout. East, who certainly would prefer to "lay for" vulnerable opponents if his hand warranted, has tried to shut South out of the bidding. Now, for analysis of South's holding. Quite true, he has only one-half an honor trick. But, for all of that, to describe South's hand as horrible is to be grossly inaccurate. South can virtually see that his hand will fit perfectly with North's. First, North's double of spades virtually guaranteed strong heart support. If South passes to three spades West is quite likely to bid four spades. North may have a hand that will then impel him to enter the bidding at the five level; something like this:

♠ 8 ♥ A Q 10 4 ♦ Q 8 ♣ A Q J 8 7 5

A five club bid by North would be in the nature of a tragedy. South could not rescue with five hearts. Yet there would be a fair play for that contract, and four hearts would be almost a laydown. Thus the four heart bid by South is in the deepest sense an anticipatory bid.

TODAY'S HAND.

North, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

	♠ A K 5 ♥ A J 8 6 4 3 2 ♦ Q ♣ 9 8
♠ J 7 4 ♥ Q ♦ J 10 5 2 ♣ Q 6 4 3 2	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠ Q 9 ♥ K 10 9 5 ♦ A K 7 3 ♣ A J 10
	♠ 10 8 6 3 2 ♥ 7 ♦ 9 8 6 4 ♣ K 7 5

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 hearts	Double	Pass	Pass
3 spades	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

East's bidding should be studied a model of correct "trapping." Due to the respective vulnerability conditions, East's pass over one heart was, of course, sound strategy, but he did not make the mistake of "overstaying his market." Although North's three heart rebid was a semi-force, East with his great defensive strength, properly refused to gamble on the bidding going further. It was much too likely, he realized, that South would refuse to accept the urge and, thus, he (East) would be left high and dry against an undoubled contract. Of course, he did not like three spades nearly as much as he did three hearts, but, having already warned the enemy, he recognized there would be little chance of South's going to four spades, hence he "stepped on" the three bid.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I HAVE been trained as a singe and have had my voice passe upon by those capable of judging, including some of the best artists now before the public; I hav one terrible drawback—nervousness—which tenses all my muscle and shortens my breath so when am before an audience that I a not myself and my voice is—well not the same voice. How can overcome this? I am hoping for solution from you, something tha even professionals have not bee able to help me about. If you can please help me before I give u my blessed singing, which I love s much, entirely.

I LOVE SINGING.

I believe that in the early stage of learning the technique of singing, teachers sometime place to much stress upon the muscles o the throat and diaphragm. Possibly in their eagerness, or over-eagerness to see the pupil progress they stress the mechanism of singing too much. They do not realiz that too sudden and rigorous observance of the mechnical work sometimes makes the pupil unconscious of the beauty of tone. And they forget the art of the relaxe throat is just as important.

One learns that nervousness i the manifestation of fear, and it is not easy to overcome this whe the time comes to forget the mechanics of singing. The teacher says, easily, "Now forget about the organs of the throat and the breathing apparatus; you are trained to use these properly. You must think of the beauty of tone and the interpretation of your song!"

That sounds easy. But before an audience, in addition to this self-consciousness about method, one wonders all the time how the audience will react. The truth is, that hardly the one hundredth person in the audience knows about the mechanics, and the one who does, generally knows how to make allowances for the handicap of nervousness. Those who know nothing, but still are critical, are not worth thinking about. The thought that one can look such a person in the eye and not care a hoot what he thinks, will give courage—as it is not possible to please everyone.

There is the fear of the audience which may be eliminated by the comforting thought, too, that there is no case on record where an audience has bitten a singer. Remember that if you have a great gift, through which you can send out joy and blessings to a group of people, it is a real sin not to use it. Go before the audience with this feeling in your heart. Stop, relax and take several good, long, refreshing breaths while your accompanist is playing the introduction; look the audience in the face calmly, then deliver your message.

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I WISH to thank you for printing my letter, concerning six little homeless pups. To say that I was surprised at the response is putting it mildly. I certainly had no idea of the number of readers you have, not only in the city, but all over Missouri, Illinois and even from states much farther away. To date I have received 75 or 80 requests for these pups.

I was terribly sorry that so many persons had to be disappointed but they are no more disappointed than I, because I lost the little pup I took out of the litter from pneumonia. I couldn't answer all the letters and so am asking you to thank these people through your column. And will you please make an appeal to all dog owners to give away their newly-born pups instead of killing them. Will you please say that anyone having a litter of pups who will write to me, I will give them a list of names of those who are seeking pets. Thank you again, Mrs. Carr, and congratulations on your work.

M. D.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I FIND your column is of great interest to me. As you have helped me before, I am coming again as I am planning to give my husband a surprise birthday party and I am at a loss to decide how to send the invitations and how to use 40 candles or more.

Please also tell me what day, June 27, 1908 came.

JUST WAITING.

Probably your guests are close friends, so the simplest and best way is to telephone them. You can use four large candles or the exact number in very small candles on a cake made like the wedding cake, with many tiers. The custom (or superstition) is to have somewhere on the cake a single candle, standing alone which is—"one to grow on."

June 27, 1908 came on Saturday.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

Four Heart Bid Despite a Lack Of Honor Cards

A Hand in Which South's Holdings Were Not as Horrible as They Seemed.

By Ely Culbertson

(Copyright, 1937.)

THE only question of the examination that produced more answers in disagreement with my decision than answers in support of it was No. 10. This was no surprise to me. The question was a tough one, included deliberately to test tactics. This question was:

You are vulnerable; opponents are not. You are South. West deals and the bidding goes as follows:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	Double	3 spades	?

♠6542 ♥97653 ♦K43 ♣7

What call do you make?

The answer was: You should bid four hearts, etc.

Some readers were scandalized at the thought that they should enter the bidding freely at the four level, vulnerable, with only one-half an honor trick in their hand. I can sympathize with their fear of such a bid, but this does not alter the fact that four hearts is the best action available to South. Competitive bidding is by far the most difficult to confine within the rigid bounds of rules and requirements. The situation as set forth in the bidding is just this:

North, vulnerable, against a non-vulnerable team, has doubled the highest ranking suit (spades) for a takeout. East, who certainly would prefer to "lay for" vulnerable opponents if his hand warranted, has tried to shut South out of the bidding. Now, for analysis of South's holding. Quite true, he has only one-half an honor trick. But, for all of that, to describe South's hand as horrible is to be grossly inaccurate. South can virtually see that his hand will fit perfectly with North's. First, North's double of spades virtually guaranteed strong heart support. If South passes to three spades West is quite likely to bid four spades. North may have a hand that will then impel him to enter the bidding at the five level; something like this:

♠8 ♥AQ104 ♦Q8 ♣AQJ875

A five club bid by North would be in the nature of a tragedy. South could not rescue with five hearts. Yet there would be a fair play for that contract, and four hearts would be almost a laydown. Thus the four heart bid by South is in the deepest sense an anticipatory bid.

TODAY'S HAND.

North, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

♠AK5
♥AJ86432

SOUTH

♠Q9
♥K1095
♦AK73
♣AJ10

♠108632

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 hearts	Double	Pass	Pass
3 spades	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

East's bidding should be studied a model of correct "trapping." Due to the respective vulnerability conditions, East's pass over one heart was, of course, sound strategy, but he did not make the mistake of "overstaying his market." Although North's three heart rebid was a semi-force, East with his great defensive strength, properly refused to gamble on the bidding going further. It was much too likely, he realized, that South would refuse to accept the urge and, thus, he (East) would be left high and dry against an undoubled contract. Of course, he did not like three spades nearly as much as he did three hearts, but, having already warned the enemy, he recognized there would be little chance of South's going to four spades, hence he "stepped on" the three bid.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I HAVE been trained as a singer and have had my voice passed upon by those capable of judging, including some of the best artists now before the public; I have one terrible drawback—nervousness—which tenses all my muscles and shortens my breath so when I am before an audience that I am not myself and my voice is—well, not the same voice. How can I overcome this? I am hoping for a solution from you, something that even professionals have not been able to help me about. If you can, please help me before I give up my blessed singing, which I love so much, entirely.

I LOVE SINGING.

I believe that in the early stages of learning the technique of singing, teachers sometime place too much stress upon the muscles of the throat and diaphragm. Possibly in their eagerness, or over-eagerness to see the pupil progress, they stress the mechanism of singing too much. They do not realize that too sudden and rigorous observance of the mechnical work sometimes makes the pupil unconscious of the beauty of tone. And they forget the art of the relaxed throat is just as important.

One learns that nervousness is the manifestation of fear, and it is not easy to overcome this when the time comes to forget the mechanics of singing. The teacher says, easily, "Now forget about the organs of the throat and the breathing apparatus; you are trained to use these properly. You must think of the beauty of tone and the interpretation of your song!"

That sounds easy. But before an audience, in addition to this self-consciousness about method, one wonders all the time how the audience will react. The truth is, that hardly the one hundredth person in the audience knows about the mechanics, and the one who does, generally knows how to make allowances for the handicap of nervousness. Those who know nothing, but still are critical, are not worth thinking about. The thought that one can look such a person in the eye and not care a hoot what he thinks, will give courage—as it is not possible to please everyone.

There is the fear of the audience which may be eliminated by the comforting thought, too, that there is no case on record where an audience has bitten a singer. Remember that if you have a great gift, through which you can send out joy and blessings to a group of people, it is a real sin not to use it. Go before the audience with this feeling in your heart. Stop, relax and take several good, long, refreshing breaths while your accompanist is playing the introduction; look the audience in the face calmly, then deliver your message.

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I WISH to thank you for printing my letter, concerning six little homeless pups. To say that I was surprised at the response is putting it mildly. I certainly had no idea of the number of readers you have, not only in the city, but all over Missouri, Illinois and even from states much farther away. To date I have received 75 or 80 requests for these pups.

I was terribly sorry that so many persons had to be disappointed but they are no more disappointed than I, because I lost the little pup I took out of the litter from pneumonia. I couldn't answer all the letters and so am asking you to thank these people through your column. And will you please make an appeal to all dog owners to give away their newly-born pups instead of killing them. Will you please say that anyone having a litter of pups who will write to me, I will give them a list of names of those who are seeking pets. Thank you again, Mrs. Carr, and congratulations on your work.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I FIND your column is of great interest to me. As you have helped me before, I am coming again as I am planning to give my husband a surprise birthday party and I am at a loss to decide how to send the invitations and how to use 40 candles or more.

Please also tell me what day, June 27, 1908 came.

JUST WAITING.

Probably your guests are close friends, so the simplest and best way is to telephone them. You can use four large candles or the exact number in very small candles on a cake made like the wedding cake, with many tiers. The custom (or superstition) is to have somewhere on the cake a single candle, standing alone which is—"one to grow on."

June 27, 1908 came on Saturday.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WE wish to thank you again for your co-operation in the book drive we made and sponsored at Christmas a year ago to charitable institutions. The response to our letter, which appeared in your column was most gratifying and exceeded our expectations. The books were distributed to the following organizations: Webster School, Turner School for Crippled Children, City Hospital, Barnard Free Skin and Cancer Hospital and Koch Hospital.

We feel that we owe a great part of our success to you and to our many contributors. This year we will do similar work and would appreciate help.

Wishing you continual success,
Very sincerely yours,
THE GROUP.

"Be Yourself, Develop Your Own Pattern"

The Meaninglessness of Sacrifice That Stifles Individuality.

By Elsie Robinson

(Copyright, 1937.)

ALWAYS doing things for other people, aren't you? Giving up your own plans, sacrificing your own interests.

And what thanks do you get? Notta thank! To the contrary, the more you do, the more they expect, and the less they appreciate your efforts. Look how they treat you . . . whining, complaining, treating you like a worm.

Well, what do you expect? You asked for it . . . you started it. If you don't respect your own rights, why should anyone else? Yes, I know—this idea of being everybody's door mat has a lot of sentimental backing. But actually, it's vicious hokum. And if you ever expect to do anything with your life, you'll have to learn one law and stick by it. Meaning this—

You weren't created to serve somebody else, or follow somebody else's pattern, no matter how near and dear that somebody else may be . . . you were created to be yourself and develop your own pattern.

Does that sound ruthlessly selfish? 'Tisn't. It's the fundamental law of all life. Every living thing is born with a unique pattern and purpose. Pine trees are meant to be pines—turnips are meant to be turnips—hawks are meant to be hawks. And it's disastrous to meddle with that plan.

What happens when men try to cross-breed animals or plants which have different natures? Sterility happens. Life stops going on. The "mongrels" and "hybrids," which are the result of such experiments, cannot reproduce their kind. Nature has rebelled. Indeed, the very word "hybrid" comes from a Greek term which means "an insult or outrage on nature."

What's true for a tree or a turnip is even more tragically true for a man. Each man is as different from all other men as an oak is different from a pine, or a humming bird from a hawk. That difference—that individuality—is the the most important and sacred thing he has. It is why he is here. And the greatest crime he can commit is to let others destroy his pattern and demolish his purpose to suit their own ends.

You've seen it happen. Children who remained unmarried to suit selfish parents—wives meekly submitting to the abuse of worthless husbands . . . husbands permitting themselves to be degraded by worthless wives. You've heard endless eulogy of such "noble sacrifices." And there's no doubt that such martyrs are sincere . . . honestly believe they're acting righteously.

* * *

BUT did you ever see one of them who was happy . . . who felt that spiritual pride which should follow fine achievement? No you didn't—and you never will.

For such sacrifices aren't noble. They are a violation of Life's plan . . . a shameful sell-out. And Life takes revenge. The people who are guilty of such betrayal despise themselves and are despised. They're frustrated and secretly furious—for they've lost their pattern, become contemptible push-arounds.

Kindness, helpfulness, unselfish love and loyal service—these are our obvious duties as decent human beings. But they are all meaningless unless you are first loyal to yourself.

"But how far should we go in loyalty to ourselves? Where does self protection end and selfishness begin?"

That's hard to tell, and each of us must make his own ruling. But our personal reactions are a fairly reliable test. How is your service to others affecting you? Are you leading a fuller, happier life because of it? Do you feel larger spiritually, more mature mentally? Are you eager . . . proud . . . serene in your own depths? If you're doing right by yourself as well as he other fellow, that should be the result.

Or do you feel cheated, embittered, sorry for yourself? Then you can be pretty sure that you're short-changing Exhibit A—

And are getting the misery life always deals out to those who sell their birthright for tin haloes.

HOLLYWOOD'S LONE WOLF

BOGART AT EASE IN HIS HOLLYWOOD HOME.

Humphrey Bogart's Gift for Sarcasm Has Won Him Few Friends in Film Colony—Plans to Call His Memoirs "How to Make Enemies and Irritate People."

By H. H. NIEMEYER

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 10.

HUMPHREY BOGART talks too much and to the wrong people. If he were not a better-than-average actor he would have been left cooling his heels outside the studios long ago. He is sarcastic and a little bitter about life and love and his sudden success in the movies.

He has made few close friends in the film colony. He plays a great deal of golf at the Lakeside Club, shoots somewhere in the seventies and usually bends the elbow with his golfing friends at the nineteenth hole. He works quite regularly, too, being under long term contract to Warner Bros., and is frequently loaned out to Sam Goldwyn or other producers. His salary is a substantial one although not in what Hollywood calls the "higher brackets."

But Bogart is actually a lone wolf in Hollywood and his snarl is used as much as a defense mechanism in real life as it is in his characterizations in pictures. He can provoke more fellow players in a given length of time than any three average actors.

He started his "campaign of unpopularity" during the filming of his first picture, "Petrified Forest." Leslie Howard and Bette Davis were the stars of that production but as the killer, "Duke Mantee," Bogart had several of the best scenes and many of the most effective lines. He played them for all they were worth, too, and between times he offered free advice about acting to the other players, including Bette Davis.

This, in a nut shell, is the way NOT to be popular in Hollywood. Bogart was told as much but he wasn't silenced. He has continued to give actors the benefit of his knowledge of acting in each succeeding picture, and his personal popularity with players has diminished steadily while his reputation with the public has been growing better just as fast.

"I'm thinking of writing my memoirs early," he said recently, "while I still have the strength. I'll call them, 'How to make enemies and irritate people.' I've not done badly at that out here."

Bogart's unwillingness to conform to accepted standards of behavior and his apparent inability to make friends in the movie colony, may be traced back to his early training in the theater.

For a long time he was with the veteran William A. Brady as office boy, studio manager—when Brady was making pictures—director, office boy again, manager of a road company and finally as an actor. Those were hectic months and ones that might have slightly soured the sweetest disposition. One of his duties was to take care of Alice Brady's dogs. He welcomed the acting opportunity when it finally came and stuck to it, even after Alexander Woollcott wrote of his work in "Swifty": "the young man who embodied the juvenile was what might mercifully be described as inadequate."

Brady, Bogart recalls, fired him again and again, but always took him back on the payroll. It was after Bogart had made a false start in Hollywood in a Western that he came nearest really going hungry. He made a little less than $200 one year. All of this has no doubt had some effect on the young man, leaving him the slightly embittered, sardonic fellow that he seems to be.

His early life, which should have been easy enough had he behaved himself, seems also to have pointed toward failure almost from the first. He was born on Christmas day, in 1900. His father, a physician, brought Humphrey into the world. His mother, an artist, welcomed him and planned important things for him. He seems to have disappointed them a number of times before he found a niche where he could gain any sort of success.

Humphrey explains that he was lazy from birth. He hated school, just as now he professes to dislike Hollywood, and he was finally expelled from Andover for helping to duck a young professor. He was in the navy during the war and that branch of the service was so glad to be rid of him that for a time he drew two different Government checks each month as retirement pay, one for himself and one for some other chap, which the confused Navy Department sent to him.

* * *

HE took to the theater after a brief but unhappy experience as a stock and bond salesman. He has been married twice, first to Helen Menken and second to Mary Phillips. Divorced from both he is now said to be planning to marry Mayo Methot, another actress.

Bogart likes to talk and he talks very well but his gift for sarcasm is such that he piles up ill-will with almost every lengthy conversation. He is a contrary soul.

He doesn't like to do the things everybody is doing, read the books everyone is reading, or share the opinions the rest of the world seems to agree upon.

"The minute anything becomes the 'thing to do' I just automatically determine not to do it," he says. "It's not really premeditated. It's just a part of my disagreeable disposition showing up."

Here are some of things the young star finds he has not done because nearly everyone else has.

He has never read "Anthony Adverse," although he saw and enjoyed the picture. Neither has he read "Gone With the Wind" and he has no intention of ever reading it.

During all the years he lived in New York, first as a youngster and later as a frequently successful actor, he never—

Visited the aquarium or the Statue of Liberty.

Went to the top of the Empire State Building.

BOGART MAY NOT GET ALONG WELL WITH PEOPLE, BUT HE IS A REAL PAL TO HIS DOG, "BUTCH."

Saw "Abie's Irish Rose."

Had his photograph taken by Grant's Tomb.

Bogart is a little proud of that record, but there are still other things he hasn't done of seen or read:

He has never played Monoply.

He has never listened to Amos 'n' Andy.

He has never read the verses of Edgar Guest.

"To me," he says, "all these things come under the head of 'mass reading.' You do it because others do it and it has become the thing to do.

"If I had come across the aquarium all by myself, without ever hearing that I OUGHT to go to see it, I would have been enthusiastic about it.

"If I stumble on to a book on my own, unsolicited account, I enjoy it. But if I hear on all sides that it is something I should read, I dodge it like I would smallpox.

"The right of discovery is the sacred privilege of every man. I insist upon it.

"I want to conquer my own worlds—not those Errol Flynn has subdued before me, or says he has."

Errol Flynn, incidentally, is one of Bogart's particular antipathies. They get along well enough on the surface but Bogart doesn't like the tall tales told by and about Flynn. Once, when he was filling out a new biographical questionnaire, he listed as his accomplishments, all the adventures which Flynn had claimed in his original life story.

He is an accomplished liar in his own right, having told some dandies in Hollywood and perhaps he resents the fact that his tall tales are taken with a grain of salt while those told by Flynn are accepted as true by almost—if not quite—everybody.

"First of all," he reports, "I buy annuities when I can afford them, as often and as substantial as the old bank account will permit.

"Another method I have found useful," he continues, "is to make small deposits in many banks in different cities. Wherever I am, I start a savings account. There must be 40 of them. Eventually, of course, I lose the pass book and forget the name of the bank. The money is saved, even though I may never remember to draw it."

* * *

BOGART has other ways of "saving" money, too. He lists them as follows:

Buy no stocks on margin. "I got burned like a hundred million others on that," he says.

Swim in your bathtub instead of in your own swimming pool. This will, he believes, save the average actor at least $20,000. Bogart figures he has saved a quarter of a million dollars by NOT building swimming pools each place he has lived.

"I don't have the money, you understand," he says, "but I have the satisfaction of knowing I haven't spent it, either."

Keep away from night clubs. Bogart admits he has been a supporter of many such places, but he has a neat row of figures to prove how much better off he would be if he had never visited one of them.

Don't claim a golf handicap of seven when you have never shot within 15 of par. "The momentary pride you feel when you state your handicap is no compensation for the money you lose," he admits. "Big handicaps are big money savers."

Bogart seems a little uncertain as to just where his campaign of money saving is leading him. "I ought to be rich by now," he confesses, "but I'm not. However, I have the rent paid a month in advance."

Intelligence Tests Often Are in Error

They Are Limited Measure of Child's Mind—Teacher Better Judge.

By Angelo Patri

"MY SON is not getting on too well in school. He passes, but that is about all. He has little interest in school work, but he loves play. His teacher has told us that his I. Q. is low, 88. What do you do with a child whose I. Q. is as bad as that? He must have an education, but how is he to get it if he has such a poor mind?"

I am not so sure that he has a poor mind. Nobody is. A mind is not really measurable. An I. Q. is something like a temperature. If the child has a high temperature, we think he may be sick, and we call in the doctor. If the temperature is unusually high, we fear he is very sick indeed. Still, we have hopes that we can help him back to health, and we bend every effort to do so, the doctor helping; the nurse and the family doing their best in his cause. We never give up trying until the child is well or he passes beyond our keeping.

I feel much the same way about I. Q.'s. They may be accurate. They may not be. At their best, they reflect the state of mind of the child at a certain time, in a certain limited section of its activities. It is not possible to measure the whole of the child's mental being. Something—and that something covers a wide expanse of experiences—is left out of the process. One can get a reflection of an experience if a child has had it and one asks about it, but if the child has not had the experience, or if in his inexperience and ignorance he has not been able to interpret it, the response will be lacking and the failure is recorded against his power of intelligence. That may be right, but there is every possibility that it may be wrong.

What I am getting at is this: A child may get a low I. Q., and yet be an intelligent child, because the test did not measure his personal experiences. Or because the child was not in a condition to take the test. Or because the examiner did not know how to administer the test or because the test did not test what it was supposed to test. All these elements separately or in combination, may have entered into the situation and made the I. Q. the wrong answer.

* * *

I WOULD not take an I. Q., as the sole measurement of a child's mental ability. I would consider it as one factor to be counted, but I would want to balance it against the teacher's judgment of the child. I have found that when there was a question about the accuracy of the I. Q., the teacher's judgment was the nearer to the truth. The teacher lives with the pupil day by day and knows his strength and weakness. If she does not agree with the I. Q. it is best to wait and follow her judgment rather than act upon the test result.

One test does not decide the matter, nor one teacher's judgment. Make the tests over a period of years, take the judgments of teachers all along the line and watch the growth of the child. Never if you can possibly avoid doing so, allow a child to think that he has been weighed in the balance and found wanting. That is about the most crushing blow a child can suffer. Keep encouraging him, but keep the results to yourself beyond saying, "You did well, very well, pretty well," according to the truth.

The child who is actually defective needs no test to prove it. It is the doubtful children who need tests, and it is best to give them the benefit of the doubt, and the grace of the teacher's judgment.

COOK COOS

DE EDME AND COUNTESS ALMOST HAVE FIRST SPAT.

The Countess, exhausted, has fallen asleep after reciting heartbreaking details of how her wealthy father left her penniless—cut her off in his will—because she married the scheming captain, who arranged a false ceremony. Unable to pry money from her father, the captain disappears. She is now attempting to find a husband who will be a husband in name only—and de Edme is a candidate.

By COUNT DE EDME FRISBY.
(From his diary of 1891.)

As the Countess rested, with her head on my shoulder, I pondered her plight. My heart glowed with indignation and throbbed with anguish. A girl not yet in her thirties duped and then deserted—with a father's curse weighing upon her soul—left wretched and abased. And just think! Until she met the low-life, the heel-clicking captain, she had been a pampered prospective heiress.

I looked at her long lashes, her cheek, fresh as a peach. As I had a touch of lumbago even then, my shoulder began to ache from the weight of her head. I awakened her with smelling salts.

"Where am I?" she blinked, half awake.

"You're as snug as a bug in a rug," I said, reassuringly, "and it would make no never mind to me if you slept forever on my shoulder if it were not for my lumbago. Therefore I will have to ask you to straighten up and go on with your story. You said you were cut off in your pa's will. Then how did you get all the fine clothes you have on at this moment? Pardon my curiosity, but I am all ears."

"Well," she said, yawning, "if you will hold your horses we will cross that bridge when we come to it."

I though for a moment we were going to have our first spat. But no. In a moment she was fully awake, and bright as a dollar. I pinched her and she livened right up.

"Now," she said, "I will tell more. It was thus and so" . . .

CHAPTER FIVE.

I FELT something in my throat when my father told me God had called him. I wanted to weep over that boy who was my father—that free-souled lad who had longed for the sea, and who had been cast high and dry by conscience on the shoals of a village pastorate.

"But couldn't you have gone on with your law even if you were converted?"

"The call was for other things. It was your mother who prayed that I might be led to preach—and I loved her."

> SYNOPSIS:
> Jerry, young son of a country clergyman in modest circumstances, looks back upon his first romantic episode. As a boy of 12, he had kissed a young Italian girl. A few years later, Jerry goes to Washington for a brief visit with his wealthy uncle from Colorado. In a restaurant the boy sees Mimi Le Brun, a Senator's granddaughter of about 13, and she makes a deep impression on his young mind. Back home Jerry talks with his father about his uncle, who, as the boy observed on their Washington visit, enjoys life to the fullest.

It was hard for me to visualize my mother as moving a man romantically, as I was moved, for example, by the thought of the girl with the peacock feather. My mother was so cool and self-contained and colorless. Yet it seemed it had been her religious fervor which had swung my father from his worldly ambitions. She had prayed for him; had set before him the goal of consecration and self-sacrifice. Old-fashioned phrases! Yet you must remember that they were country folk, and that modern skepticism had not touched them. Even now I am not sure my mother was right to sway her lover from his first choice of a profession.

My father would have been himself under any circumstances—passionately idealistic, a force in the lives of those about him. Yet, right or not, I can see the fineness of it all—as I did not see it that night by the lake.

"Who knows what he may do? The house of your life is your own to build, Jerry. And you've got to live in it until the end. So look out for rotten timbers."

It was when we returned from our trip to the lake that we found a letter from Uncle Jerry which was to change in every way my future. He wanted, he said, to send me to college. Not as my father and mother had planned, to one of the cheap small colleges where I could help by my work to pay my way, but to Yale. He would meet all expenses, giving me, besides the cost of board and tuition, a generous allowance. I was his namesake, and what he had he would leave to me. The deal which he had tried to put over in Washington had been brought successfully to a finish. It would be fine to have a Jerome Chandler to carry on the name.

It is not difficult to imagine what this meant to me—emanicpation. In a moment the narrow life in the parsonage receded, and I saw myself sweeping out toward the broad seas of adventure.

I was flushed, excited. I read the letter twice aloud, "He says I am to have the ranch!"

"But not until he dies, Jerry."

• • •

THAT brought me up. I didn't want my uncle to die. Indeed, it seemed to me as if he ought to live forever, as if the red and white of him, his strength and vigor, gave him a sort of deathless immunity from the common lot.

"Well, of course," I stated. "I didn't mean that. But it is fine of him, isn't it?"

My father answered: "Very fine."

My mother was not so sure. "I don't know about it. Money is the root of evil."

"Well, the Bible doesn't say that."

"Aren't you glad to have me go to college, mother?"

"Yes, Jerry. But Yale, it's so far. And you've never been away from us."

I felt the grip of my father's fingers on my shoulders, and looking up into his face, I saw that he was deeply moved. I think he knew then that things would never again be with us as they had been; that when I left home the bond would be broken. And presently he said:

"I thank God that my boy is to be given the best. And I pray God that wherever he goes he may still be in our hearts."

I was thrilled by his emotion, and swayed by it. My voice broke. "There will never be anybody like you and mother — you know that!"

I learned in those first days in New Haven that I was not like most of the other students. I had come from simple people whose social horizon was bounded on one side by the Ten Commandments and on the other by my father's black coat. At Yale many of the men I met had been prepared at private schools, and had inherited traditions of family importance. There were others, too, who were rich and without traditions. But all of them had something that I did not have—a sort of sophistication which made me feel an outsider. Their attitude toward me was, I decided, somewhat like my own attitude toward the European immigrants in our town. They went their way, and I went mine.

• •

AND I was conscious always of my awkwardness, my lack of manner, the archaic quality of my ideals.

I was to know later that I had misjudged my classmates, that I might have won response had I been less self-conscious, but at the time I thought them snobs, and I kept to myself, watching them, however, with eager eyes, and wishing that I were like them.

I shall pass quickly over my first three years at college. The history of them is not different I fancy, from that of any boy who finds himself in an utterly new environment and has to adjust himself to it. I did some foolish things, and perhaps some wise ones. I loved books, so that in my studies I satisfied certain of my teachers, and I had great physical strength and endurance, which brought me conspicuously to the front in athletics.

Yet I had always that feeling of being an outsider until in my senior year I made a friend who changed the world for me. His name was Lionel Clark, and he lived in St. Louis. I had first been attracted to him when a theme of his was read in class. It was a short sketch of fur-trading in the early Middle West, and his pen had caught all the color and movement of the days when the Mississippi was a great highway. He wrote of trappers and priests, of Indians and of French gallants, of gay ladies transported from all the luxuries of aristocratic society to rough and primitive surroundings yet losing none of their elegance or insouciance in the process.

I walked beside him as we left the room. "That was a dandy writeup," I told him. "Is it all true?"

I had never spoken to him before. He was a dark, thin-faced lad, with a cool, bright glance and an ease of manner which marked him as one of the inner circle from which I was shut out.

Invitations to Luncheon for Sister-in-Law

How Cards Sent to Prospective Guests Should Be Worded.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

A FRIEND and I would like to give a large luncheon party at little tables, followed by bridge, in honor of my new sister-in-law, and we are not altogether sure about sending invitations. I have some of the folded cards similar to a visiting card, but my name alone appears on the face of these. However, we thought perhaps you might advise getting this same type of card printed with both our names on the front, and then if this is right, will you please suggest the wording? Also, there is one other confusing point. We would like to invite several good friends of my brother—the husband of the guest of honor. They do not know me very well and it is even possible that they may not recognize my recently-acquired married name. We are wondering, therefore, if we should have the cards printed "Anne Jones Blank" instead of "Mrs. Andrew Blank."

Answer: No. Your name should appear as Mrs. Andrew Blank. And since you have these cards, the name of the other hostess could be written under your own. On the inside write:

To meet
Mrs. John Brown Jr.
Luncheon and bridge
Sat., Dec. 13
At 1 o'clock
Place (if not at the address on face of card, or if there is none appearing).
R. s. v. p. (at lower left).

It will not be necessary to explain who you are though you can in any particular instance write (nee Mary Brown) under your name or beyond it. But since your reason for inviting them, and their chief reason for accepting, is that the party is given for Mrs. John Brown Jr., it is very simple, should anyone not recognize your name, to ask young Mrs. Brown who you are.

• • •

Dear Mrs. Post: At a recent church dinner we called upon the clergyman's wife to say grace. Her husband was not present or we would have called upon him, naturally. But now the question is being discussed as to whether it was not out of place to call upon a woman when there were men present.

Answer: It was quite natural to suppose that the clergyman's wife would be best prepared to ask grace, unless, one of the men present was a clergyman. To call upon a man not accustomed to saying grace might have embarrassed him greatly.

A Damp Chamois

Those cloudy streaks on the dark polished furniture can be removed by wiping with a chamois wrung out of cold water. Then polish with your usual furniture polish and the luster will be clear again.

Prevents Chapping.

Who Wants to Be Slave to a Pill Box?

Millions of people who used to be cathartic-slaves have found relief from common constipation—and from pills and purgatives, too! Keep "regular" as they do. Put back in your diet two of the NATURAL laxatives modern meals lack. Eat Kellogg's All-Bran.

All-Bran is better than most cathartics for keeping you "regular." It won't form a harmful habit. Instead, it gives your intestines two things they need for healthy movements:

First, All-Bran supplies "bulk"—it absorbs water and softens like a sponge. This water-softened mass aids elimination. Second, the intestinal-tonic vitamin "B1." Bran is a good source of this vitamin that tones up your intestinal tract and promotes elimination.

Kellogg's All-Bran is a crunchy, toasted cereal. Eat it with milk or cream and fruits. It also makes marvelous muffins, cookies, and other good things to eat.

But, however you eat it, use it REGULARLY. Follow this Daily Routine: eat two tablespoons of All-Bran and drink plenty of water. If you do this every day you can avoid common constipation and cathartics, too! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. At every grocer's.

White Fruit Cake

A delicious fruit cake for those who are not fond of the heavily spiced variety. One pound butter, 10 eggs, two cups granulated sugar, four cups flour, six ounces candied pineapple, eight ounces candied cherries, one cup chopped citron, eight ounces chopped pecans, two and one-fourth cups currants, four cups white raisins, one-third cup sherry. Cream butter and sugar and add yolks of eggs. Add dry ingredients, then fruit and nuts and finally the stiffly whipped whites of eggs. Turn into a greased Turk's head and bake in a temperature of 300 degrees from two to four hours.

COOK COOS

By Ted Cook

DE EDME AND COUNTESS ALMOST HAVE FIRST SPAT.

The Countess, exhausted, has fallen asleep after reciting heartbreaking details of how her wealthy father left her penniless—cut her off in his will—because she married the scheming captain, who arranged a false ceremony. Unable to pry money from her father, the captain disappears. She is now attempting to find a husband who will be a husband in name only—and de Edme is a candidate.

By COUNT DE EDME FRISBY.
(From his diary of 1891.)

As the Countess rested, with her head on my shoulder, I pondered her plight. My heart glowed with indignation and throbbed with anguish. A girl not yet in her thirties duped and then deserted—with a father's curse weighing upon her soul—left wretched and abased. And just think! Until she met the low-life, the heel-clicking captain, she had been a pampered prospective heiress.

I looked at her long lashes, her cheek, fresh as a peach. As I had a touch of lumbago even then, my shoulder began to ache from the weight of her head. I awakened her with smelling salts.

"Where am I?" she blinked, half awake.

"You're as snug as a bug in a rug," I said, reassuringly, "and it would make no never mind to me if you slept forever on my shoulder if it were not for my lumbago. Therefore I will have to ask you to straighten up and go on with your story. You said you were cut off in your pa's will. Then how did you get all the fine clothes you have on at this moment? Pardon my curiosity, but I am all ears."

"Well," she said, yawning, "if you will hold your horses we will cross that bridge when we come to it."

I though for a moment we were going to have our first spat. But no. In a moment she was fully awake, and bright as a dollar. I pinched her and she livened right up.

"Now," she said, "I will tell more. It was thus and so" . . .

CHAPTER FIVE.

I FELT something in my throat when my father told me God had called him. I wanted to weep over that boy who was my father—that free-souled lad who had longed for the sea, and who had been cast high and dry by conscience on the shoals of a village pastorate.

"But couldn't you have gone on with your law even if you were converted?"

"The call was for other things. It was your mother who prayed that I might be led to preach—and I loved her."

> SYNOPSIS:
> Jerry, young son of a country clergyman in modest circumstances, looks back upon his first romantic episode. As a boy of 12, he had kissed a young Italian girl. A few years later, Jerry goes to Washington for a brief visit with his wealthy uncle from Colorado. In a restaurant the boy sees Mimi Le Brun, a Senator's granddaughter of about 13, and she makes a deep impression on his young mind. Back home Jerry talks with his father about his uncle, who, as the boy observed on their Washington visit, enjoys life to the fullest.

It was hard for me to visualize my mother as moving a man romantically, as I was moved, for example, by the thought of the girl with the peacock feather. My mother was so cool and self-contained and colorless. Yet it seemed it had been her religious fervor which had swung my father from his worldly ambitions. She had prayed for him; had set before him the goal of consecration and self-sacrifice. Old-fashioned phrases! Yet you must remember that they were country folk, and that modern skepticism had not touched them. Even now I am not sure my mother was right to sway her lover from his first choice of a profession.

My father would have been himself under any circumstances—passionately idealistic, a force in the lives of those about him. Yet, right or not, I can see the fineness of it all—as I did not see it that night by the lake.

"I shall never preach, father."

"Who knows what he may do? The house of your life is your own to build, Jerry. And you've got to live in it until the end. So look out for rotten timbers."

It was when we returned from our trip to the lake that we found a letter from Uncle Jerry which was to change in every way my future. He wanted, he said, to send me to college. Not as my father and mother had planned, to one of the cheap small colleges where I could help by my work to pay my way, but to Yale. He would meet all expenses, giving me, besides the cost of board and tuition, a generous allowance. I was his namesake, and what he had he would leave to me. The deal which he had tried to put over in Washington had been brought successfully to a finish. It would be fine to have a Jerome Chandler to carry on the name.

It is not difficult to imagine what this meant to me—emanicpation. In a moment the narrow life in the parsonage receded, and I saw myself sweeping out toward the broad seas of adventure.

I was flushed, excited. I read the letter twice aloud, "He says I am to have the ranch!"

"But not until he dies, Jerry."

• • •

THAT brought me up. I didn't want my uncle to die. Indeed, it seemed to me as if he ought to live forever, as if the red and white of him, his strength and vigor, gave him a sort of deathless immunity from the common lot.

"Well, of course," I stated. "I didn't mean that. But it is fine of him, isn't it?"

My father answered: "Very fine."

My mother was not so sure. "I don't know about it. Money is the root of evil."

My father laughed. "Poverty is the root of evil, too, sometimes, Eleanor."

"Well, the Bible doesn't say that."

"Aren't you glad to have me go to college, mother?"

"Yes, Jerry. But Yale, it's so far. And you've never been away from us."

I felt the grip of my father's fingers on my shoulders, and looking up into his face, I saw that he was deeply moved. I think he knew then that things would never again be with us as they had been; that when I left home the bond would be broken. And presently he said:

"I thank God that my boy is to be given the best. And I pray God that wherever he goes he may still be in our hearts."

I was thrilled by his emotion, and swayed by it. My voice broke. "There will never be anybody like you and mother — you know that!"

I learned in those first days in New Haven that I was not like most of the other students. I had come from simple people whose social horizon was bounded on one side by the Ten Commandments and on the other by my father's black coat. At Yale many of the men I met had been prepared at private schools, and had inherited traditions of family importance. There were others, too, who were rich and without traditions. But all of them had something that I did not have—a sort of sophistication which made me feel an outsider. Their attitude toward me was, I decided, somewhat like my own attitude toward the European immigrants in our town. They went their way, and I went mine.

• •

AND I was conscious always of my awkwardness, my lack of manner, the archaic quality of my ideals.

I was to know later that I had misjudged my classmates, that I might have won response had I been less self-conscious, but at the time I thought them snobs, and I kept to myself, watching them, however, with eager eyes, and wishing that I were like them.

I shall pass quickly over my first three years at college. The history of them is not different I fancy, from that of any boy who finds himself in an utterly new environment and has to adjust himself to it. I did some foolish things, and perhaps some wise ones. I loved books, so that in my studies I satisfied certain of my teachers, and I had great physical strength and endurance, which brought me conspicuously to the front in athletics.

Yet I had always that feeling of being an outsider until in my senior year I made a friend who changed the world for me. His name was Lionel Clark, and he lived in St. Louis. I had first been attracted to him when a theme of his was read in class. It was a short sketch of fur-trading in the early Middle West, and his pen had caught all the color and movement of the days when the Mississippi was a great highway. He wrote of trappers and priests, of Indians and of French gallants, of gay ladies transported from all the luxuries of aristocratic society to rough and primitive surroundings yet losing none of their elegance or insouciance in the process.

I walked beside him as we left the room. "That was a dandy writeup," I told him. "Is it all true?"

I had never spoken to him before. He was a dark, thin-faced lad, with a cool, bright glance and an ease of manner which marked him as one of the inner circle from which I was shut out.

Millions of people who used to be cathartic-slaves have found relief from common constipation—and from pills and purgatives, too! Keep "regular" as they do. Put back in your diet two of the NATURAL laxatives modern meals lack. Eat Kellogg's All-Bran.

All-Bran is better than most cathartics for keeping you "regular." It won't form a harmful habit. Instead, it gives your intestines two things they need for healthy movements:

First, All-Bran supplies "bulk"—it absorbs water and softens like a sponge. This water-softened mass aids elimination. Second, the intestinal-tonic vitamin "B₁." Bran is a good source of this vitamin that tones up your intestinal tract and promotes elimination.

Kellogg's All-Bran is a crunchy, toasted cereal. Eat it with milk or cream and fruits. It also makes marvelous muffins, cookies, and other good things to eat.

But, however you eat it, use it REGULARLY. Follow this Daily Routine: eat two tablespoons of All-Bran and drink plenty of water. If you do this every day you can avoid common constipation and cathartics, too! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. At every grocer's.

Invitations to Luncheon for Sister-in-Law

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

A FRIEND and I would like to give a large luncheon party at little tables, followed by bridge, in honor of my new sister-in-law, and we are not altogether sure about sending invitations. I have some of the folded cards similar to a visiting card, but my name alone appears on the face of these. However, we thought perhaps you might advise getting this same type of card printed with both our names on the front, and then if this is right, will you please suggest the wording? Also, there is one other confusing point. We would like to invite several good friends of my brother—the husband of the guest of honor. They do not know me very well and it is even possible that they may not recognize my recently-acquired married name. We are wondering, therefore, if we should have the cards printed "Anne Jones Blank" instead of "Mrs. Andrew Blank."

Answer: No. Your name should appear as Mrs. Andrew Blank. And since you have these cards, the name of the other hostess could be written under your own. On the inside write:

To meet
Mrs. John Brown Jr.
Luncheon and bridge
Sat., Dec. 13
At 1 o'clock
Place (if not at the address on face of card, or if there is none appearing).
R. s. v. p. (at lower left).

It will not be necessary to explain who you are though you can in any particular instance write (nee Mary Brown) under your name or beyond it. But since your reason for inviting them, and their chief reason for accepting, is that the party is given for Mrs. John Brown Jr., it is very simple, should anyone not recognize your name, to ask young Mrs. Brown who you are.

• • •

Dear Mrs. Post: At a recent church dinner we called upon the clergyman's wife to say grace. Her husband was not present or we would have called upon him, naturally. But now the question is being discussed as to whether it was not out of place to call upon a woman when there were men present.

Answer: It was quite natural to suppose that the clergyman's wife would be best prepared to ask grace, unless, one of the men present was a clergyman. To call upon a man not accustomed to saying grace might have embarrassed him greatly.

White Fruit Cake

A delicious fruit cake for those who are not fond of the heavily spiced variety. One pound butter, 10 eggs, two cups granulated sugar, four cups flour, six ounces candied pineapple, eight ounces candied cherries, one cup chopped citron, eight ounces chopped pecans, two and one-fourth cups currants, four cups white raisins, one-third cup sherry. Cream butter and sugar and add yolks of eggs. Add dry ingredients, then fruit and nuts and finally the stiffly whipped whites of eggs. Turn into a greased Turk's head and bake in a temperature of 300 degrees from two to four hours.

SAHARA COAL

You enjoy the luxury of abundant heat when you burn Sahara Coal. The more severe the weather, the more you appreciate Sahara's tremendous heating power . . . heat that will rout bitter cold from your home, keeping the whole house cozy, comfortable and livable. And you pay no premium for this welcome heat, for Sahara is an economical coal.

Sahara heat is clean heat, too. Sahara Coal is washed and treated in a modern new processing plant to remove embedded impurities and to make it dustless. Its uniform sizing makes it easy to handle, and its fire-holding qualities make it easy to bank. For heating satisfaction with economy, you will like Sahara Coal. Certificate of Guarantee with every load.

MUSSOLINI DECLARES ITALY OUT OF LEAGU

DECISION HAD BEE ANTICIPATED

Country Estranged From Geneva Assembly Since Sanctions Were Imposed Because of Ethiopian Conquest.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Dec. 11. — Italy tonight announced its withdrawal from the League of Nations.

The announcement of Italy's decision to quit the league, from which it has been estranged since sanctions were applied because of the conquest of Ethiopia, was made to an enormous crowd packing the square outside the Palazzo Venezia.

Throughout the evening the throngs had been gathering in a heavy rain for the announcement which Premier Mussolini had told them would be "momentous."

(The telephone connection between London and Rome was broken immediately after the brief dispatch from the Associated Press Rcme Bureau announcing Italy's withdrawal from the League of Nations. London postoffice officials said the delay wouyld be indefinite.)

It was reported that the council had been called also to further open intervention in the Spanish civil war, because of the supposed displeasure of Premier Mussolini over the present stalemate between insurgent and Government forces in Spain.

Twenty-six high lords of Fascism who make up the council were called to the conference under the chairmanship of Mussolini at his official residence, Palazzo Venezia. A guard of honor was ordered to bear the fasces, Fascism's symbol borrowed from Roman antiquity, in the fanfare opening the meeting.

WOMAN CASHIER AT THEATER SHOT IN CHICAGO ROBBERY

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—A fast-working robber shot and seriously wounded Miss Jean Riley, cashier, in a holdup of the Windsor Theater, on the North Side, last night. The theater attracts considerable patronage from the Gold Coast.

Miss Riley, who is 23 years old, was on substitute duty for the night and alone in the small cage in front of the theater lobby proper when the robber came up.

"Give me your money," he demanded. Then he fired without further warning, and, reaching in, took $56 in receipts. He ran to a waiting car containing two confederates and they sped north.

She was taken to the Henrotin Hospital. Physicians found the bullet had struck her below the heart and coursed downward. She was given a blood transfusion.

LAWYER-SHEIK KILLED BY BULLET IN PALESTINE

By the Associated Press.

HAIFA, Palestine, Dec. 11.—Sheik Mahmud el Khatib, lawyer and member of a family opposed to the Husseinis, was shot and killed here today. A constable accompanying him was wounded. The assailant escaped.

The Husseinis are Arab followers of Amin el Husseini, the Moslem Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, now believed to be in hiding in Syria.
